Good G. Highley

Scott (For both?)

pretty good. Especially when you tried to act big and put me. You're such a little! Have a lot of patience! I'll see you next year... I must say.

Your friend,
Lynn

Scott,
Geometry sucked, but the class was still pretty fun. Maybe next year we'll have more classes together with cool teachers. Have a good summer and stay cool. Have a great life!
Sater

Scott,
HEY HEY HEY
Chicken Fried let.
What's up slim.
Get some trim.
Have a great summer and I hope you go to football camp and

Scott, I didn't know for that long. You're really cool. Don't stop 4WD in your mom's jeep and wreck in life. Stay the good over the summer. Pete Bamber p.2

Scott,
It's been really cool sitting next to you in Geometry. I don't think I would have passed this class without all your Math knowledge. I guess we'll be seeing each other on August 12. J.V. is going to be tough but you'll be a big Varsity man. Have a awesome Summer.
Your friend,
Mike

Scott,
Well captain Hutto, the years over. We've come a long way since 6th grade, and I can't say it's been worth it. and because I like some punk and to annoy you and "Mike" - Punk -
Take it easy

Scott, (spot)
It was fun having you in 6th period this year, even though the class was a pain. Too bad you were only in one of my bad classes. Maybe next year we can be in a couple of classes. Good luck in your football career (Ha!) Try to lose a little weight over the summer. (Just kidding) stay cool!!
Joe

Scott,
So it was english this year and not math. It seemed that the only fun the teacher had was telling you, me or Robert Brooks to shut up, but that's alright. So next year will be juniors, boy it sure does seem to be going fast. Be sure to have a great summer before you have to sweat it out for football (varsity) and I hope to see you next year.
P.S. Maryland all the way. Robert Reed

Scott has been meeting Robert with you. Have a great summer. Enjoy the summer. Love Always

The smiles of these freshmen show the feelings felt by all after a long day at school.

These two Seniors proudly display the decorations in their locker. Often a locker is one's pride and joy, and over the months becomes a home away from home.

Dear friends!!

This is probably my final farewell to you all. I want you to know how much fun I have had here for the past four years. You know, I was just looking over the old pictures, reminiscing.

Do you remember the Freshman orientation in August before our first year of high school had started?! I remember being so amazed how huge this school was, and you guys were so impressed with the bigger lockers. You'd said that you would decorate your lockers with . . . as soon as school starts. We all were so excited! Finding our ways around school was as much fun as it was embarrassing!

"Bruce", music, and men in general are the popular themes in girls' lockers.

Kirsten Fix is one of several students and teachers that dressed up in the spirit of Halloween.

Spirit had become somewhat of a tradition here with the wild and spirited Cougars, the maroon and gold banners, the pep-rally, the homecoming game, the homecoming dance, the crowning of the Queen, etc. . . . We were so excited with our first pep-rally that we lost our voices the very next day. The crowd at the football game revealed the unity that existed among the students. They We all made friends here. The people were so friendly and courteous. They always had smiles on their faces. Eventually, we didn't feel so small inside this huge school. You know, with all the people that came and went, I'm so glad that we all stuck together. You guys are true friends!!!

Seniors gathered together at the same spot on the bleachers, during the fall pep rally, to show class spirit and unity.

Is this really Paul Hoffman, sophomore wonder of the Boy's Cross Country team? The make-over was performed in the hotel the night the team spent in Williamsburg for an invitational the next day.

Principal Mr. Don Jones does the honors of crowning the Homecoming Queen, Kim Strong, during halftime at the game.

Important time is spent after school making plans for that night's partying events.

Friends gather after sixth period in the parking lot to share the day's events.

Marc Johnson, one of the privileged Seniors who drives to school, is ready to go home.

Heather Kirby, Shannon Elder, and Margret Kivlen spend a memorable week-end "punking out" at a costume Birthday party.

Tests and exams were somewhat an aggravation, but we all took a deep breath and exhaled as the weeks rolled into the weekends. Weekends marked a time for relaxation and fun. Even though school was out, we never ceased to run into the gangs of OHS, whether it was at parties, shopping centers, or fast food restaurants.

D.R. Carlson, David Houston and Bill Stanley are ready for their Crest check-up.

I especially want to remember all the time we've spent together and the memories we have shared. We have pulled each other through the long weeks, and have been there to celebrate on the week-ends. These past years at Oakton have taught us to maintain responsibility, yet also to have fun, and most of all to cherish our friends. Growing up was what we all experienced, and this place was a major contributor. To all of you, the very best life can offer in the future. To all the underclassmen, your year(s) ahead will be exciting!!!

Good friends gather in the OHS parking lot after school, glad to be out and going home.

Debbie Dimlich, Lisa Say, Lyn Davis and Susan Strait sit on MV's dad's Lincoln, waiting for a ride.

Displaying extraordinary skill and courage, Lisa Walker arrives at school on her surf board.

STUDENT

Summer Fun

As the school year drew to a close there was only one thought on everyone's mind SUMMER. The thoughts of beaches, concerts, and endless sleep were the only things that pulled many of us through that trying week of final exams. The more the tension and frustration mounted the bigger our summer calendars grew.

Many reserve that first week of summer for the annual "Senior Beach Week" in Ocean City. Those who did not vacate town immediately buried their alarm clocks and slept in; basked in the sun at the pool; or just relaxed and enjoyed the freedom. The ambitious among us searched for summer jobs to earn the cash for a late week at O.C.

The most popular activities of last summer were soaking up sun on the beach with a friend, rockin' at concerts, fighting for space on the Fourth to hear the Beach Boys, standing on lines at Kings Dominion, endless strings of parties, and of course meeting a new guy or gal.

The magic of summer lasts only a brief two and a half months. The end of August crept up on us, emotions were mixed. That treasured freedom was coming to an end, replaced by the rigors of another school year. Memories were stored to be cherished forever.

... And for others there was yachting in the Caribbean.

Thad Kezar and Larry Jones show their enthusiasm.

By the end of the day these seniors had as much paint on them as the bleachers.

The group has finally gathered for the annual bleacher painting.

After painting each other, Todd Wilkowski and Maryam Soroush continued on the bleachers.

Pam Wimberly is ready to paint anything in her path.

A New Face Lift

Painting With Class

As the summer drew to an end, and the new school year stared us in the face, the upcoming seniors got together to give the home bleachers a fresh coat of paint. It was the first senior activity of the year.

People arrived in the morning, paint brushes in hand, wearing old T-shirts, cut-offs, and painters caps. Bill Stanley, class president, was in charge of the project and was promptly faced with one problem . . . no money to buy paint! Each student generously donated a dollar or two and the painting was soon under way. As they decorated the bleachers the Seniors listened to the Cars, Billy Idol, and Bruce Springsteen, and shared jokes. By the end of the afternoon the bleachers proudly stated, "Class of 85."

Students were disappointed to return and find that the former Seniors had left their mark on the freshly painted bleachers. The "Class of 85" was covered with yellow footprints! Once again the painters returned wearing their painting outfits, to repair the damage. This time the cost was covered by the Senior class fund which was later reimbursed by the vandals. The painters added their initials, nicknames, and favorite sayings, and once again when they finished the whole group was wearing almost as much paint as the bleachers.

Thad Kezar gets mean.

The whole gang poses after a fun job well done.

The class of '85 shows their spirit.

Spirit Explosion

Guys in greased hair, gals in poodle skirts; students in red, white, and blue outfits; nerds with horn-rim glasses and briefcases; and students dressed in burgundy and gold filled the school with exploding spirits during the week of October the ninth through the twelfth.

Tuesday was fifties day. Gals bopped into classes in their poodle skirts, bobby socks, saddle shoes, and pony tails. Some wore their dad's letterman sweaters. The guys demonstrated their utmost "coolness" with their tough leather jackets, white T-shirts, faded blue jeans, and grease oozing from their hair.

On Wednesday, patriotism exploded as students came dressed in red, white, and blue. Some regarded this day as dedicated to Bruce Springsteen . . . "Born in the USA." In any case, the day was devoted to the pride in America.

Then, the nerds summoned up the courage to escape from the dark closets, the hidden corners of the library and the math wing. Thursday was a bop's worst nightmare, Nerd Day. The slide rules and calculators were out in full force. Outfitted in a pair of highwater polyester pants, high-buttoned oxford and plaid bowtie, a typical Eugene was seen scurrying off to class after forfeiting his milk money. He tripped up the stairs, spilling his books from his briefcase and his pencils from his over loaded shirt pocket. Oh, the frustration of nerdhood!

Unfortunately, the real Titans were not as easy to conquer as this one from the Junior float.

"Give me back my slide rule!" squeaks D. J. Rochford III who has been looking forward to nerd day for some time.

Finally, Friday was school's colors day — burgundy and gold. The cheerleaders did an excellent job of decorating the school arriving at 7:00 pm and leaving at 10:30 pm. The effort that was put into the decoration showed the tremendous spirit and participation of the school.

For a week, students enjoyed the fun, the unity, and the memorable time!

Chris "Dexter" Harper is looking his best in hopes of asking that special girl to the Homecoming dance.

The pride of the Cougars — the Marching Band waits to give what was an outstanding halftime performance.

The Cougar Corps shone brightly among the crowd in a field of burgundy and gold.

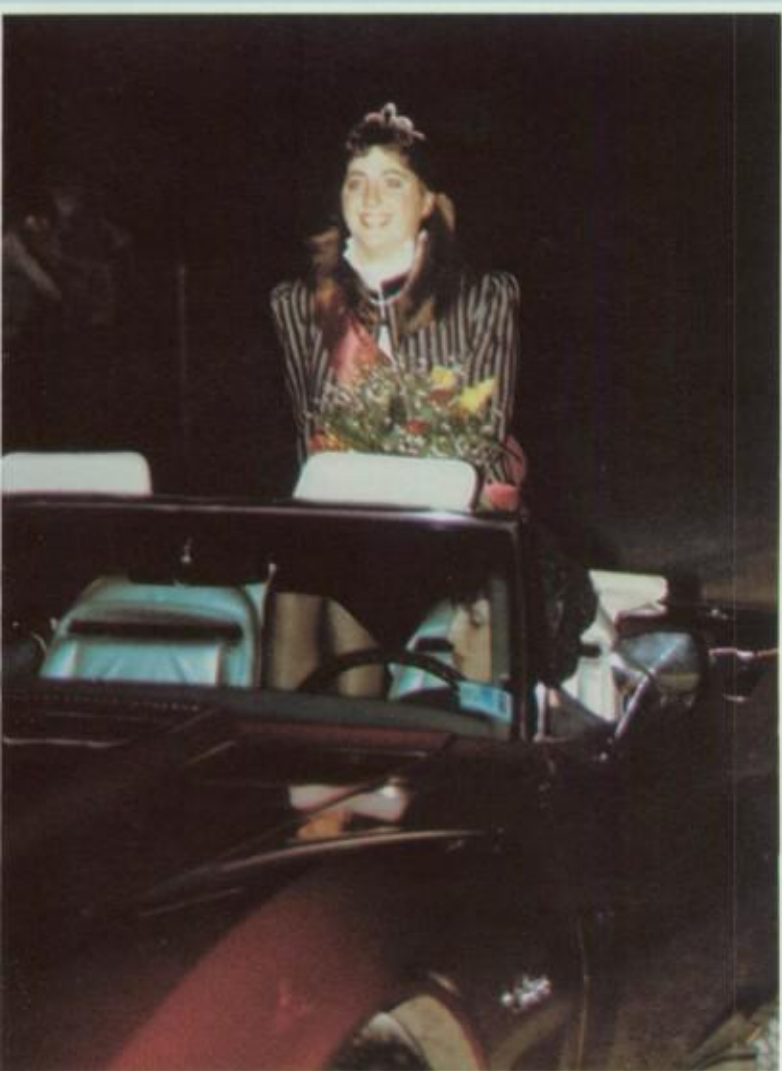

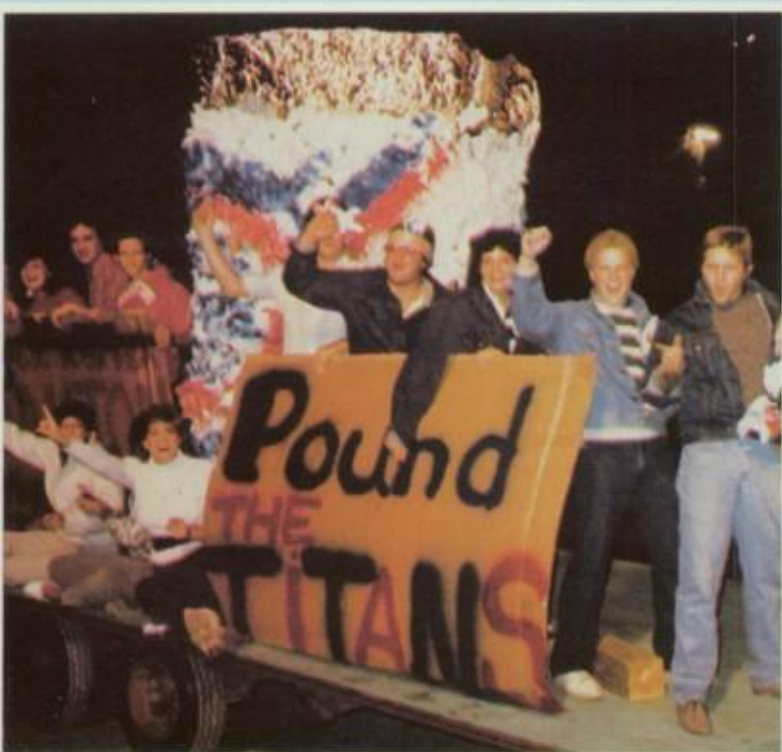

Homecoming Highlights

"Go, win, fight-fight! Help our team win tonight!" The cheerleaders ran onto the football field in high spirits. The homecoming football game was played on October 12 against T.C. Williams. As the students walked up the steps to the bleachers, they were greeted by the JV and Freshman cheerleaders who were selling homecoming programs. The crowd was rowdy and excited.

Coach Herb and the Varsity Football Team had put in many hours of hard, tiresome practice. They were faced with tremendous pressure, but their spirits were running high.

During halftime, the spectators enjoyed a routine performed by the Drill Team. They danced to songs by Prince and The Cars.

The senior float while a spirited interpretation of the theme failed to win a prize for obvious reasons.

Commemorating the U.S. space program, the winning Junior float was well received by the crowd.

The Marching Band, directed by Cheryl K. Newton, along with the Drum Majors marched onto the field to the music entitled "Fugue and Fantasia" by Bach, "All Night Long" by Lionel Richie, and "McArthur Park." "Stars and Striped Forever" concluded the performance.

Next, the Homecoming floats were driven around the track by the classes. The theme for all float entries was "America the Beautiful." All four classes and DECA participated in the contest. The winning prize was awarded to the Junior Class for being most decorative and creative.

Crowning of the Homecoming Queen was as important as the game itself. The princesses were driven around the track in Corvettes for the crowd to see. Then they were escorted onto the field by their fathers. They were all waiting for the announcement of who would be crowned 1984 Homecoming Queen. Kim Strong received the crown and flowers presented by the Principal, Donald Jones.

Although the game ended with a loss of 0-28, the support and participation demonstrated by students made the Homecoming festivities one of the most successful and memorable events of the year.

To keep in the spirit with the students, Mrs. Walsh searched the dark recesses of her closet to emerge as a typical nerd.

After receiving her crown and bouquet, Homecoming Queen, Kim Strong, was driven once more around the field to receive congratulations from the spectators.

Guys and Dolls

Oakton High sets the scene for the New York musical "Guys and Dolls." A musical that was carried out under the able direction of Denise Nuzum Perrino. Christopher Azzara directed the symphonic orchestra that enhanced the timeless score and music. The Aionos Players brought in the huge crowd the Drama Department had been accustomed to in the past.

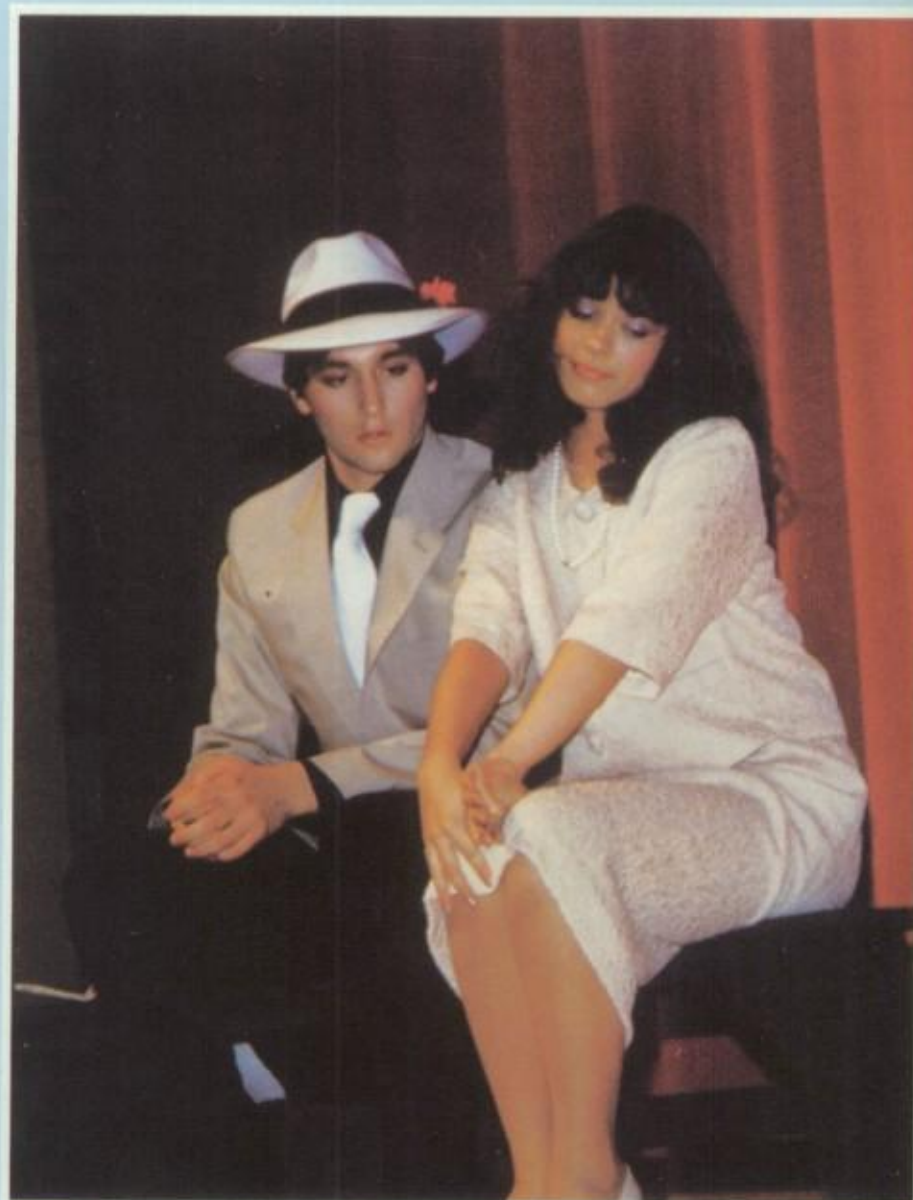

The cheerful play revolves around the story of Nathan Detroit (David Rizzo) who is trying to set up a floating crap game along with the help of his friends, Nicely Nicely Johnson (Aaron Young), Benny South Street (David Grove), and Rusty Charlie (James Dykes). Nathan runs into difficulty with thugs Harry the Horse (D. R. Carlson), and Big Jule (Rick Fitzgerald), as well as his loud-mouthed fiancé of twelve years, Miss Adelaide (Colleen Sudduth) who is a dancer with the beautiful girls of the Hot Box Revue. Nathan bets ultra-high roller Sky Masterson (Todd MacGregor) $1000 that he can't get a date with Sister Sarah from the Salvation Army (Kathy Kwon). The play ends happily with a double wedding and a host of friendly New Yorkers and loveable thugs singing the title song in the rousing finale.

The cast and crew spent many long hours in rehearsals after school and on weekends. Their dedication showed in their performance. The audience responded to the play with well earned applause for a job well done.

Kathy Kwon plays hard-to-get with Todd McGregor.

Lori Smith added sparkle to the dance company.

As The Excitement Built...

... Shouts and laughter echoed throughout Oakton. It was September 7, and the first pep rally of the year was here. Mr. Duffner, the emcee for the afternoon handed the microphone over to the proud coaches of the football, field hockey, golf, girl's tennis and cross country teams. Mr. Alexander provided a highlight of the afternoon, introducing the cross country team in his own inimitable style. With the recognition of each of the fall sports teams the cheerleaders created an atmosphere of excitement that lasted through the opening game of the season against Madison. The drill team built on that excitement with a debut performance to "Blue Monday" which was well received by the crowd. Each class got into the act, cheering on their school as well as themselves. The Juniors edged out the Seniors and were awarded the coveted "Spirit Stick" to cap off the day and lead on to the season ahead.

The cheerleaders, drill team, and athletes were not alone in their efforts — Marching Band pulls together for the great year ahead.

Here's what all the cheering is about — togetherness.

The people that make it all happen — us!

Beauty, Brains, Brilliance...

... the major attributes of all twenty-three contestants, competing for the title of "1984 Miss Oakton." On a dazzling night of excitement, the contestants' emotions ranged anywhere from "happy and excited", to "nervous!" On this night, the contestants and their families showed visible happiness and pride.

The pageant was a huge success. The scores of the competition were extremely close. In fact, the judges selected six girls instead of the traditional five in the talent competition.

The evening was made enjoyable thanks to our Master of Ceremony, Michael Duffner. Mr. Duffner not only familiarized the audience with the contestants and procedures, but also relieved the tensions for both the audience and the contestants with his sense of humor.

The pageant commenced with personal introductions by the contestants. Hobbies, goals, and future plans were told. Exotic varieties of sportswear were then modeled as the contestants walked back and forth on stage. The varieties included jogging, scuba-diving, boxing, ice-hockey, camel-racing and safari hunting to name just a few. This was followed by the musical performance, "A Tribute to Broadway," that delighted the audience while demonstrating the girls' poise and physical fitness at the same time. Next in line was the talent show where only the six chosen performed their perfected skills. An intermission was then given in order that the contestants may change into their evening gowns and get ready to walk onto stage, with escorts, when the pageant resumed.

The highlight of the pageant was the crowning of the new Miss Oakton 1984, Colleen Sudduth.

Colleen Sudduth, who took the "Miss Oakton" title makes her impression on the crowd.

Prom Fashion Show Pizzazz

With the arrival of spring, everyone anticipated warm weather, prom and graduation. In the spirit of the up-coming prom, the students put on a fashion show in the auditorium to display their favorite attire for the special occasion. Members of the prom-committee and other students modeled during all lunches. Students who came and watched were enthusiastic about the fashion show. The crowd was awed by the gorgeous gowns and formal tuxedos that were displayed. The formality of the show was highlighted as John Brody walked across the stage in boxer shorts, instead of pants, with his tuxedo jacket, of course.

Scrambled Eggs

When can you drop an egg at OHS and not get sent home for three days? Only at the annual physic department "Egg Drop" contest. The event took place from atop the bleachers on Thursday, May 3rd. Students were assigned the task of creating a container that would protect their raw egg from becoming scrambled after plummeting 10 meters to the field below.

Lauren Gregory proudly presents her whole egg. Due to her ingenious invention the egg survived the 7 meter drop.

A second period physics class leans anxiously over the railing to see which eggs hit the bulls-eye below.

Students arrived with a variety of contraptions — gliders — parachutes — and bouncers. The sought after rewards were A's. The first A went for an acceptable design (standards were high), the second most coveted A went to the eggs left unscrambled.

A physics teacher who will remain nameless brought his guaranteed-not-to-fail container for a demonstration. He released it as students watched with anticipation — Splat! One more bit the dust.

Mr. Fagan measures distance an egg is from the center. The egg closest to the middle that isn't broken wins the contest.

Charles Caputo tries out his homemade egg-diver, hoping it survives.

Godspell

The play "Godspell" is based on biblical lessons depicting man's constant inner struggle with the forces of good and evil.

There were six performances for the English classes to attend on March 2nd. Some of those who saw the play did not catch the full meaning of "Godspell" since the ideas are abstract in nature. However, the energy exhibited on the stage captured everyone's attention. The colorful costumes had been designed by the performers themselves.

Many students tried out for parts thus making the competition stiff. The audition was two-fold: a monologue reading and dancing. When final cuts were made, Mrs. Perrino had selected the first all upperclassmen cast in Oakton history. Rehearsals were every day after school from 2:00 to 5:30 for one month.

"Godspell" was enjoyed by the audience. It showed the wide range of talent and dedication of all those involved.

The "Godspell" cast gave a musical performance that was led by Todd MacGregor and Colleen Sudduth in their dazzling apparel.

Emphasizing an important purpose in the play, D. R. Carlson, Rick Fitzgerald and David Rizzo try to understand the will of God.

Body movement and physical expression carried the Godspell cast through all their scenes.

Tradition Of Recognition

Finally the rings arrived. Immediately, the halls were swarming with juniors in trance-like joy. Skipping lunch to get their rings first, the juniors rushed to Oakton Hall where the rings were being distributed. They chatted excitedly over the rings costing anywhere from $50 to $200.

By tradition the number of times a ring is to be turned is determined by the year of graduation. This year, the juniors had their ring turned 85 times, saving the last time for a very special person. The tradition of turning the ring adds more ceremony and meaning to the owner. Some schools have a "ring turning ceremony" where cards are given out so that the names of those turning can be listed consecutively. For most Juniors having a class ring means the recognition of graduation and being an upper classman.

Of course not every junior was satisfied. The rings were either too big or slightly small, or else the engraving of the school's initials was incorrect. For those who needed to resize or reorder their rings, the representative of the Josten Ring Company was at Oakton a week later to take those special orders. Nevertheless, these special defects did not deter or reduce the excitement of the juniors or properly stated the "rising seniors."

Students display unity to Oakton High School with their rings.

Kathleen Warren, Nicole Bradly, and Elizabeth Bowen are excited about the ring turning tradition.

Rick Tomlin and Mike Volk exchange views on finger sizes.

On The Campaign Trail

"Finally the Right Choice, Vote for Lama Qubain", "Don't be a squid Vote for Heidi Berg," "You can't go wrong with Ji Kong." "Vote, vote, vote!"

These were few of the many different campaign slogans that occupied the once-clean walls of the school. Over 25 students who were interested in running for a class or student government office, submitted declarations of intent. The race was on.

The campaign began with various posters, fliers, banners, and buttons. Not one single hall was left untouched by the candidates, handbills littered the halls and even the classrooms. Some of these candidates were inspired by the National Presidential Campaign, others believed that this was a great opportunity to demonstrate their leadership qualities and to assist the school at the same time. All candidates anticipated a close race, if not a victory.

While the candidates were busy campaigning, the Student Government Cabinet worked behind the scenes, preparing for the up-coming election. Tremendous responsibilities were placed on the Student Government Cabinet for the preparation and distribution of ballots and the monitoring of poll machines. The candidates, the Student Government Cabinet, and the voters helped transform our school into a political arena.

As the election day approached, campaigning intensified among the rival candidates. On election day, March 27, 1984, each student made his/her decision on his/her candidates. Over 700 students cast their vote. The races were tight but the victors rose triumphantly over the others as the election finally came to an end. Congratulations were exchanged among the candidates. For the winners, this was the day of victory and the beginning of a promising political career.

Roy Thigpen helps to promote candidate, Heidi Berg.

Not a single hall of the school was without a campaign poster.

Students Study Abroad... At Home

Good food, ethnic cultural exchange, skits, songs, and dances were all a part of the first annual Foreign Language Fair, held in Oakton Hall on Monday, March 19, 1984. After presenting a passport, students entered a transformed Oakton Hall colorfully decorated with travel posters. The aroma of unusual foods permeated the air. To purchase the food students exchanged their money for foreign currency. Madame Laine deserves much of the credit for coordinating the affair and making this enjoyable for all who attended.

Spring Fever Strikes Again

How could you skip two hours of school without getting caught? Easily, if you attended the Oakton May Fair. Where else were you able to get married without your parents' consent, pig-out on junk food without looking like a fool, see break-dancers perform without going to New York, or get a tan without going to the beach... except at the Oakton May Fair held on the football field.

Organized by the French Club, wedding certificates were sold to students for 50 cents. The price included witnesses, bridal bouquet, and wedding bells.

With three balls for 25 cents, everyone with a sweet tooth had a chance to win a bag of cookies by hitting the mark just once. This test of skill was sponsored by the Softball Organization. Balloons popped as students tried to win hugs and kisses. Twenty-five cents bought darts, from DECA, for this test of skills.

Cheerleaders sold "the best snow cone in town" for only 50 cents. Over-sized lollipops could be had from the J.V. cheerleaders. Several organizations sponsored the other food booths that lined the field.

Music filled the air as the bands "XL", "Free Beer", "Mixx", and "High Jinx" performed. Ending the day's entertainment were "The Mechanical Wizards", O.H.S. first break-dancing group.

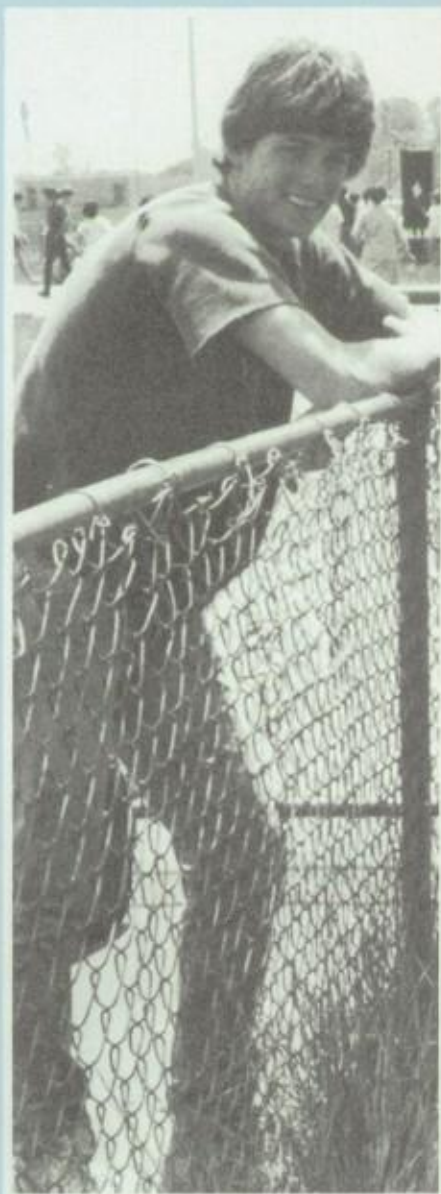

Hopefully when spring fever strikes again next year the fun filled event will equal or surpass this year's activities.

What is a Friend?

A friend is not a person who will only share the good times with you. Any person will come to a party or go to the game with you. Anyone will discuss clothes, music, boy or girl friends. A friendship is not superficial but one of substance.

A friend will not betray your confidence nor will a friend talk behind your back. The information you share together is a trust that is between you and your friend. A friend will tell you if you make a mistake and will help you correct it. She or he will not judge you but will help you and remain your friend.

A friend really cares about you. A friend wants the very best for you life has to offer. A friend can't be envious or jealous for the good things you get he or she wants for you. A friend wants for you the very things you want yourself. It is easy to talk about friendship but the real task is not to talk about friendship but to learn about friendship by being a good friend. To have a really good friend is to be a good friend.

art

The many talents of the Oakton High School art students have surfaced and blossomed under the able guidance of Mrs. Jacobs and Mrs. Mast. Examples of this talent can be seen during the annual art exhibit and on a more frequent basis in the hallways of Oakton. The art students take their work seriously and anyone who has taken an art course at Oakton knows that these classes are not a vacation. This does not mean that the classes are not interesting or diversified.

The art students learn to express time, light, motion, space, and the senses in paintings, drawings, sculptures, graphics and art crafts. They study art history and art appreciation and develop their own individual styles. Art 3 and Art 4 students arrange an art show of their own work. One of the highlights for future Art majors was the visit of art personnel from

V.C.U. and the Maryland College of Art.

The Commercial Art students learn basic layout and design techniques used in advertising art and how to prepare artwork for production. Projects include poster design, illustration, lettering textile, and logo design using various media. Some specialty fields such as fashion illustration and cartoons are also included. The Commercial Art students went on an interesting field trip to the graphics department of Atlantic Bell which included a tour of Atlantic Bell's beautiful facility.

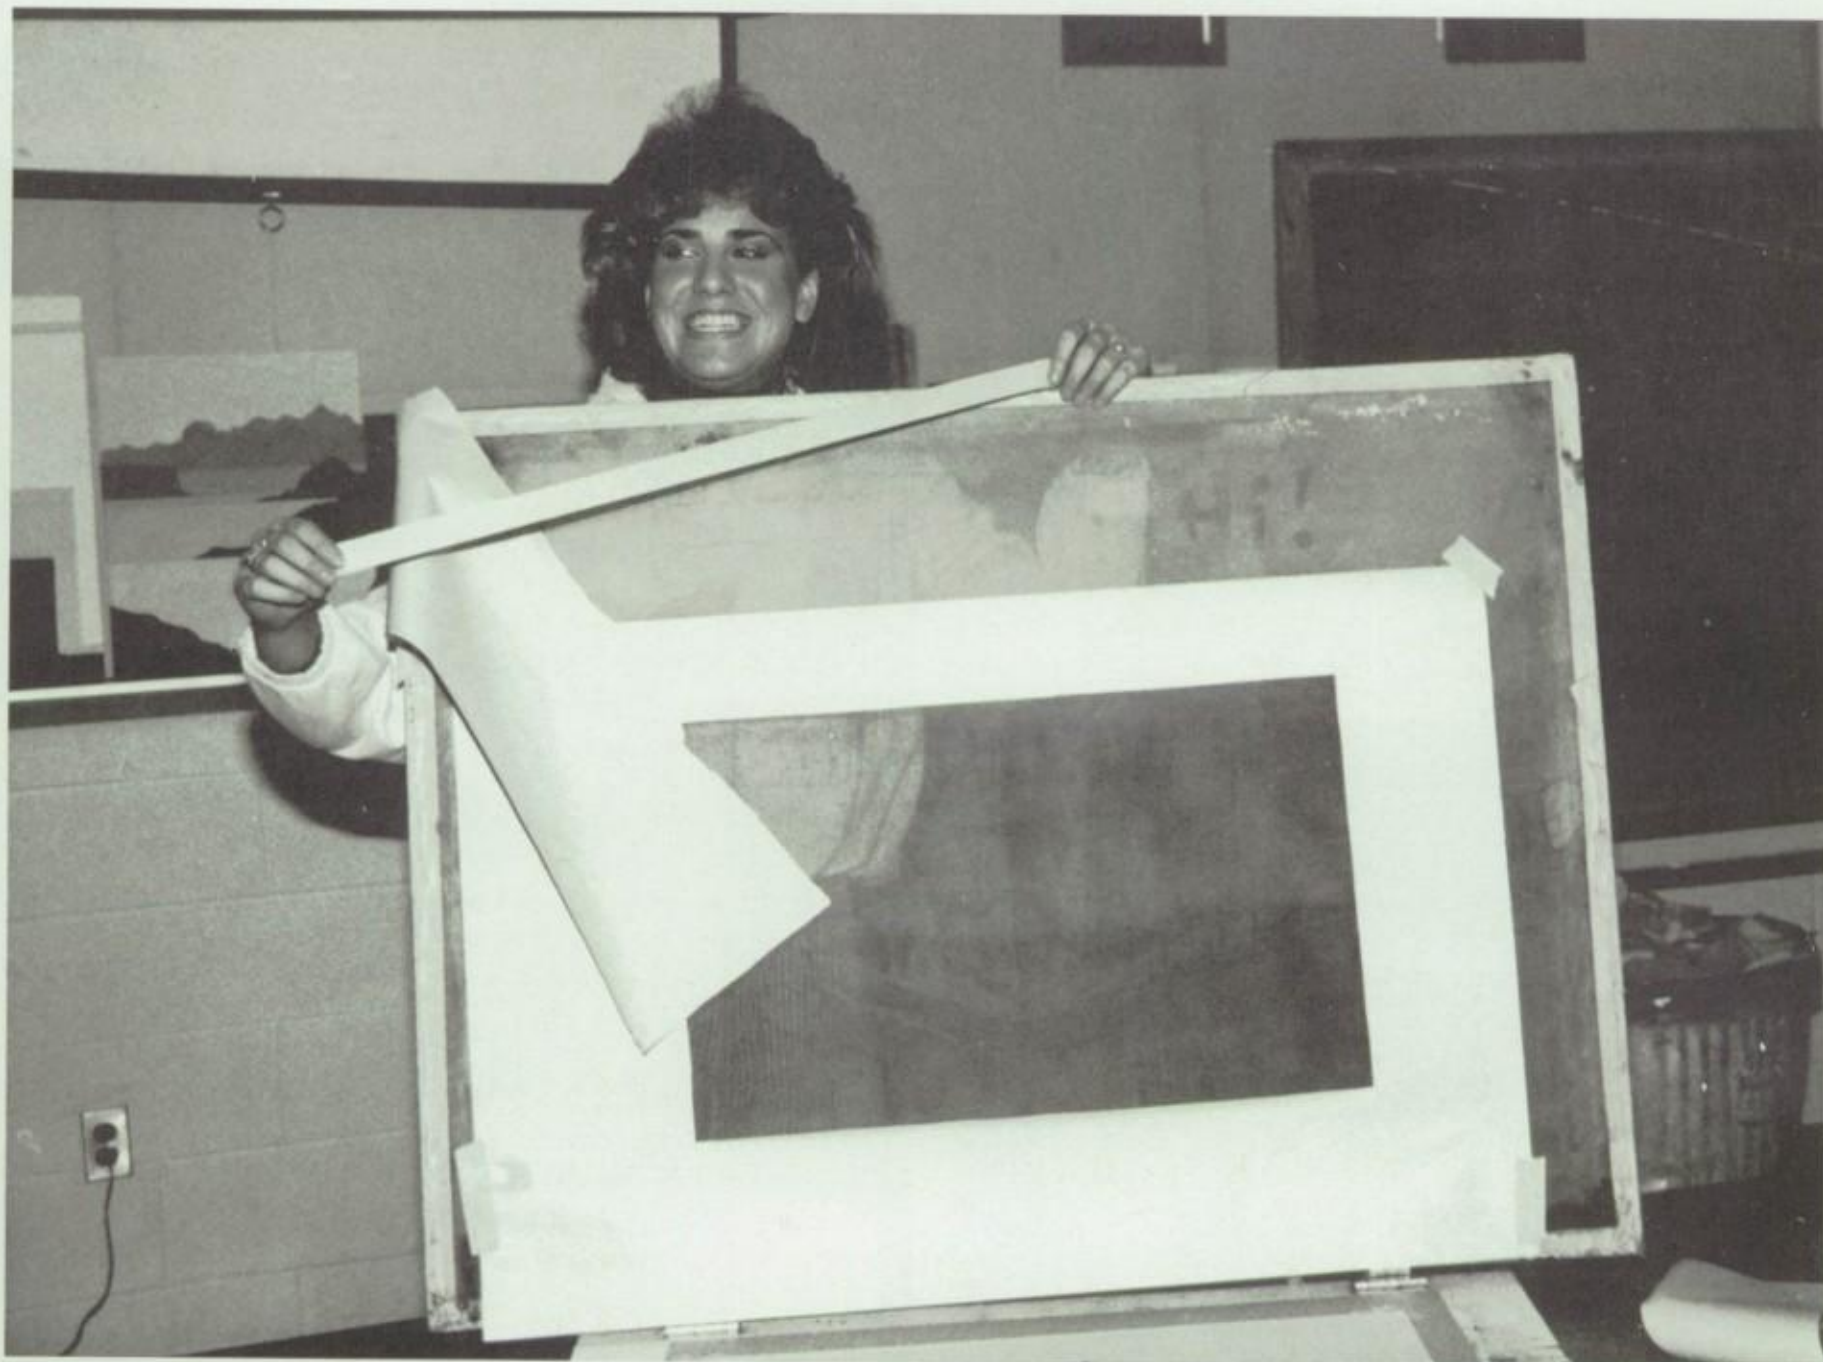

Mrs. Jacobs and Mrs. Mast expect their students to perform to the best of their ability. This expectation may be a prerequisite in developing future artists and designers of renown. Keep your eyes open and read your newspapers, you never know when one of these talents may make it big.

Business

Type??? Didn't you know that the future belongs to those who can type. It's even hard to make it through high school without this valuable skill . . . have you noticed that teachers seem to put higher grades on all those neatly typed papers or that they forgive TYPO'S because you made the effort to make the paper easier for them to read. Yes, typing is your key to the future, and OHS's business department is the place to learn.

Once you have mastered the basics you can move into such fields as word processing, data processing, and business law to name just a few. This year the school purchased computers so students can learn on the latest equipment. There is nothing out dated about this department or the skills to be learned here. Mrs. Stepp and her staff have made sure of that.

Eye contact is necessary to be able to copy information effectively.

Anita Rodriguez, Michelle Sargent and Mike Geoly await anxiously for the grade on their test from last Friday

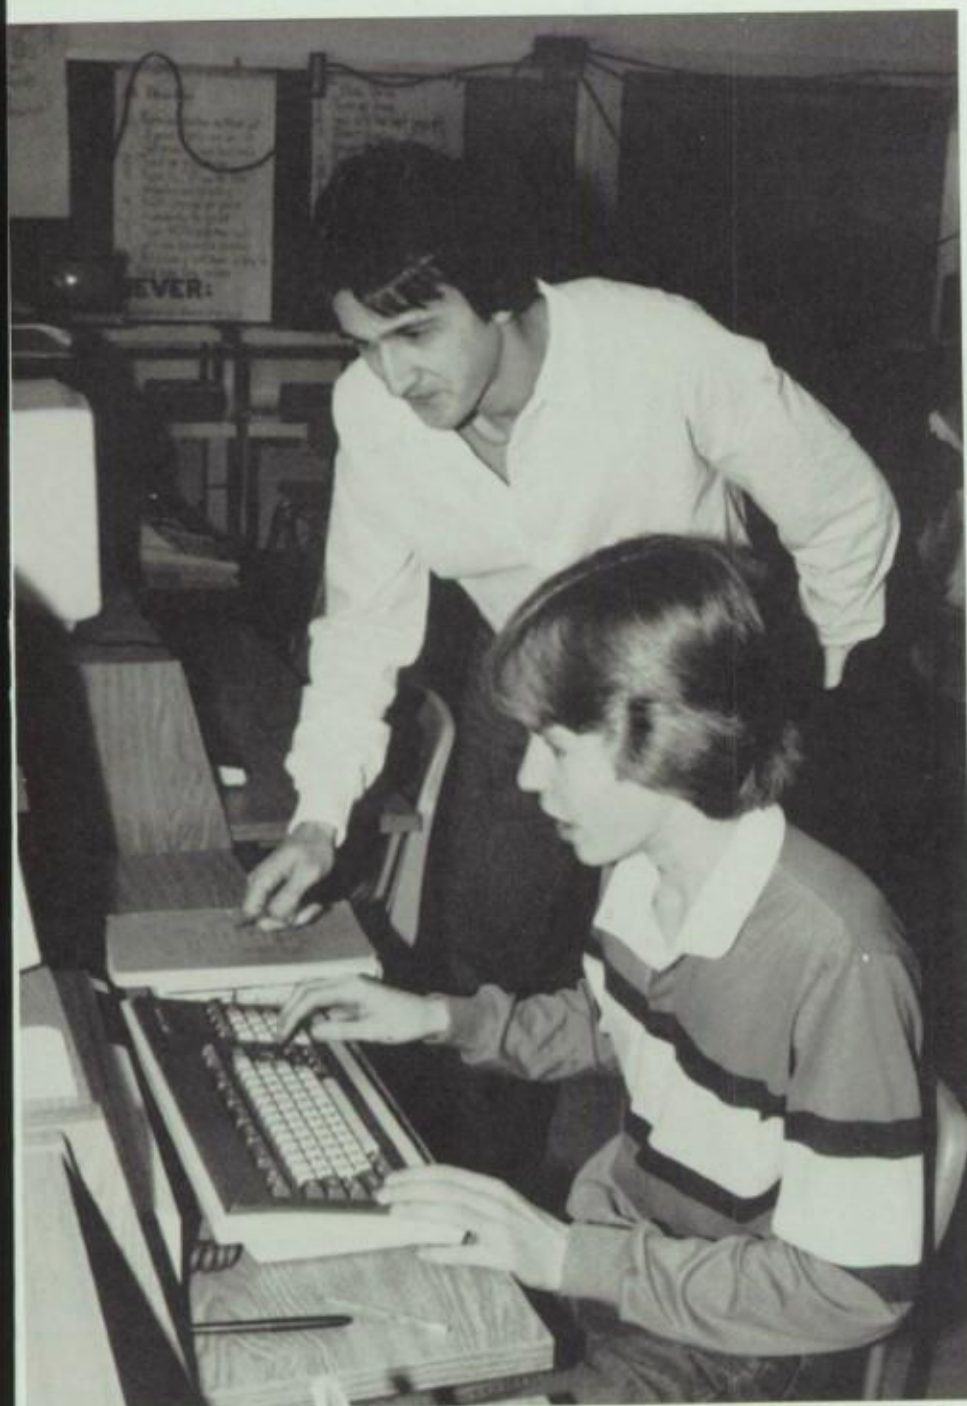

Computer Science

Just when you thought that TV was getting boring someone went and hooked a personal computer to it. Now there is no end to the enjoyment or the frustration that can be found on the ... boobtube. This hackers delight can be found in most departments at OHS. Students learn to speak in BASIC, PASCAL, FORTRAN and COBAL. Those resistant to foreign languages learn to be users of other's work.

Computer classes are offered by the math department and the business department. There is even a computer club for those who just can't get enough crammed into that fifty minute class. Oakton began it's program a few years ago with a few Atari 800s and has recently moved on to NECs. Next year a computer will take over many of the tedious jobs for the yearbook and maybe even for the school newspaper.

Jim Snyder lends a helping hand to a student in confusion.

Steve Sachs experiences a mental block on how to complete his program.

Everyone needs help from their neighbor at one time or another.

Foreign Language

The foreign language department at Oakton is led by Mrs. Owen. Oakton students must take at least one year of a language to graduate. They can choose from the four offered at OHS: French, Spanish, German, and Latin. French and Spanish classes can be taken up to level five, and German and Latin up to level four. Grades are weighted .5 in the fourth and fifth levels. After taking these classes, a student may take the AP exam, qualifying them for college credit. Besides aiding grammar and vocabulary, foreign languages provide Oakton students with cultural experiences which help to form a well-rounded individual.

José is pleased with his finished product, an errorless Spanish essay.

Jacquelyn and Mimi are intent on learning French.

Lisa Kraus is a lot happier about her paper on Tess than Mrs. Leach is.

Ann Mackenzie, Audrey Bergert, Kelly Corcoran and Kristin Bucco conspire against the English assignment.

English

The English department is the largest one at Oakton, having 24 faculty members with Mrs. Minnehan serving as the chairman. The department includes the areas of drama, journalism, English, reading and public speaking. General English classes for grades 9-12 cover two areas of literature; American literature and English literature. Freshmen learn to write well developed paragraphs. Sophomores write multi-paragraph essays, and juniors and seniors work with literary analysis. Some teachers require their students to keep journals, others demand those dreaded timed-writings. G.T. classes are offered for those students who excel in English. Seniors can take AP English which offers an extra .5 on their GPA. A special materials class for juniors and seniors who are non-native English speakers is new this year. In the spring, the English department sponsors a writing contest. There are four winners in each class, a first place and three runners up. The English department is a very active part of Oakton High School.

Kris Raab fills out one of those last minute applications in English class.

Eileen Dover and Glory Griffith carefully check cooking instructions before they begin.

While waiting for biscuits to brown, Renee Duckett watches the busy chefs in the next kitchen.

Kathy Bostwick is concentrating on her sewing — an important skill for any college bound student.

Groups of students in gourmet foods classes share kitchens and work efficiently to produce tasty foods.

Kate New carefully mixes a batter for gourmet peanut butter cookies.

Home Economics

Have you ever wondered where those wonderful aromas, so near the cafeteria, come from? Well, if you were lucky enough to be enrolled in a gourmet cooking class you know that the Home Economics department can take full credit for this bit of heaven. They can also take credit for future interior designers and clothes designers. This is truly one of the most creative departments in the school.

In gourmet foods I and II students learn the basics of cooking and etiquette. Home economics students learn how to make clothes, prepare foods, design living spaces, and care for families. This department gives its students the tools needed to maintain a well run household ... something we all will be doing in the near future.

Industrialized

Two Industrial Craft students jigsaw their way to a completed project.

Wes Meyers prepares wood for the lathe machine.

The well-rounded person can work not only with his mind but also with his hands. The industrial arts program provides students with the opportunity to discover talents and learn skills that will be useful long after leaving OHS. Students learn the basics in industrial crafts where they work with wood, ceramics, and metal. Students wishing to move on to more advanced classes take wood shop, electronics, and mechanical and architectural drawing. These classes provide the basis for careers in the fields of transportation, manufacturing, and construction. Department Chairman Jim Conklin worked hard to provide a variety of projects within the school year.

Mathematics

Obtuse angles, limits derivatons, and coplanar lines are just a few concepts learned about in the various mathematics courses at Oakton. Headed by chairperson, Ann Miller, the math department at OHS offers a diversity of courses to suit the needs of various abilities and interests. General Math is a pareparation for the minimum competencies exams required for high school graduation. Algebra I and II deal with solving equations while geometry focuses on learning to write proofs and working with figures in plane. Higher math levels include trigonometry, analytic geometry, and functions. The most advanced classes at Oakton are Calculus AB and BC which are college level AP courses awarding an extra .5 to grade point average. The AB and BC studies differ only in that students in the BC curriculum have previously taken functions, while those in the AB class have not. All of these classes serve to teach logic and stimulate thinking.

Mrs. Walsh's fifth period Algebra II students seem to be enjoying themselves!(!!!)

Is it really that bad?

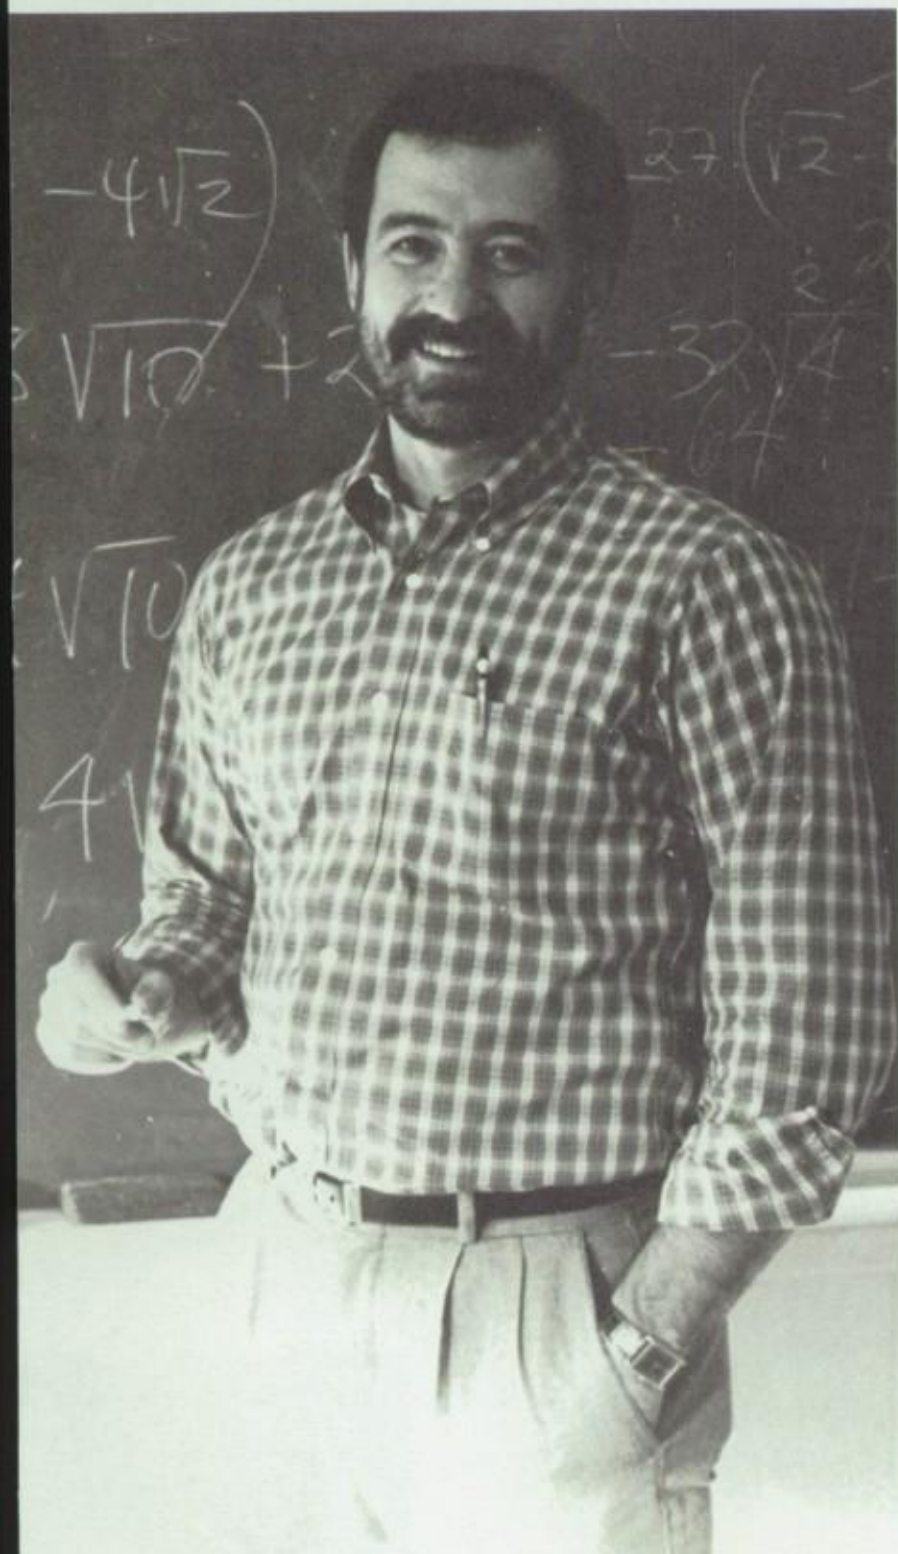

Mrs. Markisello tries to get the class's attention.

Mrs. Hoffman dictates the homework to her Geometry class.

With red ink in hand, Mrs. Smith grades the latest tests.

With a bright face and a smile, Mr. Slivosky always makes the learning just a little bit easier.

ORCHESTRA

The Symphonic Orchestra and the New World String Quartet are under the Direction of Debra Meyers. The String Quartet made its debut at the White House in December. In March the orchestra will participate in the District Festival and will take a trip to Philadelphia in April.

BAND

The Oakton Cougar Bands are under the Direction of Cheryl K. Newton. In August the band spent two rigorous weeks at band camp learning the marching drill. The band, with Drum Majors, Laura Holleman, Pam Poling and Amy Staska, performed at all football games and marching competitions. and had their hard work rewarded with a Spring trip to Florida. The competed at Sea World, and made side trips to Disneyworld, Wet and Wild and the beach.

Most memorable was their rendition of the "Stars and Stripes" complete with exploding flashcubes, waving banners, and hundreds of red, white and blue helium balloons. In October, the band captured first place in the Vienna Halloween Parade. In February, 16 band members were a part of the All-Regional Band. Josh Lee and Jim McLaughlin placed high enough to go on to Richmond and audition for the All-Virginia Band. Pam Poling was chosen for the Apprentice Program with the National Symphony Orchestra performing at the Kennedy Center. The band participated at District Festival in March, Solo and Ensemble in April

Rachel Robinson, one of the area's finest violinists, performs in a concert.

CHORAL DEPARTMENT

The Choral Department completed another successful and exciting year of performances and other musical activities, beginning with the Choral-Drama Variety Show and the Dance Show in the fall, and continuing with the ever-popular Christmas Concert, winter "Broadway Review" Concert, and Spring "Movie Themes" Concert.

The singers also took part in annual events such as All-County Chorus, District Chorus, Festival and All-State Chorus. The Choral Department welcomes all students who like to sing, regardless of previous experience, and offers an outstanding opportunity to Oakton's students to enhance their singing and musical skills and pursue their desires to perform and gain confidence in artistic expression.

The Girls Chorus enhances the holiday spirit.

Pam Poling strikes up the band.

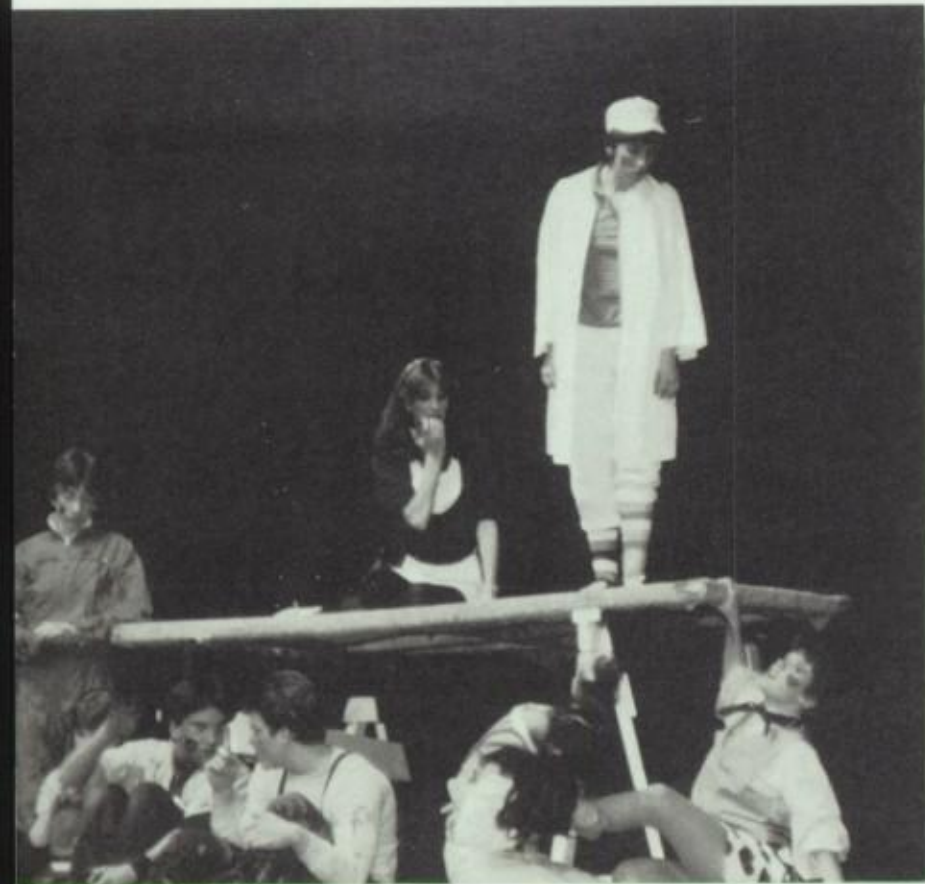

Drama

If Richard Gere, George Burns or Matt Dillon went to Oakton, one would probably find them in the Drama department. That's where students go to learn how to better their acting skills. As an elective, students prepare monologues, soliloquies, and three act plays. They also try out for and help in the fall and spring productions. Every year, Oakton discovers new talents ready to be developed under the guidance and leadership of Mrs. Perrino. One day we just may see one of Oakton's graduates on Broadway!

Mary Reber dances to the music in "Guys and Dolls."

David Grove, Aaron Young, and Brian Baddely show their acting skills in the play "Guys and Dolls."

Physical Education

Move over Jane Fonda and Arnold Schwartznegger, OHS has incorporated aerobic dancing and weight lifting into its physical education program. These popular activities were just two of the many sports ninth and tenth graders were exposed to this year. Students who found an activity not to their liking were in luck because each unit lasted only three weeks. As part of the ninth grade P.E. program students were required to take a quarter of health. During this time they learned basic anatomy and first aid. Students practiced Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) and those who passed the Red Cross test were awarded a certificate. Sophomores' favorite quarter was spent in drivers education where they learned the value of wearing a seatbelt and following safety rules. For students interested in exceeding the mandatory two credit hours for physical education, advanced P.E. was available as an elective. This class stressed conditioning and weight training. Students who elected this class found it a break in an otherwise academic day.

Julie Garrett shows she is as tough as the next guy.

Freshmen enjoy themselves while learning the basics of wrestling.

Sophomores April Seitz and Nikki Rasnic stretch from side to side hoping they'll grow taller.

Keith Aebischer drives a serve while teammates Kevin Tapp and Oscar Berrios wait for Marco Vaca to return it.

Derrek Rodriguez goes up for a shot while Brad Long blocks in attempt to get the ball to Robert Smith and Patrick Hornbaker.

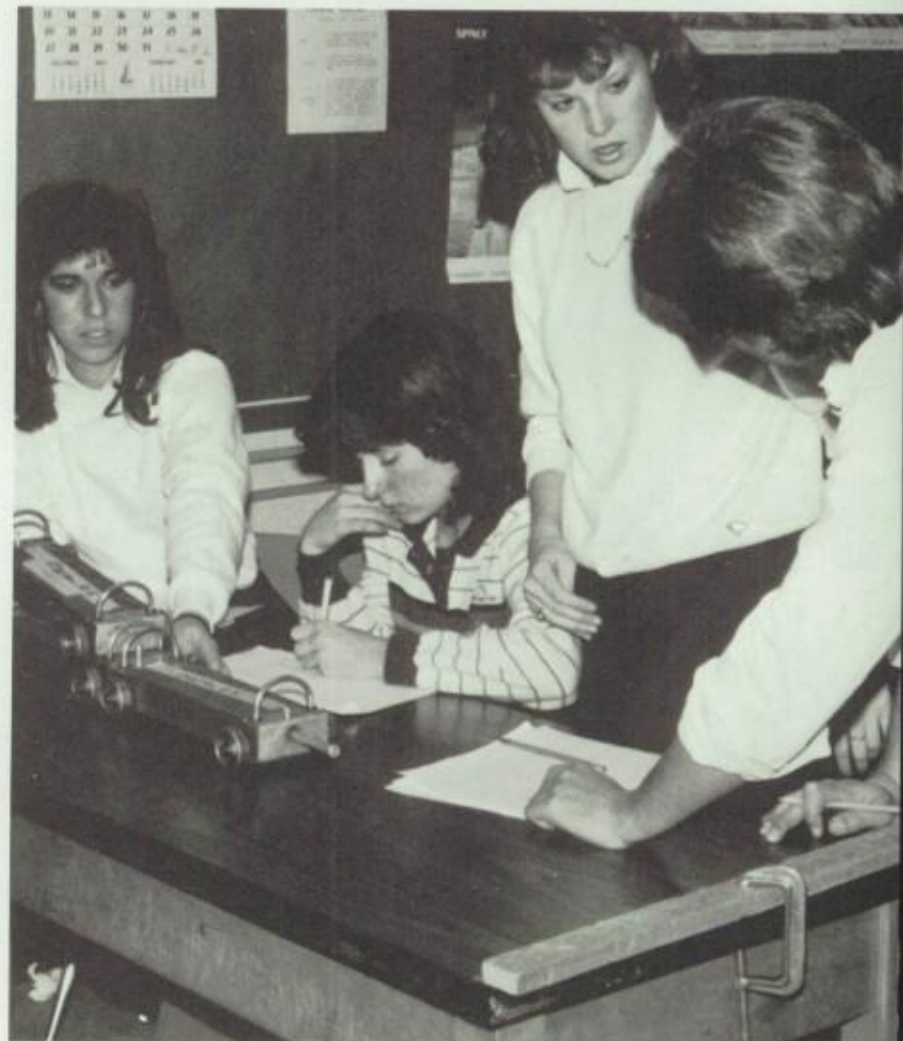

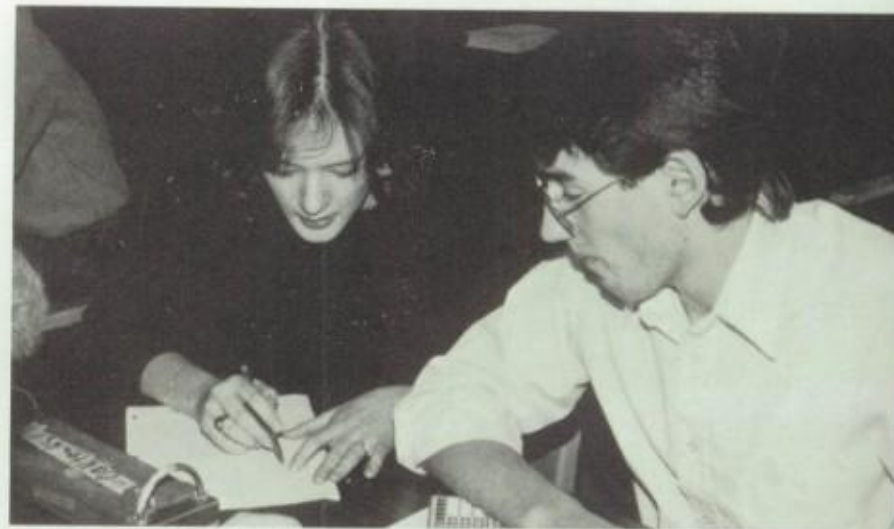

Science

From moles to momentum to morphology — the science department has it all. Starting with earth science, then on to biology, chemistry and physics, students are open to a wide range of choices. Recently, G.T. classes have been added to the course offerings. Also, Oakton is one of the few schools fortunate enough to offer both biology 2 and chemistry 2, which may qualify for college credit with a high score on the AP exam. But science classes don't stop at the classroom. In the fall, Mr. Brahaney took his biology 2 students to Meredith Creek for an investigation of the Chesapeake Bay ecosystem. Geophysics, which was offered for the first time this year, included a trip to Harper's Ferry to research geographical and historical sites. In the spring, the physics classes took to the football field for the annual Egg-Drop. With the science department, the possibilities are limited only by the mind.

Alicia Garrison and Teddi Benedetto hard at work on a physics lab.

Terri Orsini, Julie Benson, Shelly White are in a heated discussion.

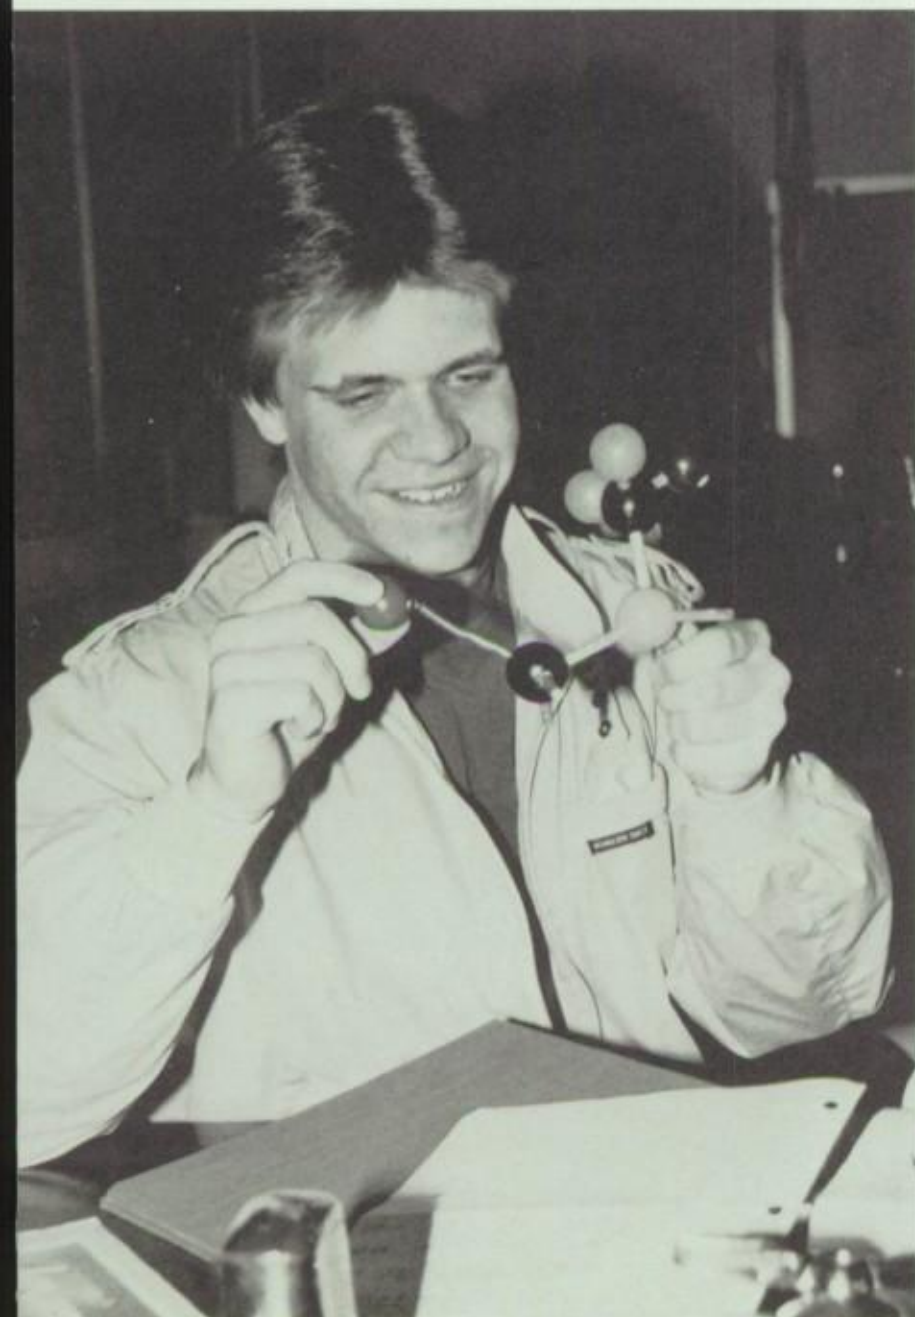

Earth Science too has many opportunities for hands-on experience as Tammy Wiser discovers.

The world of microbiology is one of the many opened up by the science department. A dedicated Chem II student, Gao Quynh Duong takes care in preparing her experiment.

A "model" of perfection.

Despite the efforts of this lab team the patient was not able to walk again.

Mr. Casey introduces his class to Fred Frog and company.

Social Studies

The social studies department strived to prepare students to solve the problems that arise in society. This department can fulfill almost any need to learn about the past or present. In addition to the regular courses such as US/VA history, government, world history, and geography, this rapidly growing department has also expanded to cover the areas of sociology/psychology and political science. Graduation requires that students take both American history and government, however, students who are especially interested in these areas are offered both AP and GT courses as well.

The department, headed by Barbara VanOver, puts a great deal of effort into making studies both interesting as well as informative. Sociology and psychology students are given the opportunity to spend a day in Lancaster, Pa. to study the Amish culture; while AP history students travel to Winterhul, Del. to gain a better understanding of a past generation. Not to be outdone, the political science classes organized a food drive over the winter holidays rewarding the class donating the most food and clothing articles with a pizza party. It also maintains a unique structure in that only half of the year is spent in the classroom. For the remainder of the year, students work on an internship outside the school.

If you have ever wondered what a filibuster is, what year prohibition ended, or simply are taking what is necessary for graduation, the social studies department can prove to be an exciting environment that provides many enriching experiences.

Going back over tests with friends can often improve one's understanding of the topic, as Andy Proctor and Laura Placanica find.

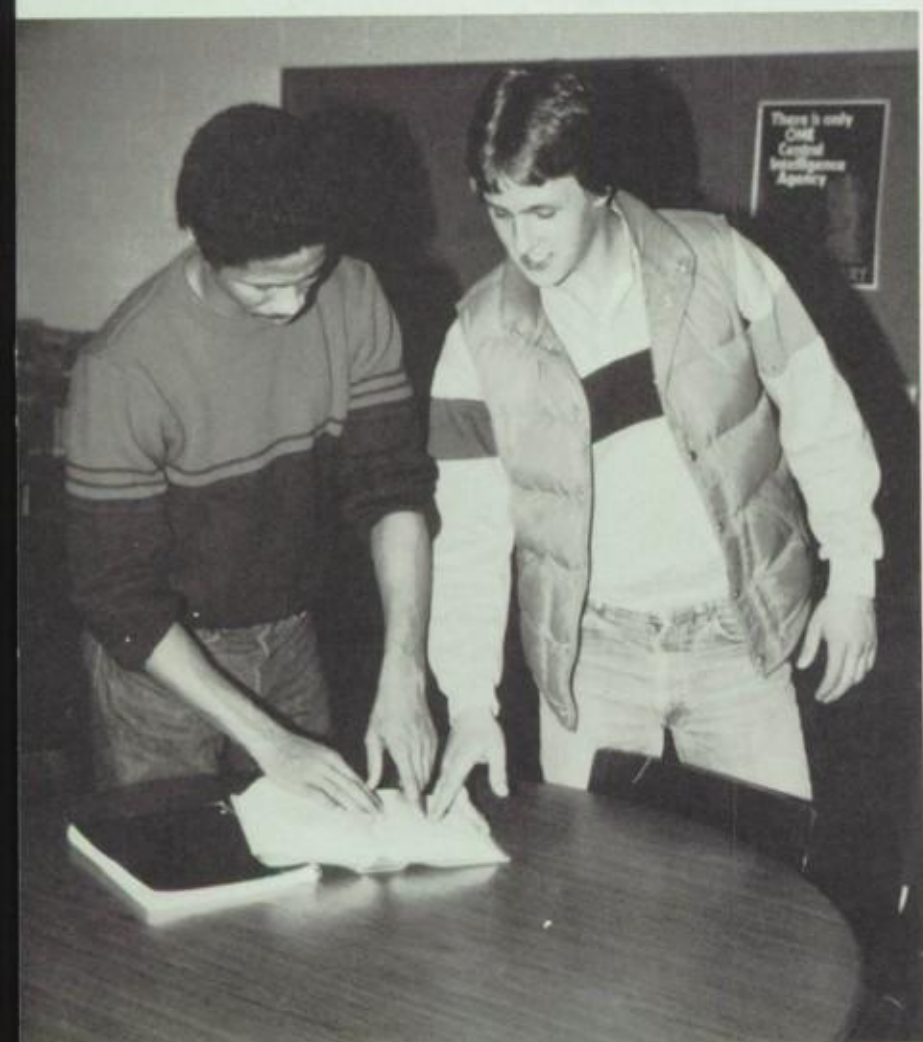

Margret Kivlen and Laurie Villalobos enjoy listening to the philosophy that Kari Edgeco presents in Their Political Science Class.

Last minute current events preparations are not a rarity at Oakton, as Jeff Pfaff and Monica Paritte well know.

Susan Kennel makes the effort to never be late to her government class.

Freddy Frank believes in the individual study program in Mr. Price's world history class.

Research in the library can often help students, like Shaun Manning and Keith Beckwith, with required research papers.

Vocational

Those students who are interested in job training for cosmetology, auto mechanics, electronics, and industrial training invest their time and hard work in the Vocational Program. Most of the classes are held at Chantilly High School and to get there students must ride a bus. In addition to classwork, on-the-job training is provided at doctors' offices and building sites around the area for these Vocational students. The advantage to the Vocational program is that it includes basic, supplemental, and career-preparatory courses that provide training for students seeking gainful employment, job adjustment, and business career advancement.

Graduation:

Entrance to a New Challenge

"My gosh, Graduation day is drawing near, and I'm not ready for college yet."

Well, Seniors, ready or not, you will graduate June 6. Years of high school have been preparing you for a more competitive level of education, college. In your Junior year, you had to face the PSAT and SAT. In your Senior year, you had to deal with the SAT, the achievements, college applications, and for some, the AP exams. Now are you not relieved that you will be able to receive a piece of paper, the diploma, certifying that you are ready for . . .

Yes Seniors, you are ready. Some may ask: "Ready for what?" The answer is simple, you are now ready for more intense responsibilities. You are ready for your entrance into the "real" life.

"What will I do after high school?" For most, it will be college, for some it will be work.

High school somehow had seemed like a security blanket. We all depended on our parents to bail us out of trouble. We rarely thought much about independence. Being out on our own on weekends could never be compared to making it on our own in the near future.

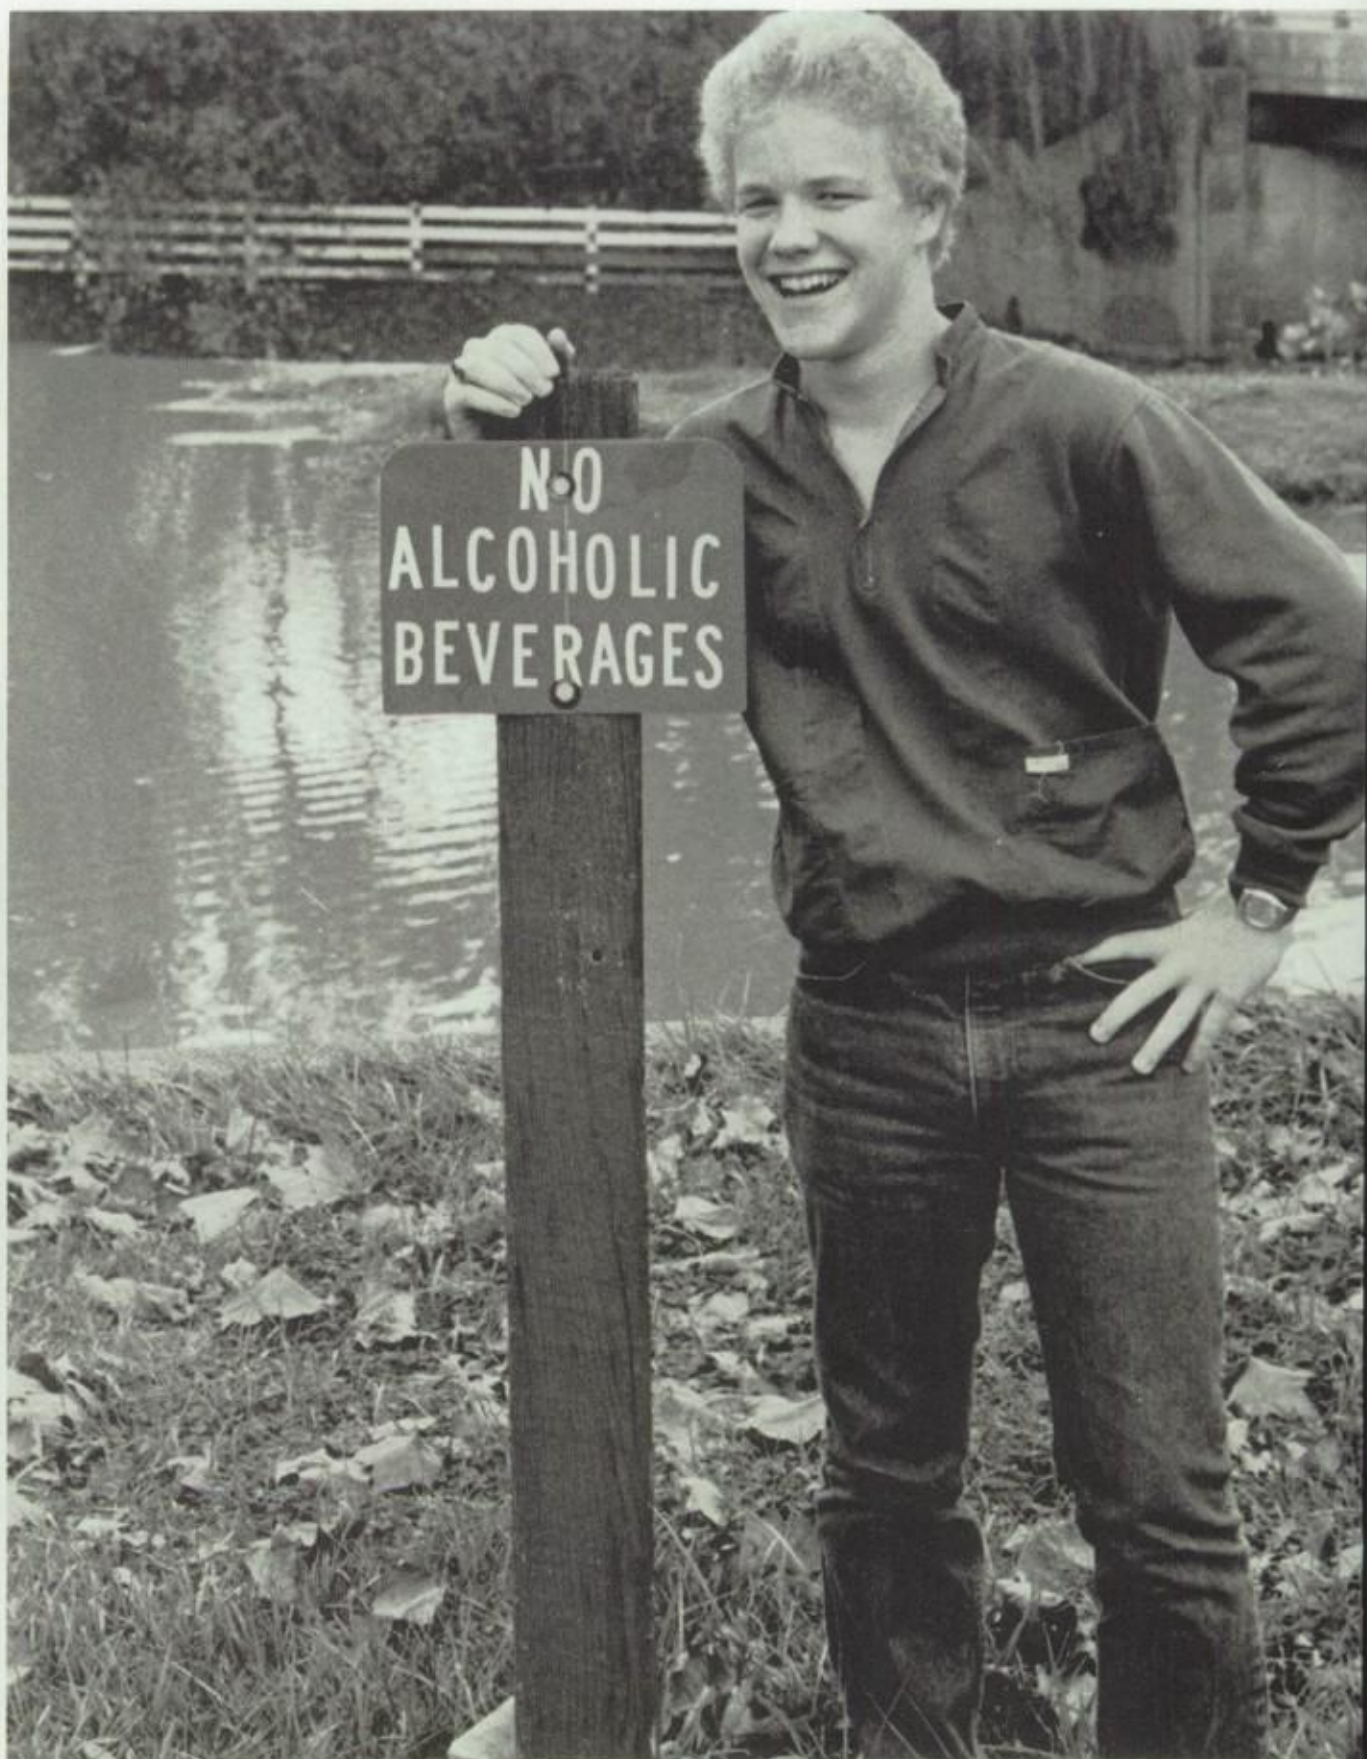

Think about it Seniors! Will there be life after high school? Better yet, are you ready for life? What will you be doing ten years from now? Will you be the doctors or lawyers as your parents have dreamed, will you be the Presidents of some companies; will you be working in industries or restaurants; and/or will you be married and have children?

Decisions, decisions! How will you know what you will be doing five years from now, let alone ten years from now. Don't worry. what ever will be, will be. Now, there's nothing for you to worry about. Just take graduation from high school as . . . a beginning of a challenge.

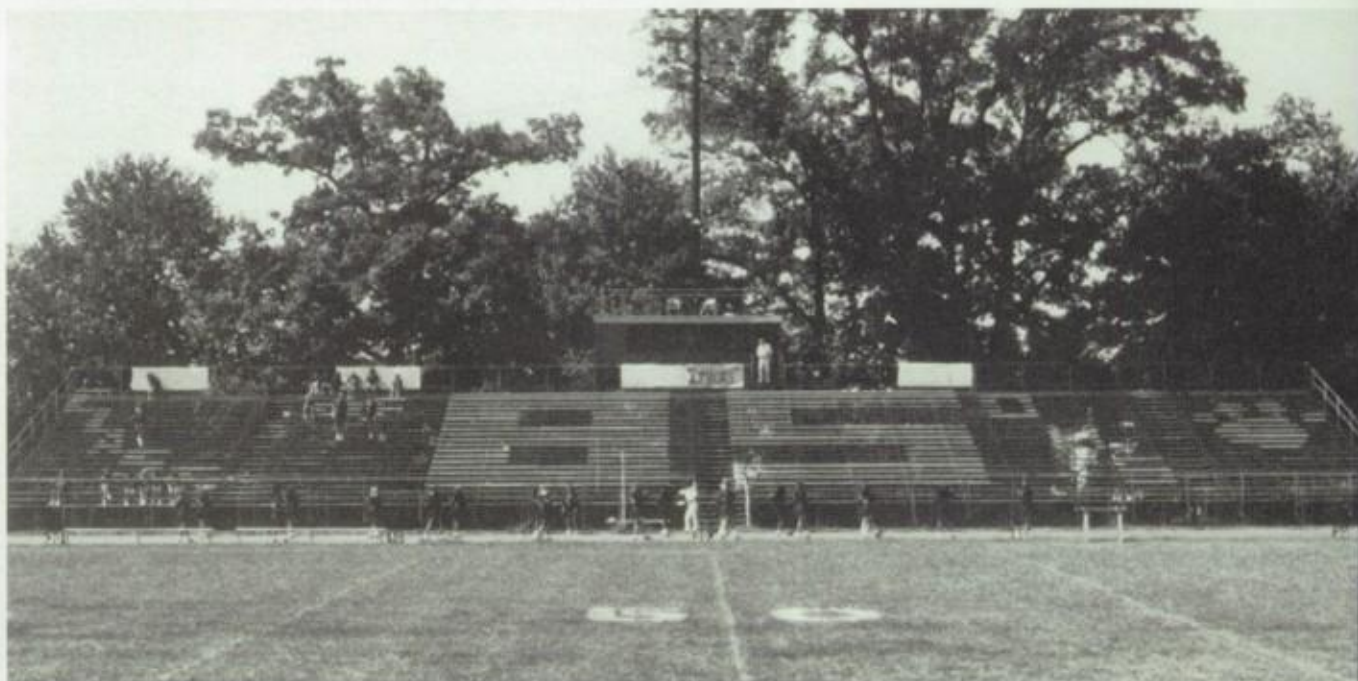

What? Me Worry?

Bill Stanley seems at home in Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

Clarence Clemons, look out! Here is Jenny Jackson with an outstanding solo.

After final preparations have been made for the pep rally, the job the seniors did on the bleachers looks even better.

Seniors Take It All In Stride

Unfortunately, the statue of Liberty look-a-like contest was a failure. This crowd is a good reason for its demise.

"This is just like the senior table in the cafeteria" quips Anita Rodriguez.

A sunny day - and the two sunny smiles of Lisa Petruska and Lynette Nguyen.

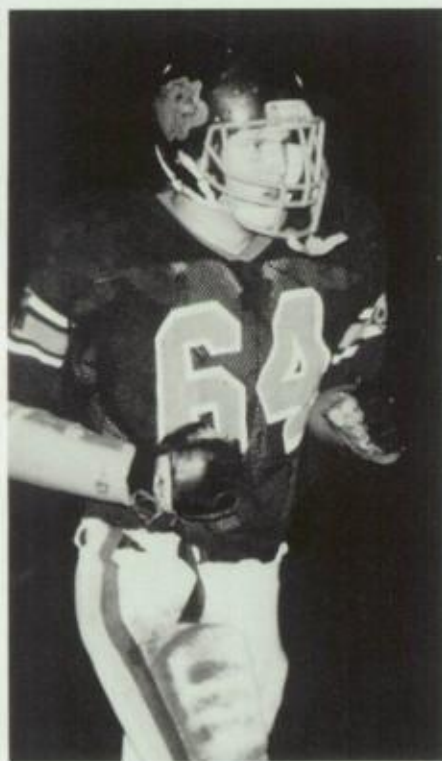

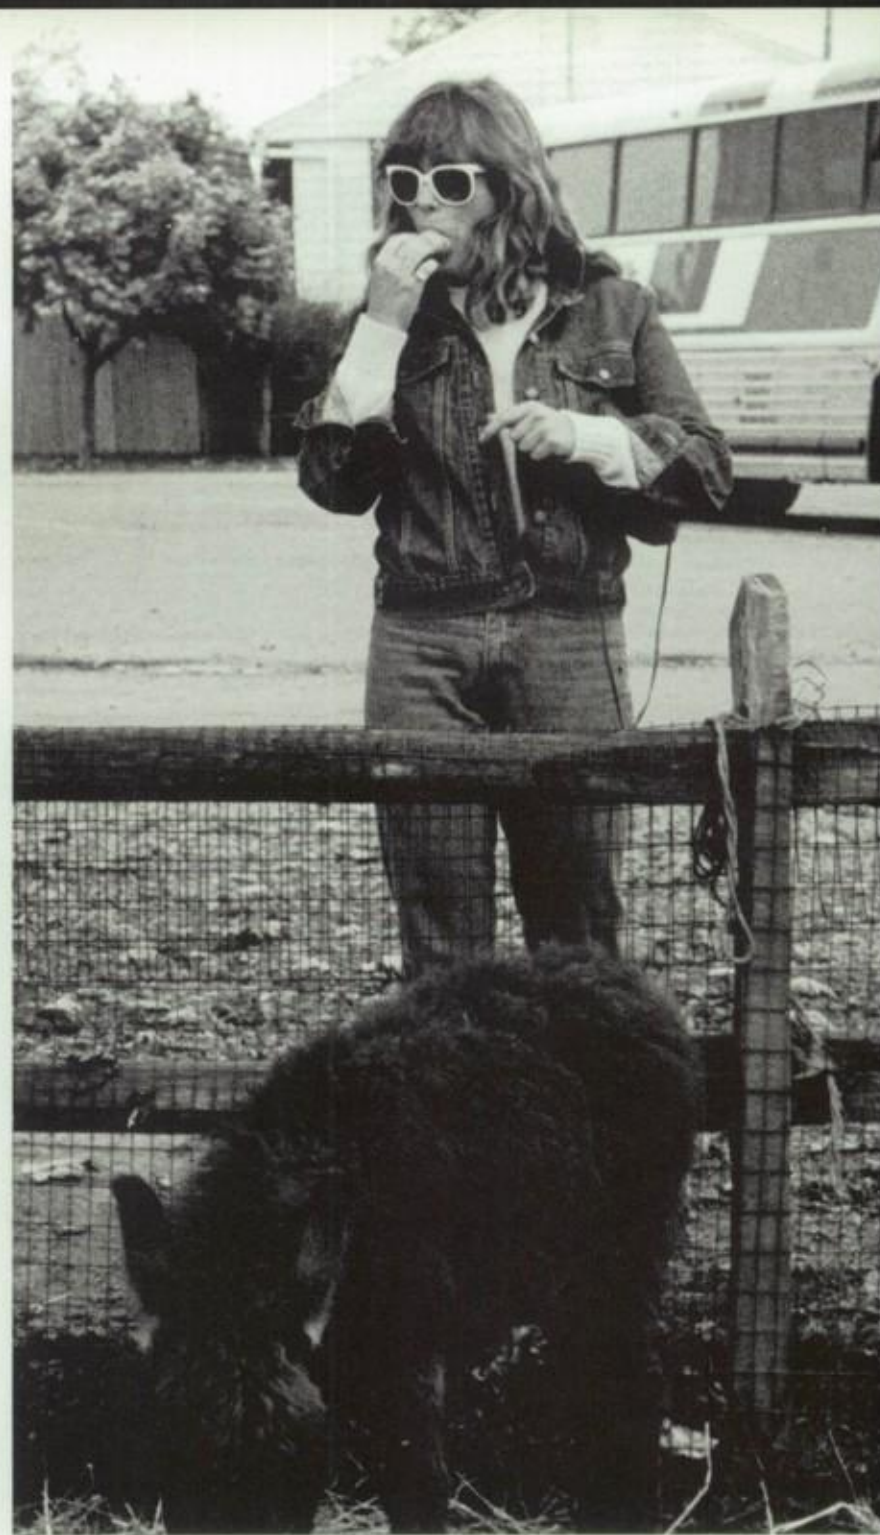

John Evans likes to take a quick nap in the middle of the performance.

Erin Snead and friend -munching out on the psychology field trip.

This happy group shows why Oakton is the place to be every Friday night.

Erin Boston rushes in to help out the Varsity Football Team.

The newest addition to the athletic department — the Girl's Soccer Team Bus.

"I can't believe I ate the whole thing!"
Harry Ryan, Kristen Cumberland and Bryant Childless are in awe.

Buddies Bill Stanley and Tom Bonneau
ham it up at the football game.

Cougar football games are the place to see and be seen.

"What are we?" "Number One!"

The awesome threesome — Kelly Jenkins, Maryam Soroush and Kim Wyckoff.

"Surf's Up!" Lisa Walker models the latest in back-to-school apparel.

Chris Harper in an equally fashionable ensemble.

Fine dining at its best.

Oakton's own Wild Bunch brings unity to the Senior class.

Summer fun with good friends — Jan Follmer and Gail Hurd.

I wasn't sure that I wanted to come back to school after such a great summer, but once I saw all my friends my mind was changed! I guess there really are some neat things about school!

Winter is great! It was finally cold enough in January, so we had alot of snow for skiing. The all day trips to Liberty and Roundtop were so much fun. Let's not forget the Senior Ski Trip. I'm so glad all my friends were there to share it with me!

Finally! School is out, and it is time to cruise to the beach. Watch out! I can hardly wait to hit the beach and get a great tan. I can hardly believe that high school is over, and I can move on to bigger things in life! I'll miss it but . . .

I Remember When...

Acevedo, Wesley M.: When in my sophomore year the class had a field trip in a "religious campment" where we had to stay the weekend and M.O., D.O., and me did not sleep at all during the weekend.

Acosta, Robert: Soccer with all the beautiful people; Williamsburg's Holiday Inn South with B.W., J.H., D.W., and others; C.A. always knew; MYE etc. with K.K.; the best times of all with A.F.; the world's best people — K.K., J.H., D.W., T.L., K.J., B.W., J.J., many others, and especially A.F.

Alexander, Ann: D.J. asked A.A. to wear his class ring. Driving to school with P.R. and R.D. and L.L. and stopping at seven-eleven. B.H. and A.A. first date at the movies. Having parties at A.A. house on Saturday nights. When J.B. keeps falling off his chair in ICT. When A.K. and A.A. went to Georgetown "what an 18 B-day." I love my best friends, A.K., and K.S., and C.W., and P.R., and B.P.

Alexander, Mike: My parents went away for the summer and I had ten parties. MM was begging GK in the bathroom. 7 people in the back of my scirr. and CC was in MM's lap Pud went ramming cars in his station wagon.

Alley, Sharon: Falling for D.M. on May 11, 1983, "Footloose" with A.A., B.B., F.A., T.D., S.C., B.V., me and DiDi being flirts, track with D.N., good times at Partners Club, Birthdays with E.V. & S.C., Spazing out with D.W., B.L., & J.M., Homecoming '82 with J.W., "ROOTBEER"!

Allison, Frank: The Drive-in movie with V.B., M.V. & E.D. The woods with P.K. The Dead with Sid.

Allsman, Chris: In my sophomore year a certain student proceeded to pinch a certain teacher's rear end in front of her 5th period class. (The people in this statement).

Archibald, Carrie: L.B., D.T., J.W., and I were a foursome; all the special times I'll never forget with L.B.; P.G. and I ran into rats at GT and were stamped 21; A.B. and I hid CC's in J.B.'s car... our wild run in the night by J.M.'s house!!; Mason parties with A.C. — all that peanut butter!; A.B., J.B., J.G., and I t.p.'d J.M.'s room on HC; The PPC with A.B., S.F., P.G., V.V., and me!; V.V., A.B., and I.

Ashforth, Allen: B.B. and A.B. got wasted big time and I took them for a little drive thru Franklin Farms. New Year's at T.D.'s when the walls wouldn't stop moving. Skipping class with S.O. and getting caught by Mr. Kane. The nine day mustang. The Footloose caper with S.A. and the good times with the crew B.B., T.D., S.O., T.M., M.B., and J.R.

Averbach, Robin: S.V., S.W., V.M., and I went t or ting/M.V. teaching me standard/Discussing anything (B) with M.V./S.V., T.S., M.V., and I waiting for music/Special friends with M.V./ The beach with N.H./ After 2:00 with N.H./ S.W., V.M., and I picking up 15 guys at T.C./ Sandcastle with N.H./ Special people and great memories.

Ayers, Gayle: I chanced upon my friends MT and LD in the cafeteria. Fair Oaks movie theaters opened, my great new friends made my Senior year exciting, and college loomed far in the future not just around the corner.

Babounakis, Annie: "Shedd's spread" spring break '84 w/ J.B., P.H., J.M., C.G., D.M., and I — sleep much? "We Paid." T.G. wanted to go on the bumper cars and see B., T.G., P.H., J.D., C.G. and I on rt. 1 at 1 am J.D.'s R.M. and C.G. hid at MW when D.M. and I got busted by SS. I'm addicted to ya baby. 6-13-84 I found my "guy of the month" but to D.M.'s surprise it turned out otherwise. "It's Magic" w/D.M. — what a terrific summer, eh? our weekend in O.C., N.J. looking forward to many more.

Baddley, Brian: Good times with A.A., A.B., T.D., S.C., J.G., M.E.; Killing dart, crashing Dad's BMW twice; crashing backwards in AA stang; A.B. cried over J.M. M.B. yaking in washer; A.B. the F.M. Partying with A.A., A.B., B.S., B.B., M.B., S.C., T.D., J.G. Good friends with S.A. Calif. Coolers Painting bleachers P.W.I. French III Jr's.

Band, Susy: Coming to school real late with YH and MH — the many trips to MacD's with GN, AZ, SC, and LN — Hot fudge sundae in the front seat — all the car rides down Lawyers Rd — who's house are we going first?! — What happened to our TGIF in August, especially 17 — the many great times in library with KS and CB — miss ya KS — wish you were here — the many great hallway chatters with KS and CB — admiring GQ — picking out the best — a crush in EL but is he smart enough to figure out — program raid in CSR — blackouts during Calculus class-calculus cram sessions at SC's house.

Barasch, Stephanie: I met TB — the beginning of a very special relationship through letters. Los Alamos, NM; TR, MH, LL, MR. EC — moving sure is hard. Friendly's, and all the special people I have met there: Bahah, Learning & growing with SK: BF 4-ever Thanks for all the great times! SK, JB, KC, KF, ME; FMUTA, BM, DDDi... Summer of '84 the best of my life thanks to Sk, JB, KC, KF, and especially KD — my first true love. July 25, 1984 w/KD and two very special people; JB & SH — "It's magic". KC — thanks for always beig there and keeping me smiling! You made it bearable!

Barbeau, John: I had more time to do things I want, if you know what I mean.

Bartrop, Kevin: Milk was a nickel... Cars were dangerous.

Barrett, Joan: RD and I in O.C. — watch out! We cried about P.T. but not for long. LV was innocent — HA! The "d's were more important than J.D." Our journey through the falling rocks and dodging the rabbit. AR and SV in the Tomato Mobile. Best of times with RD.

Battiston, John: BR and I got stuck in BF, Md.; O.C. '84 and 128th street, soon to be BR, HB, RH, TB, JO, SM, and the rest in '85; HW and running w/TW; Paragon and the R's from Madison; Calling JO and asking "Where's da Party?", one with TM (remember this?). For SM: sorry LG! SM and F-ball; celebrating '82 style with JB, MS, BW, the K's, SG and MB, HC '84 with EA, on the sand and slopes with JC, TS, KH, and LW, and then some rockin' weekends at UVA with DH. But most of all, Prom '83 and all the best times of my life with J.: I'll love you always. JB!

Bauman, Vicky: Cappy broke the flower pot. My tailgate got stolen. Me and MV slid on ice. MV's dress straps broke at prom. PL talked to Thunderbug. Me and P.L. Me and ED and FA skipped 4th, 5th, & 6th. We all went to Grateful Dead. We played quarters during Mayfair. I raced KC after GT. Ed had a party. I had a party. My cat was a mohawk — kitty. I saw David Bowie, Huey Lewis, Adam Ant. VAN Halen, the cash, Bill IDOL, Bruce Springsteen and still went to school the next day.

Beaujola, James II: Dr. Scholl's mountaineering sandals, granola excursions, working as a Frank Wolf aide, that wild-n-crazy Harvard weekend, game show material, rapscallions, felons, ragamuffins & paupers, argyle sweaters, tweed underwear, snake belts (still alive) and being moral intelligent members of our society.

Beauregard, Sharron: LMH introduced me to JWF. Puppets on bed with PP and Mr. Pibb; Ronrico Rumkins and Mr. Doughnut at 3:30 am. Forever — SB & JF. Nov. 7, 1983; Raquetball Immense ecstasy. Me & LMH Best friends! JF's 18th TP car. O.S. with PP, LH, and SP.

Bell, Lee: AJO had a three day party. JVB, we were awesome! RE and I got in trouble with a r.c. LC and I were inseparable. Nov 3, Dec 23; the wind, trees and rain; Prom 84; QI; O.C. all summer, a week in the SM's; Bruce and V.T. weekends. Thanks for those special memories.

Benson, Julie: B.C., J.D., B.B., K.H., J.B., J.G., A.B., L.M., and I went for a ride in M.L.'s truck and got two flats. S.S. and I got into R.R.'s over the summer, and all the wild people we met. K.G. and I and the BM after seeing W.L., K.G., J.B., K. and I walked to Fd. and all of our escorts.

Bergert, Audrey: KP, BM, KC and I gd for the first time; back in thw swamps TAL w/KC; Three in a bed. New Year's w/SG, KS, and GB at the W.H. Prom 84 w/JM and all the good times we had; AH3, Results of EC's Europe trip for 2. CC's in JB's car; Buying doughnuts for today at DD. CA, VV, SF, & PG. All the great times and all the love S.G. and I share.

Berry Leighton: LB, JM, EW, Jr. B., MB, senior ski trip 1983-1984, looking at a lamp. (I see a witch, no, I see a witch with a broom). LB, JM, PS, MM., didn't like foreign cars. Drill team didn't have music. M.B. was not in space. GR. 10 Simms. K.E. -n- S.P. Shawn Hoiker lost his seat.

Bisgard, Kirsten: HWC's BB w/CF. special notes to BW and JE w/CS. TT, CS, EC and I were chased by Jr. Freaks at TT's. Vanu's w/pink satin bows by CS, LK, and me. Blending at MP's w/TT, CS, and LK. Crabs at CB, KM, and GT's (Don't push a tcl) w/JH, CS, and JB. SA's yard w/JB, KS and EC helped me. FM threw a rotten cucumber at me. The bandits: CS, JC, PK, PC, SS, MP, and me. MJ w/JC, PK, CS, MP, EB, and SK. Friends Forever EC.

Bider, Marianne: Fri-13, '84 — car in ditch — AB's house fire. SF's paradise house. "Kuwan!" "The Guys". I'll never forget you all. "MAB" when MGB & JB left me at O.C. carnival. KM & me at VA. BCH. "Do you'll have anytime?" 63 Forever. HF, JB, MBG & me found out about JM's watchdog. LK's weekend bash. My ski experience — never again. To all my best friends — MBG, HF, KM, JB, BT, AB, RM — thanks for the great times. Homecoming '83. '84 — Prom '84.

BF saying "really. it's just foam!" Clydes with SS & EH, that music was intense! Nothing is Everything. I'll never forget that whole day.

Ford, Cynthia: TM, CL, KC, MM and I enjoyed a sunny, February School day in Georgetown. I remember the day TB walked in my life with gifts and roses in his arms. The day I became God at MM's accident and saved the lives of CN, CT, SG, and broken nosed SB. The night CN, CT, MM and I partied at 55 house. The rock in BS concert weekend w/CN, MM, TM, CL. The fantastic weekend with TB, MM, KM, AM at the mountain. My great vacation in the Bahamas w/TB and all those parties at CL's apartment.

Ford, Richard: I went to G.T. and TD and had a great time.

Frances, Samuel: Andy Capp's hot fries, tubes in the barrel, pizza hut ash (pinch) trays, seed fights, pokers, hot B's. Hard Core! Let's crack the becks! Scraping resin (hack hack) quarter z25-pelting the geeks with rocks & garbage. Hi to cap'n of the Chess club & bon voyage to Oakton - it wasn't fun! Looks like I win this time - au revoir!

Friendlander, James: Standing at the corner, as a freshman, waiting for the bus to come, I bent over to pick up my books and my pants ripped right down the back. I got on the bus in a hurry and sat in fear. The whole day I had to hold on to my seams for dear life to keep as much of my tush hidden as I could. I managed to survive, but I remember when it wasn't so hilarious.

Funk, Steve: KPH, AB, BM, AJ, AP, JM (the crew) first got together on Homecoming '82 and BM, AP, AJ, and KPH all lost it. It took AP, BM, CS, AJ, and hour to get from Lake Braddock's parking lot to the gym. KPH and I caught air and didn't even know it... and left it upside down. CS, BM, and AJ couldn't run away on Waples Mill. HR was having a hard time with AR on SS's side yard. BM, AJ, and I took on everyone at TP's and got lectured for it. AB, BM, AP, AJ, CS, JT, NB, and I never got a bit at Lake Brittle. The first night at JDT's while AJ and NB were watching. All the times with JDT over the summer with more to come.

Gaines, Fred: Romance was a dying flame. Second Genesis, Tupelo Ted & his jug band, using mannequins to avoid the HOV - 3 law, scarlet fever in the Andes Mountains, the Pied Piper's Masada, grubbing for security. DAVID! Bowk under water (better than before) that cute little frosh girl who's s-oop-I've said too much already, & dancing with the big boys.

Galentine, Brian: KC and me had a blast at Prom. NY '83 & the first time I had a "cerebral feeling" Oh, did I have a cerebral feeling. MC Suupremem said I was going down. Sleeping over after NH's party. Sleeping over after MA's party. In "Das Boot". I put it out against Woodson. KB jumped out the window. Me, KB, SF, NH raided the fridge at Van Halen '84. We had a 14 car convoy goin' through Roy Roger's parking lot. My best friends - SF, NH, MA, JM, MM, PS, KB, MF, JH, LB - God bless and good luck to all of you.

... Robert Hummer finally learned to stay in the line

Garcie, Roberto: When I went with JS, JG, and MK to G-town for the first time and tried to find a parking space. And the 82-83 track season when I met both HV's, TB and MW. Also the fun we had giving TB a hard time about "H.T. like your sister."

Me and C didn't know what we were missing when we ML with P and K - what a joke!! ML with C and K. Best memories ever! I'll never forget ya KB - but just you wait til I go to MW, GD on BD at the Park. Thanks KB and CD for the best summer of our lives!! Fort Belvoir will never be the same without you guys!

Visser, Jennifer: I didn't chicken out on 3/5/82 with Fabe. WSDG was formed. XTC/Lust/Desire/Passion. I liked PB and C ice cream and raspberry gum. I fell for an accent. July 4th on a hill with a Bear. I couldn't remember a night at OSU. CL, DW, and I made "the Hog" squeal.

Voelker, Lisa: M&MS patrol with MM and AO; lunch with DJ, MM and EV - "Gross!". Summer '84 in OC with TS, MG, and JT. Paper plane and M&M fights with AF - "Get away!". Me, DJ, JD and CORAN - "How embarrassing!". Learning things with BS and JW at TC ("Never mind - I'll tell you later!"). Our locker and Mr. Soloflex - "Salty?!" All the good times with my friends.

Volentine, Vicky: All the great times w/KS, AB, SF, and PB., JG who I've missed. PPC: AB, SF, CA, and PG. Going to OC w/KS, KR, MPS, and FM (toll booth). Staying w/GH and the gang. KD, Doughnuts. Y.L. "The fad lady". Bio. w/KS and MR. Gymini. Meeting BC in Chicago and KT in Fla. Stranger in RI. Rm. 219. M&M and A&B's weddings. T. Carvel. Sneaking out w/CA and AB to J.T.P.M.

... Robin Auerbach did a great job at the Prom Fashion show.

I Remember When...

Volk, Mike: First meeting RA in Mr. S class. All the great weekend nights with JS, BC, SM, and RA. The 9 months with my 1st love SB. When BC blew grits on BS car. Spending the day with RA my BF at KD. All the fun me and RA had upsetting the waiters at CP twice.

Voss, Beverly: AG and I utilized our ball point pens and bandaids. All those days in Burkie's class listening to S&G with CT, AG, and EV. Delirium and sunburn at OS. The dorsal fin and Skyline Drive with JF.

Vu, Amanda Mai: My first party; thanks to ST in November '82. "our little gang". The long phone conversations with LH, LH, TV, Cn and definitely CB. The many many parties that followed that November. Lunch with CT — when she was here! All the tennis matches, or was it? Philadelphia with TV, LH, HT and PN — I will never forget those 4 days! The many problems CB and I discussed: especially C and N... many other "minor" ones too; "Fresh Air" and "PG"... "Missing You."

Walker, Lisa: PW and I visited our friendly neighborhood Bruno's at the 7-11 Bookends. Bookcases and Bruises — Twithead — Lunch for a nickel — catching TB — DAMM — making a dollar the hard way — a nickel at a time — TOGA with DN, RR, KR, TW, and everyone else worth mentioning — decorating the Torino — DJR III's. Cheering — BRUCE! — The best friends ever trying the keep me sane — Sorry Guys but you failed! — FRED FOREVER!

Warren, Kathleen: Jim — 6/13 — the field, canoeing, din at SWR-LY! all the Tech trips — one w/JP 357 w/them. B — '832 w/Liz. D & D w/12 guys — seeing JL. One night in June w/Liz — Jim & John. Liz "try and make me laugh". bh w/Liz. P. break w/J.E.S.D.K! JP boot dip, pruny f. at KD, Ma & Pa & LJD! Everything! Me. Liz, DK, MW at apt. 16th 8-day party.

Watanabe, Ken: I used to wander about the earth as a primitive carbon form. But no, Crackle! Zap! I have evolved, leading the way, watching ED and JF evolve too, and just discussing energy forms.

Watanabe, Kris: LP, Me and the rest of the OST got stuck on the bus during the ice storm and LP and I had to visit the Bth R. and almost got eaten by a dog; also all the visits to McD's with LP to get FF and SSS; Thanks for being so good to me LP. LC, MR, TR, RA & MF; I'll never forget you M; KC, do your HW!

Watkins, Debbi: Me, AB, RW, and the guys the summer of '83! Summer school JM, SE, SL & AR at Westwood and the waiters. All of us going to Nottaway and "Theres the coach again!" All the good times at BW's house. Playing "dms" at ABA with SL PP, JR. KE and our "Saturday night club." And all the other good times I've had during school and will never forget.

Wattner, Ross: SM, DB, JB, RJ, and AM went to Great Falls for the first time. "Jump Arthur, jump"... It was great time. The tunnels and waterfalls were way out. When JB lost his Oakton Cougar hat. Fight 'in the current during the flood. Everything was just wild. The class of '85 just arrived.

Weber, Tara Lea: PW, LW, KR, CS, DN and RR told me that one never knows. do one? and when SE, JP, DB, LS & I invented a new Olympic lugie contest. And when JMA thought I wasn't serious about CC.

Weiser, Sonia: JL, RM, JH and I looking for NY at SM's. The ground fell. MP and NY and flowers. 57th party '83, FE and C at KB's. Homecoming '83, new car?, NY and JH I love you! 3 muskateers, MP, NY, SE, CP, and me. SH and the cougar's head!, KK and festival, Prom w/JH, SG, LH, MR and NP.

Welsh, William H. IV: The world was powered by the black fuel. the deserts sprouted great cities of pipe steel. Gone now, swept away, for reasons long forgotten, two mighty warrior tribes went to war. OTC and I raced the Omacar on 123 and of course, every moment with SM, DP, especially home to AZ.

West, Karin: BH and I went to NA dances in a flood; Mr. Brown's N. was haunted by Mr. Y.; people turned up in OS. — closets; LH and I found magic in 25; Mr. Donut was always open at 4; PP & I Richmond held our attention (The Plan); AS, LH, PP, BH, HL, and I were #1; the LD at H. was an escape; OS meant BS, PR's, and SG's; AS & I became DuPonts; LH & I kept F's in business and later found M-C-B dresses; we were all TW's on Halloween; CL & I successfully worked towards "A"s on our experiments.

Westover, Darlene: Pam and I were "best friends" MW introduced me to JF my special 16th birthday. Sept. 15 and the one I love. The great times PH and everyone had. I love ya'll. Hey b— no way! It's casual! Lets go get something to eat!! Prom '84 and '85!!

White, Shelly Louise: Me, VM, SO, RA, all made DT together! We did have fun! RA, SV, VM and I went Tor Ting. AR, VM and I went to TC and picked up 15 guys at once! SO and I went to WW, "The mad Spaniard!", "Oh! What a feeling! DG, VM, and I — march 27 — MVCD Day. VJM, "Quick, get the GR!", "No Wicki Stop it!"; Thanks for all the great times; SO, RA and especially VJM! I couldn't have survived without you!

Whitesides, Cheryl: BS, TW, LK, SG, JB and many others worked on the Junior Homecoming Float and we won. LQ, RQ, DL, SG and TS had so many fun times at all the parties we had. Going to the Junior Prom with AR and having a good time. I can't wait till OC '85 with LQ, DL, JG, RQ, and TS celebrating my 18th birthday June 13th.

Wilkinson, Donna: Love with MR. I was in my freshman year. When CH, MB, and we became best friends when SA was scared of me, but we became best friends along with JM (oooh, SM) and BL. When SA, JM, BL, JB, and I had a pizza fest in; the hall. When CH, TM, and I went to Ocean City (84') and had a real fine time, here's to 85! One more thing... when SA, JM, and BL went to Kings Dominion, and BL fell in love with CLARK GRATINGER!!!

Wilkowski, Todd: BS and I were the "stoogies brothers" and, there wasn't a party we didn't make. Painting the bleachers "twice". Boy's late with HR and BS and the incredible week we had. MS's, BV behind his house and all the withdrawals. A great '83 Homecoming, win over West Springfield. SH with VM, BS, and BAG. Great times with JM. Two memorable proms with KL and JM. TL, a good friend, BS my best friends, and all the super friends I've shared so many memorable moments with in my three years at Oakton.

Williams, Cheryl: I fell down in the hall. I fell in love with HH, ET, and Angelo.

Willis, Kim: AS befriended me, AB at ice cream, sympathizing with JM over TR. Ankles. Adapting with TW, driving down the wrong side of the road, by best student, KW. CheesePuffs, EP's bedroom, movies at 3 am with KW, TW, & EP. Pam's back Burners, my favorite lab partners, CL, SB, COWS, Matt Doherty. 20 people in a jacuzzi, KD in DL bedroom, flopsy, mopsy and cottontail. best friends TW, BH, KD.

Willson, Eric: RD and I were extra's, SD with BB, S, TT, JD and JO at TL. When CC and I were the supplions. a first, short lived love affair with LC. When KD jumped on it and laughed. She almost got me arrested. "You can DH if you pass a ST." But AR, RM, SG, LS, KB, BC, had a couple laughs with the SS tolling KD she smelled like a brewery. Ski trip 84'. Beach week 84'. Seeing BR there, I'm still hooked on you! A great 8 months with AR thanks! Making the I with RD.

Wilson, Joseph: TD and I went tree climbing in my Monte. Driving in the fog with AC. The field and campground with SS, GS, LC, MW, TS, SR, JB, ME, KC, and BH. SR knocked me through a wall with her hips. 85 in a 25 zone. "SPECIAL DELIVERY" Almost hitting MV's monte on 66.

Wilson, Laurene: DP and LW met and JB and LW met. Fun Days with the witch and the leech. Big brother MB, LV, and LW on prom night 82' and DP, LW, ET, NY on prom night 84' watching sub races. MY with VB, KA, ET, MJ. 85' cruise with JB.

Wilson, Leigh Ann: SG went to the beach with me and met SM, BS and later the rest of the gang. Going to OC with SP, SG, LP and GL. What a blast! Making up songs at Zayre with SG, while making fun of "I" Florida and SD's with DB!! Mickey D's at Fairfax with SP and SG. I'll never forget my bestest buddies in the world! SG, SP, DB, KC, LP, LJ...

Wimberly, Pam: LW & DN had to tell me about moving bookcases and bruises. The great god Nebekenezer was crowned and CL cackled herself to death, LW & KR 6 DN (in balloons) & I made a dollar the hard way on Key Bridge, RR & TW & TK limboed in my basement. The orange bomb ran out of gas at 3:30 am & Lee Highway, wasn't as straight as it usually is. JGB got his nose stuck in a dixie cup and we had to call the emergency squad, DJR III's hub-caps disappearing and the whole rusted away.

Winston, Tascha: I said "Yeah, I guess so" — AP — my first love and best/memorable 2 yrs. of my life — thanks for caring!!; NH 84 w/TS, WC, JP; Life with "Big T" MB 84' at MA w/B. Idol #2 and RH; $:00 am — "Yah?" in GF; BL with DS and BK; BFF TS — Texans Guys; "Life's a beach", JP — BK — AP — why?; LG — "1" BF — what a guy! KG — the "Disgusting" occurrence TN's A — 3 yrs — wow!; good times w/JB, KM, MB, MG — "The Guys"; SS — Miss Ya!!

Woods, Krissy: me MB were BF's. We broke into the room took CHP bottles. Me MB got blzt'd. Crying too much over RM, "Psycho" RM, Me, "Come on Feel the noise". CC Flat tire whoops "Thanks mom and dad". Prom '84 J. Blee. TM, JB, TR embarrassed me on the DF. Been rough JB through it all I can still say I'll always luv ya. MB, ES, DB, AB, CG, Staying at GW with BW (thanks bigbor.) w:00 rain for Prince, Major Bucks. To all my special friends I'll never forget you... J. Blee, TM, JS, TR, TS, AM, SUE, Missy. B/LARLYN member thinking about saying goodbye to all my pals at OHS, Goodbye OHS I'll miss ya.

Young, Aaron: I had herpes for a week; when Tr wore a paper bag over his head; Slick & Slide; "I can't; my dad's making me paint the basement; "DG in a dress; HK in a dress; the cougar got stabbed in the back; Cotton ball fashions were in; MA had a dream about me; DRC on stage at KD; "Look at Beaker"; New York in '84; "you guys are so bad" (someday you'll understand).

Young, Nichol: Friendship w/SW, Me KA SG JB V-day w/SG. June 18 and Feb. 15 w/ SC, DC, CB, SC, ME, SE, PR, MP, CM, KD at G-town, Big D Ski trip. Heather and I became friends, w/LS & HF — Copenhagen! SG, CP, Popcorn & Bulk w/LS. Hinkle, Chesapeake w/Frosh & HF. S2 w/HF. JM — the look, SW and Springbreaks.

The Intimidating

Okay, college bound juniors, ready or not, your entrance exams are right around the corner.

The first of many such standardized tests you have to tackle is the PSAT. But don't get upset yet your devoted studying habits and last minute preparations will give you a wholesome advantage. But won't you be relieved when you find your scores are not used for admission? Once this dry run is through, it's time for the main event. You're finally ready for the SAT. Once you're done with that, you're all set for college, right? Well, maybe. Most students (and colleges) recommend taking the

SAT's

SAT at least 2 times. Pay no attention to the guy in your chemistry class who got 1580. You want the practice, right? Hopefully, you can probably improve your score by a hundred points. It shouldn't be that tough, after all you get 200 points for your name. This time you'll really study. You'll stay home Friday night, who needs to have fun anyway? You'll get Barron's Prep Book, guaranteed to make you give up football games, movies and parties. You can't wait to get to it, can you? Hey, vocabulary is FUN! So step right up, sharpen your wits and pencils and LET'S DO IT! Good Luck! (You may need it!)

Moving Forward

Hey! We've finally made it. We'll return as the upper of the upperclassmen, the king of the hill, the creme de la creme. We've learned a lot along the way, not always willingly, but we've learned.

As juniors we found out what was expected of us ... a well developed vocabulary not slang ... advanced mathematics not proficiency with a calculator (but that always helped) ... and typing which is a must not only for the future secretary but also for the future computer user, which includes all of us.

Some dreams have faded — replaced by others

based on reality. Penn. State may not be banging down the door with a place on the football team, but a new interest in engineering developed when the computers were brought into school by the truck-load. Harvard won't offer a full scholarship, but there is hope that an acceptance will come from Virginia Commonwealth. Leading roles in the school plays went to others, but a new interest in art developed after working on all those sets.

It has been great! A time for growing, learning and having fun! We're ready now to take the lead . . . The Class of '86 has arrived.

To Be Or

To be or not to be. That is the question which many sophomores have been asking. This question is asking whether or not there will be a prom. The pressure is on and the sophomore officers are trying desperately to raise money for this special event.

The sophomores need a grand total of $10,000 by the end of next year to meet the expenses of the prom. The students plan to raise half the money this year and the other next year by means of fund raisers. These fund raisers include a garage sale, bake sales, a Valentine Day flower sale, car washes, candy sales and dances; one of which was held on February 15 for Valentine's Day.

The sophomore officers are very enthusiastic and supportive of the fund raising yet help is needed by the entire class. Dana Bennet, a class representative, stated "we need the sophomore class to help the officers and the others because the participation is low and tension is high. It's going to take the whole class to make this work, not just a few concerned students."

Not To Be

Prom itself is one the biggest events in high school and it would be a shame if it wasn't going to be held for the class of 1987. Even though there is another year left for fund raising, money isn't easy to come by and the participation of the sophomore class is desperately needed if the prom is to go on as scheduled.

Dear diary,

Tomorrow will be my first day of HIGH SCHOOL! Gosh I hope I catch pneumonia while sleeping! I don't really want to go to school! Oakton is sooo huge, I'll feel sooo small in there.

Yesterday, Mom and I went shopping at Tysons. I got this real neat outfit. It's a bright pink mini-skirt and a matching top with a ruffled collar. Mom also bought me a pair of pink shoes. Oh, you know the kind that you can see through. Mom said they're weird looking, but what does she know, her fashion dates back to the 60's! Oh my gosh! What am I gonna do with my hair tomorrow!? My curling iron broke last Wednesday, and I forgot to get a new one!

That's it! I'm determined to catch pneumonia by tomorrow! Maybe I'll go take a cold shower and leave my hair wet and go outside, it'll never work, it's 95° outside! SHOOT!

Well, talk to you later Diary!

August 28

Dear Diary!

First day of school wasn't so bad. Mom woke me up around 6:30! Do you believe that! I have to catch the bus at 7:05 — and she didn't wake me up until 6:30!

You should have seen me! I was a total wreck. I had to roll my hair in curlers last night, I told you that my curling iron broke — right? Right. Well this morning, my hair was so curly and it was so horrible looking! Ugh! I pulled it into a pony tail! A pony tail — I can just imagine it with a pink mini-skirt! Ha. Ha.

Well, anyway, I met John and Lisa on the bus. I know they were as nervous as I was, but they pretended to be "cool." It didn't matter though, they're my friends and I need them — especially today!

I don't think I'll ever find my way around the school . . . I felt like I was a mouse in one of those mazes — everywhere I walked seemed to end up where I had started. Such confusion!

Well, it's time that I got my "beauty sleep." Good night Diary.

Oh, by the way, I saw this really cute, cute guy in the hall. I'll find out his name tomorrow, and let you know . . . Okay!

Step softly through the darkened school halls. Let your fears take hold of you, for they are real. A chill grips the marrow of your bones, your eyes dart back and forth from room to corridor, then corridor to room. Never again will you walk the halls of Oakton High School after closing.

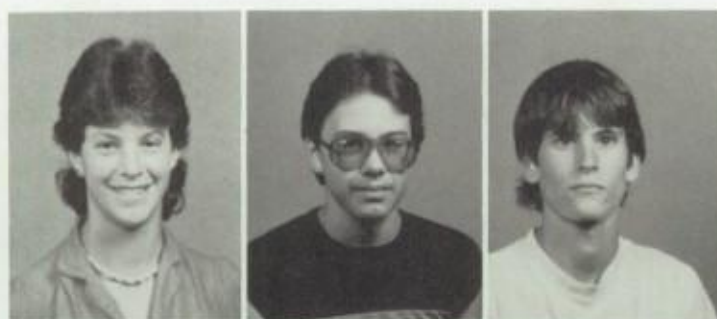

A window in the business hall is open; a chill wind whistles down the main hall. Scraps of discarded homework roll like tumbleweeds down the hall. Flickering, the emergency lights cast eerie shadows. There is a queer smell, like sweat mingled with wood. It draws you toward the office. In the main intersection you discover a heap of half graded geography tests. Cautiously, you walk onward and discover a trail of broken and chewed pencils leading up to a ripped apart briefcase. In one of the hinges of the case, a clump of fur is stuck. You are very close. Up ahead you hear grunts and growls. Peering through the gloom you approach till you see hunched over, rummaging through a locker a drooling beast. "Don't let it see me," you think to yourself! Slowly, two gleaming black eyes stare at you. It's your teacher, a werewolf! He hurls something at you in the dark it hits you on the head. The werewolf utters a mighty howl and grunts at you, "Cover your book, kid!"

The Do's and Dont's (advice from

- 1) DO carry an extra quarter to call Mom in case you miss the bus.
- 2.) DO find a friend who drives to school.
- 3) DO all homework, assignments, and pay attention in class — for the first quarter. First impressions last!
- 4) DO remember, the other freshmen are as nervous as you are, just stay cool.
- 5) DO make friends with Mr. Kane and Mr. Griswold. You're here for four whole years.
- 6) DO get a head start. Begin planning senior pranks now.
- 7) DO act cute, sweet and innocent when you screw up — freshmen are always excused.
- 8) DO smile a lot when in doubt about how to act in a situation. It looks like you know what is going on.
- 9) DO be a good sport. When the upperclassmen give you their initiation "swirlie" thank them and plot your revenge on next year's freshman class.

of Being a Freshman the Upperclassmen)

- 1) DON'T let your friends see Mom dropping you off at the mall, school, etc.
- 2) DON'T use up your easy courses yet. Save them so you can goof when you're a senior.
- 3) DON'T walk into the wall mural next to gym lobby entrance.
- 4) DON'T buy elevator passes or tickets to the pool in the basement.
- 5) DON'T claim the sack lunch your mother left for you in the office.
- 6) DON'T have your best friend buy matching outfits so you can be twins.
- 7) DON'T make out with your boyfriend/girlfriend in the halls — extremely tacky!
- 8) DON'T hang out in Senior territory (courtyard, main intersection). Wait your turn.
- 8) DON'T wait until the last minute to raise $$$ for your prom.

Cafeteria Staff

Lunch . . . a time to meet new friends . . . a time to cram for tests . . . a time to replenish the energy lost . . . but not a time for gourmet delights. School just wouldn't be the same if students couldn't sit and wonder why a sandwich must have one slice of white bread and one slice of whole wheat, or how anyone could count ketchup as a vegetable. Nowhere else will you be able to get so much food (?) for the money.

Lunchtime wouldn't have been the same without all the wonderful people who had to serve so many in such a short time. Serving lunch to a few thousand students is not an easy task, but our cafeteria staff manages with few problems each day. OHS's cafeteria staff prepares lunch for Oakton students and four other area schools including Flint Hill Prep. This task requires a highly trained management staff and workers. Cafeteria workers have noticed that students have shown more courtesy towards the staff this year, and they hope this trend will continue in the years to come.

"Pretzels anyone?"

All the hard working women on the cafeteria staff.

Building Superintendents

Putting buckets under the leaks, fixing lockers, replacing broken windows, and sweeping up all those discarded notebooks are just a few of the jobs that OHS's building superintendents perform each day. These dedicated workers can be found in the building on school days and non-school days. If there is an activity going on there is a custodian somewhere nearby to solve any problem that arises. They keep our school in shape and deserve a warm thanks for a job well done.

Larry relaxes after a hard day.

Mr. Mullins can't understand why the students can't put their trays in the trash cans.

"You want what?!!"

Students survey the choices for lunch.

Sammy is about to save some student's life by opening his locker.

Varsity Baseball

As the weather slowly began to warm, it was again time to dig out mitts, balls and bats to gear up for yet another season of baseball. The team, which has been the pride and joy of Oakton for the past couple years, had a lot of returning talent and was again coached by Mr. Hall. They began the season strong, and had at one time a 10-2 winning record and held first place in the district. A tough series of seven games in a space of only nine days was a noticeable strain on the team, and was the cause of their downfall. They kept fighting, but ended the season with a 10-8 record, which placed them 3rd in the district. Bright spots on the team were Ricky MacDonald, with a .466 batting average and Jim McWeeney, who was voted MVP at the season's close. The mitts, balls and bats were put away and several players graduated, but come spring, when the weather begins to warm, they'll be back.

Varsity Softball

The 1984-85 Varsity Softball Team under the direction of new Head Coach Sandy Reynolds and Assistant Coach Kathy Turner opened the season sporting classy new uniforms. Playing in the toughest District in Northern Virginia, the Lady Cougar's played very competitively throughout the season. The team's win and loss record did not reflect their true ability as many of the games were lost in the final innings and could have gone either way.

Coach Reynolds' motto "only the best" motivated the team to learn from their mistakes and the girls used each game as a stepping stone for improvement. Wins were scarce but the team never gave up their enthusiasm or desire to win. They displayed eagerness to develop their skills and improve their record.

The 1984 season was a rebuilding time and the team looks to '85 with continued optimism. The mixture of the desire to win, willingness to work, the spiffy "New Look" uniforms, plus new dugouts and a re-surfaced playing field all point to a bright future for the Lady Cougars.

JV Baseball

Always lurking in the shadows of the fame of the Varsity team, Oakton's JV Baseball team perhaps deserves an equal applause. Their season is not ranked by District and Regional tournaments, but on self development and pride. The team was again coached by Mr. Friesam who developed the young team into future hopefuls. At the season's end, the winning record was 10-6, 4 of those won consecutively in the last 4 games. Coach Friesam is much impressed by the team and claims it is the most talented JV Baseball team he's seen at Oakton in 10 years. It was not just a few players who stood out, but the whole team worked together to gain their pride and status.

Many baseball players like to be optimistic, with that attitude, "There is no way that any team will beat us."

Boys Varsity Soccer

After a rigorous training program the boys varsity soccer team began their '84 season coached by Mr. Conklin. Oakton won their first three games, scoring a strong 13 points to the opponents' 5. In a close game in which they lost to Robinson 3-2, key player David Spofford was injured. Changes were made, but the team had difficulty in adjusting. These problems were evident in the next several games. At the end of the season their record was 4-8. Although as a team the season was over, two players represented Oakton on the District teams. Chris Pfau was a Northern District pick, first team, and David Spofford was chosen for the second team. Pfau was then chosen for the first Regional team. Overall, the team played solidly, but unfortunately the season's record didn't show the close losses in overtime, and the 100% effort put in by most everyone.

The 1984 Girls Varsity Soccer team was coached by a new man at Oakton, Mr. Chris Godart. His philosophy for building a strong team stressed specific skills and physical stamina. After rigorous training the team embarked on its successful season. They made it to the district tournament, winning in the first round, 2:1 over Woodson. The team then advanced to the second round and lost to highly ranked Lake Braddock 1:2. The young team played well together and showed potential for the next season. Tia Sanchez, Christine Shaltis, and Dristen Cumberland made Second Team — All Districts. Girls/Boys Spring Track

As the snow melted into puddles, the 1984 winter track season melted into the 1984 spring track season. With the changing of the seasons, the team lost a few runners, kept a handful of old timers, and gained some new hopes. Practices began in the snow and bitter wind of late February and continued through to the sun tanning days of May. Meets commenced in late March and the District, Regional and State meets were held on the last three Fridays and Saturdays in May. These runners ran at practice nearly every day of the week, and several days during the spring break, rain or shine.

The team this season was much improved and there is great hope for the team in the near future. The Northern District is one of the most competitive districts in the state for track. Oakton won only one of the District meets in the season out of five, but placed high in all of the regional invitationals and regional competition. The team was very well balanced with competitive runner in each aspect of competition.

Oakton has always had a very spirited track team. The girls and boys teams ran workouts together, and they traveled as one team to most of the meets. The members of teams were very supportive of each other and they all worked together. The 1984 Spring Track Team may have complained occasionally about 30° practices, been extremely nervous before races, whined at the rain, but they always did their best, and above all, they had fun.

Boys Tennis

With a record of 0 wins and 5 losses at the beginning of the season, the Oakton Boys Tennis team made a convincing comeback when the record jumped to 5 victories and 7 disappointments. At the end of the season, Lee Bell and Steve Muller advanced to the State tournaments. Bell won the State singles. Lee and Muller lost in the State final for the doubles, which placed them in 2nd overall.

Oakton's new tennis coach, Stan Bouknight, has shaped up the team by giving confidence, encouragement, and lots of hard work. Bouknight coached tennis at Marshall High for three years before coming to OHS and he has taught tennis in this county for five years. When asked of his future plan(s), he said that he plans to stay at Oakton to build up a competitive tennis program.

"Practice makes Perfect," is an old saying, yet it proves to be true. The '84 Oakton Boys' Tennis team is not perfect . . . yet. Practice included a great deal of intense drilling, weight training program, off-season program at local clubs, and two hours of practice after-school daily. So, with this much effort and talent, the Oakton Boys' Tennis team will be even more strong and competitive with the years to come.

Cross Country

Cross Country traditionally has been one of Oakton's most successful sports and this year was no exception. The boy's team was one of the top 15 in the state, defeating over three quarters of their competition, while the girls were ranked as high as sixth in the state, with 85% of their opponents succumbing to Oakton's superior girl harriers.

Five competitive performances for the guys were posted all season long by junior Miguel Monteverde (underground leader), junior Mike Fix (best dressed), senior Mark Johnson (most determined), sophomore Paul Hoffman (most soluble, but least dressed) and Jonathan Testwuide (too much soccer). The gals' stalwarts included junior co-captain Susan Frank (most consistent), junior Dana Brick (most talented), senior Tara Weber (the most ... of most), Alison Russell (least trained), junior Susan Price (too consistent) and junior Laura Simon (most concerned).

In post-season action, Paul Hoffman placed 4th in the Northern District, 8th in the Northern Region and 26th in the VA State AAA championships. He was obviously Oakton's MVR's and is one of the fastest sophomores in the State. The girls team, on the other hand, was 3rd in the District and 5th in the Region (By the way the top four teams from the northern region advanced to State and took the top four shots!) Much of the success of this team should be credited to Coach Jim Alexander. In his two years as coach at Oakton he has dedicated himself to the Cross Country program, and its runners, and has built a strong team based on a little hard work, strategy and a lot of friendship. He spent endless hours running with the team and planning for upcoming meets. Alexander is responsible for the flashy new uniforms, for both the guys and gals, and the tremendous turnout of talent in the fall. Coach Alexander believes in all his runners and has nothing but encouragement for them and pride.

Things are looking great for next year as the boys team is only losing seniors Marc Johnson (co-captain), Mike Sill and Robert Hummer from their top ten, while the girls only graduate co-captain Tara (belle) Weber. Both teams are obviously expected to improve on this year's successes (and rankings) with so much talent returning next fall.

Field Hockey

... Dribbling, driving, scooping, putting ... what do they all mean? These are some of the methods used by the field hockey players to move the ball up and down the field. Field Hockey is not much recognized by fans, but those who are involved are devoted. This season there was a large turnout of girls for try outs such that even some who had returned after previously playing varsity were turned away!

This season, as in a few previous, the team did not turn over a winning record as Coach Kemp had hoped to achieve, but the enthusiasm and spirits were still present among team members. For sportsmanship, the girls won the prize, for whether win or lose the cheering went on. The team will be losing seniors Margo Brumagim (goalie) and Maryam Soroush (sweep), but there is promise for next year in all star, Jill Bartley, and life long player, Tessa DeBruin. Varsity Football

As the hot, fun-filled days of summer drew to an end, the coming of fall was again traditionally marked by the return of football. Oakton's Varsity football team came back to the field in August, for practices. They brought with them high expectations for the 1984 season.

The Northern District, as a rule, is one of the most challenging and the Cougars faced probably one of the toughest schedules in Virginia. The team also lacked some valuable players due to early season injuries; the combination of these factors and the inexperience at key positions was a lot for the team to overcome.

As the season drew on, though, improvement was noticeable. Perhaps the scores did not suggest that Oakton was a winning team, but the skills, talent, and determination began to show. At the season's close, several members of the team represented Oakton on the District and Regional teams. Aaron Boston made 1st team All District and also 2nd team All Northern Region, as a defensive tackle. Pat Riendeau, Ross Walther, Jamie Savage and D. R. Carlson all made 2nd team All District. These are just a few of many who put forth commendable effort all season.

The Cougars ended up with a 4-6 record, but this does not reflect their strength and team playing. A lot of players continued to put out a 100% effort, and from the season there were many lessons to be learned.

Football requires a lot of sweat, guts, power, and determination; but Oakton's Powder Puff team never lost sight of the fact that they were out on the field, in the cold, to have fun! This was the comeback year for powder puff. The program had been banned in past years because students became too rowdy during halftime festivities. The game returned with all its traditions in tact.

These traditions include male cheerleading squads for both the junior and senior teams. Their purpose was to boost the morale of the players and to lead the fans in cheers. The special halftime show featured the cheerleaders and the hairy drill team. Neither the cheerleaders nor the drill team forgot to make themselves attractive for the public. They globbed on tons of make-up, styled their newly acquired tresses, and last but not least added that extra sex appeal by stuffing their sweaters with anything from socks to balloons. After the drill team's performance these innocent little girls staged mini wars that included such weapons as eggs, shaving cream, and everyone's favorite, water balloons. The administration managed to keep the fun under control and even enjoyed it a bit.

POWDER PUFF POWDER PUFF

The big event was the game itself. The senior team was skillfully organized by head coaches Andy Proctor and Harry Ryan in a joint effort with assistant coaches Jeff Grove and Brian Galentine. The juniors had sight of their opponent's potential so they organized early. Their coaches were Tony Thompson, Brad Harp, D. R. Carlson, and Mark Wells. Both teams held try-outs and after a series of cuts fielded teams of 35 players each. On Friday, November 30, the fans gathered; the teams huddled to discuss their strategy; and finally the referees, Jimmy Markum, Scott Miller, Mr. Stephen, and Mr. Addie, blew their whistles to begin the game.

As in all sports, stars arose, if only for a brief moment. Lisa Kraus was a success as the senior's second string quarterback. She scored the only touch in the game. Both teams fielded powerful defensive teams. Kristy Adams, who is now known for her powerful legs, added extra points to the senior scoreboard by making a field goal. Other great performances by the Class of '85 were made by Debbie Brown and Kristen Cumberland both offensive players, and Sharon Coleman, who expertly contributed to the defensive line. The Class of '86's first string quarterback, Jill Bartley, injured her hip and was unable to play. Susan Price filled in and did a fine job for the team along with Lynn Larson an outstanding defensive player. The game turned out to be a razzle-dazzle example of school spirit, ending in favor of the graduating team with a score of 8-0.

Boys Varsity Basketball

The Varsity Basketball team started the season tasting the joy of victory. In the first game of the season they met their rival, the Warhawks of Madison. The game was close, going into overtime, but the Cougars pulled out a win. Unfortunately, that was the only win of the season.

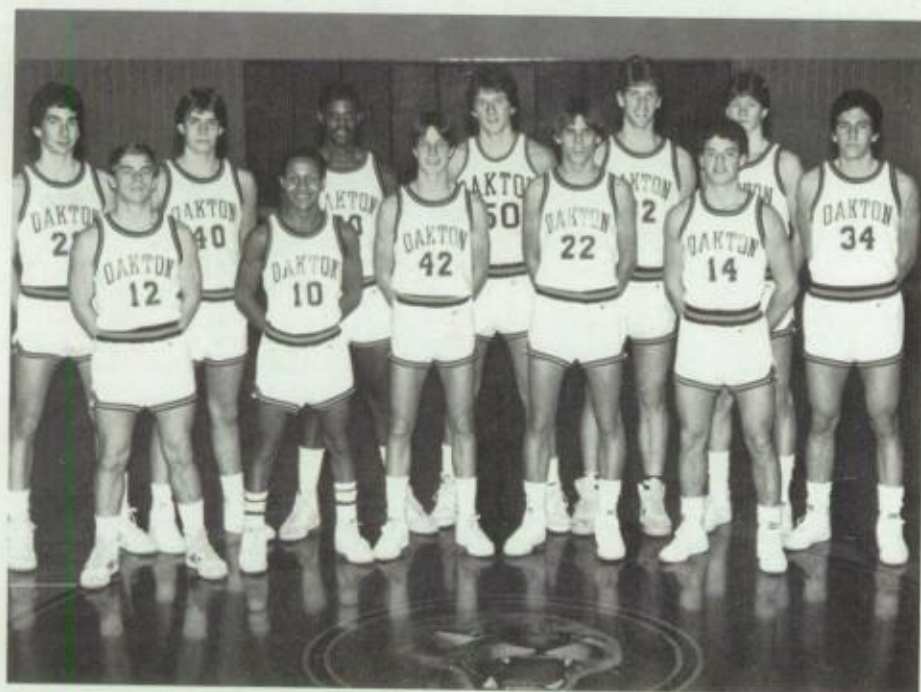

This was a young team, with only three seniors on the squad. Returning senior starter, a senior, Tony Reid, led the team in statistics and had the great season everyone expected from this outstanding player. Jay Simpson and Troy Miller provided additional leadership and skill needed by this young team.

Next year the players will combine talents with the winning JV team. This combination, and the return of some experience, promises to return the joy of victory to the Cougar den.

Girls Varsity Basketball

"You gotta love it," was the motto again this year for the Girl's Varsity Basketball team. Yet this season their fun and enthusiasm was turned to discouragement and defeat. Despite rigorous daily practices, including running, suicides, drills, etc., repositioning of players and endless pep-talks, the lady Cougars could not seem to bring all their evident talent together. Their only victory came against Hayfield. Kim Hardy and Michelle

Alvarez, two of the few seniors on the team, contributed their leadership and experience. Jill Bartley, though out in the early season with an injury, came back later to strengthen the team. Sophomore Sara Harp and Samantha Stair showed promise for a dominating team in future years.

Fresh Basketball

The Freshman Basketball team is the starting point for all aspiring young players. It is the year during which they are molded into tough, skilled players and introduced to high school level competition. The young team this year was led by two coaches, Mr. Fuller and Mr. Riley. Their early season was disappointing, due to many cuts and several mishaps. The young Cougars stayed down until mid season when they won a crushing victory over Fort Hunt. The point spread was 23 points, and this seemed to be the turning point in the season, both physically and mentally. The comeback was outstanding; the Cougars continued to play good solid games. Their late season was commendable, winning against teams they had previously lost to. Basically this was the year to develop talent, and they will continue to look to the future.

The eight members of this winning team, Chris Turner, Blake Cleary, Chip Wallen, Steven Onthank, Mike Bolino, Brian Gallagher, Brian Quackenbush, and Bobby McBroom, practiced daily at Reston South, their home course. After the regular season matches, sophomore sensation Chris Turner went on to compete at a higher level where he placed first in both the district and regional tournaments, and was only one shot away from winning the state championship. Coach Frank Autry speaks very highly of Chris; "He never plays badly and has the poise and maturity of a seasoned veteran." Led by Chris Turner, the years ahead look very promising for Oakton golfers. Only a sophomore, he will leave Oakton with records that will be very difficult to beat.

Gymnastics

Gymnastics is a demanding sport which requires the mastery of both coordination and body control. It combines aerobics, acrobatics and ballet on 4 various pieces of apparatus. At Oakton there were 13 girls who came out to compete on the gymnastics team. The group of girls was very enthusiastic and were constantly trying to develop or improve their skills.

The team practiced every day, coached by Miss Tennyson. They began each practice with a general warm-up, stretching etc., and then each girl practiced their routines on the various apparatus. Some of the team members competed all around, that is, on each of the four pieces of equipment, and some specialized on one or two. Practice was where they created new routines for competition, and practiced them. The coach helped to spot for the more difficult stunts and to create new routines. The girls, though, were very independent and determined, and often helped each other.

Coach Tennyson said that "each girl is outstanding in her own way" and is proud of her team. Throughout the season she watched many of the girls excel in this highly competitive district. Two of these girls were Vicky Valentine and Julie Dunne. Vicky placed 1st all around in all but one of the regular season meets. Julie was most often second, right behind her teammate. At the District meet Vicky Valentine won district champion, Julie Dunne was 4th all around, and Tina Swartz won a 6th for vaulting. Overall it was a good season for Oakton's gymnastic team; one which showed the pride and improvement of each gymnast.

After many long hours of practice the gymnasts were able to display their uneven bars routines in District competition.

Swimming

The Oakton Swim Team is made up of approximately fifty dedicated students. Coached by Eric Johnson, the team practiced daily at Wakefield Park. Being in the tough Northern District, Oakton's swim meets are held every weekend against some of the toughest teams in the area. Although the team is losing many talented seniors this year, Oakton can look forward to success in future years of the Oakton Swim Team.

Winter Track

Practicing outside despite cold temperatures, the Winter Track team survived Saturday morning meets as well. Although the boys' team had a 0-5 record and the girls' a 1-4 record in dual meet competition, there were strong contenders in the Northern District from the team. Coach Drexel George felt that this was a "growing season with lots of improvement." Standouts included Pat Morrow and Jim Scott in the 55m hurdles, and Jim Scott and Robert Brooks in the 55m. The Cougars greatest strength was its high jumpers, with James Mauer, Pat Morrow, and Dave Daigler, all of whom competed in the Regional Meet. Morrow and Mauer placed 3rd and 4th respectively in the region, and continued on to State. Jim Scott, who placed 6th in the 55m at Regionals also continued to the State meet at George Mason University.

Collaborating with Coach George was Coach Grill supervising the girls' team. This year many promising freshmen and sophomores came out, showing that the girls' team will strengthen over the next few years. Standouts were Laura Perdew and Tracy Lansdown in the long jump, Annette Thwaits in the high jump, Amy Gettig in the shot put, Susan Price in the 300m, Leigh Ann Wilson in the 500m, and Dana Brick in the 1000m. All these people went on to the Regional meet, where Dana Brick placed 6th in the 1000m. Most of the athletes are continuing their interests in Spring Track where they hope to improve and go on to State.

In the District meet, at the George Mason field house, sophomore Tracy Lansdown jumped 15'10" to capture 6th place, and a medal.

Throughout the season the boys and girls traveled to meets as one team, and showed support for fellow teammates.

Annette Thwaits, a newcomer to Oakton, was a great asset to the Cougar team. Her high jumping skills took her to Districts and won her a 4th place medal.

In competition at Episcopal, Amy Gettig showed her power in the shot put. Her talent later took her to the District meet and got her a 6th place medal.

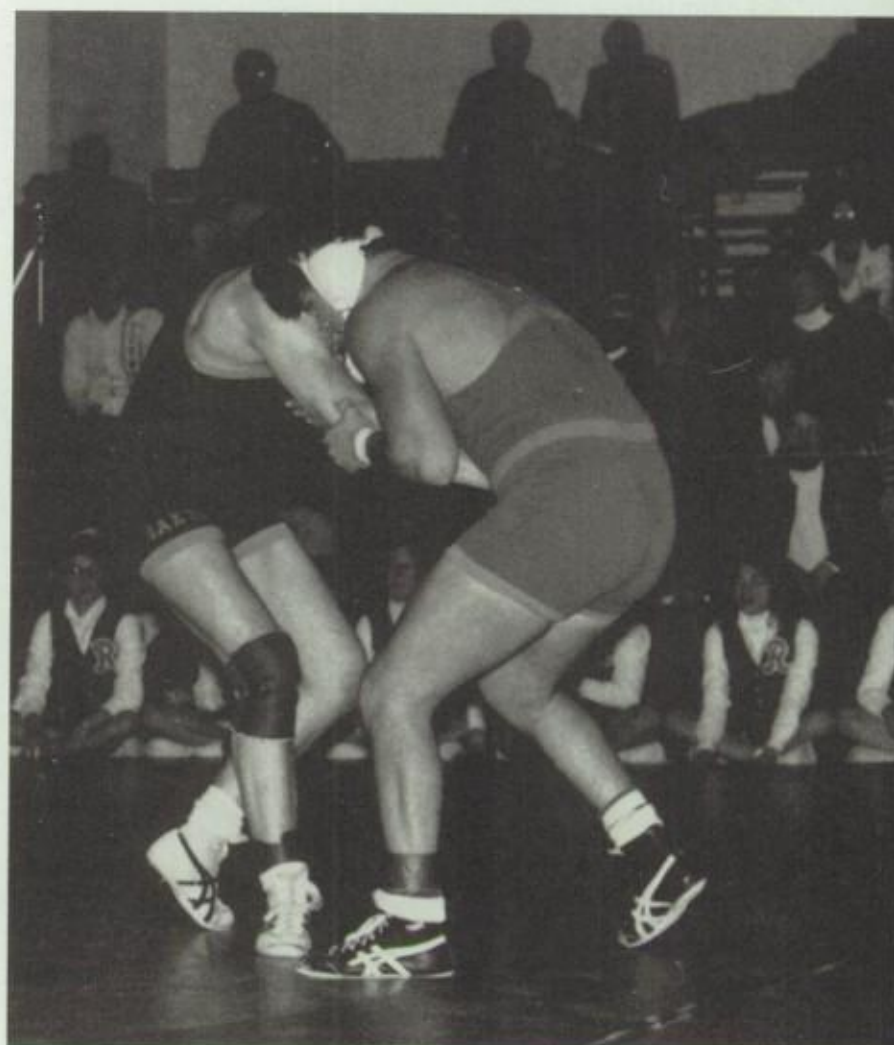

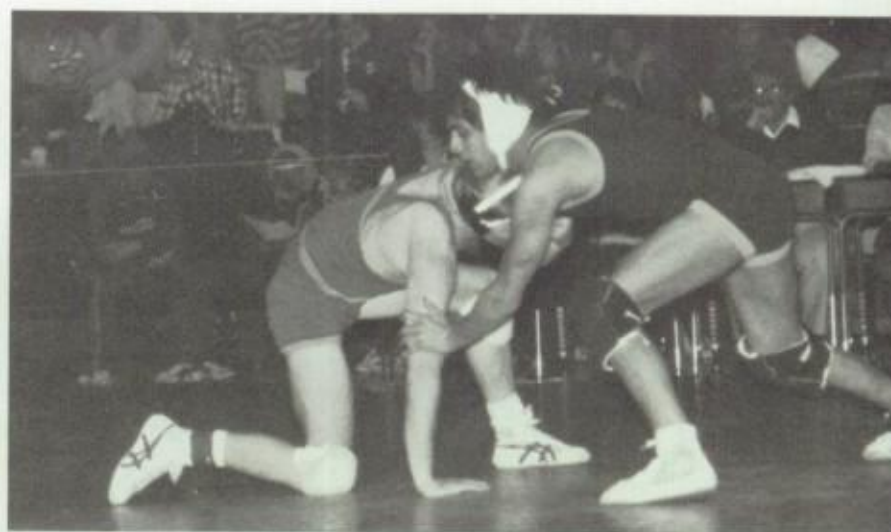

Wrestling

When Oakton wrestlers hit the mats again for practice in November people predicted that the '84-'85 season would bring success. The team this year was one of the youngest, but most talented in Oakton's history. Although the wrestling team contains a handful of the better wrestlers in the Northern District, forfeits and injuries in the lower and higher weight classes kept the team as a whole from a winning season. The true nature of Oakton's wrestling team was shown by the middle weight classes in tournaments over Christmas and at the end of the season. In the District competition Dave Burch won the 167 pound weight class, both Kim Thwaites and Greg Rodgers placed 2nd for their respective classes, and Gary Schebella 3rd. Eight wrestlers from the team were able to advance to the Regional meet.

Hello Scott, well it's seem interesting in English to say the most. Mrs. Reine was our teacher, and I don't know about you but I didn't like her ^{caps} very much. You and Robert were throwing projectiles around the room. I still think that Bill Elliott is the best. Even though my opinion is a little bias, you should follow his lead.
 He's great. Soon I'll not only know a great deal can drives but a terrific football player.

Varsity Baseball '85

Spring fever hit the 84-85 Varsity Baseball team and soon returning Seniors Rob Dutrow, Brian Gallentine, and David (Barney) Foley along with the rest of the team were out on the diamond working their hearts out. Many of Coach Tom Hall's 83-84 players graduated so he started the season with a very young team. However youth does not mean inexperience and the Varsity Baseball team plans on a successful season.

In the game against Fairfax, the Oakton batting was impressive.

Girls Varsity Soccer '85

Starting off the 1985 season with a record of 4-0 in non-district games, the girls Varsity soccer team should be very competitive in the district. The combination of Valerie Sims and Lynn Jones on the right side is a major force in this year's offense. Other Key players are Elise Lane, Sharon Coleman, LeighAnn Wilson, and Hillary Vieregg. With this year's team a new feeling of unity is being established. Each player has a secret buddy on the team who decorates her locker before each game. Other plans to increase the spirit of the team are camping trips and trips to Kings Dominion. All these activities make Coach Godart feel that the team will perform more as a whole, and thus be more successful.

Coach Godart and Coach Conroy look pensive as they contemplate the teams next move.

Spring Track '85

The 1984-1985 Spring Track team, working under a more structured program, should enjoy a good season despite the lack of a new track. Led by Seniors, Mark Johnson, James Maurer, John Merikowski and Tara Weber, the team looks stronger than in the past few seasons. Besides the 5 regular season meets against Northern District opponents, the 100 plus member team will also compete in 5 invitational meets in the region beginning with the Harringer Relays and including meets at Mt. Vernon, T C Williams and R.E. Lee.

Oakton's Athletes

WRESTLING:
As the winter drew on Oakton closely watched the wrestling progress of Greg Rogers. He went to the State meet, and placed second for his weight class.

Chris Turner, a sophomore, was a force to be reckoned with on the greens. His beautiful skill and talent led him to win the District Regional tournaments, and took him to the state meet where he placed second by one stroke.

SOCCKER:
Senior Chris Pfau is one of Oakton's outstanding soccer players. Last season he was picked for the District and Regional teams.

FOOTBALL:
Defensive Back Aaron Boston, was a player that Oakton's opponents wanted desperately to avoid. His distinct talent took him to play on the District and Regional teams.

CROSS COUNTRY:
In this year's State Cross Country meet, sophomore Paul Hoffman was the one runner sent from Oakton.

TENNIS:
Last year's boy's tennis team was led mainly by Lee Bell and Steve Muller. Both in singles and doubles, the two were a competitive match. As a doubles team, Lee and Steve went on to play in the state tournament. For girl's tennis the highlight was Stacy Mass. She won most of her matches during the regular season and went on to compete at higher levels.

GYMNASTICS:
Throughout the winter the name Vicky Valentine was one that was heard often. In the regular season she placed first in all but one meet. She went on to win first place All-Around in the District and Region and Second in the State.

ADVENTURES

Barbell Club

Pumping iron after the football season . . . is what the players and other students (girls included) did to keep in shape. The $5 charge was a real bargain in today's fitness market. The money collected was used to purchase charts (all improvements must be noted) and additional equipment. Coach Herb supervised the group. Workouts ran from November until the end of May. Shapes were kept and even improved on!

The Barbell Club

Cheerleaders

Ahead in spirit Oakton's freshman, junior varsity, and the varsity cheerleaders were a major attribute to school spirit. They cheered at games, they led pep rallies and attended a three day camp in August to work on cheering. There they won a megaphone for being most spirited, and blue ribbons for overall cheering abilities. To raise money, all three squads organized a successful car wash. The cheerleaders worked hard to keep Oakton fans and students spirits high. The freshman and J.V. squads' sponsor was Mrs. McDonald. There were 10 girls on the freshman squad with Lisa Babainalas as captain. J.V. had 12 members under captain Cory Haydon. This year for the first time, the J.V. had the opportunity to have their own mascots. The two cougars were Sen Maruni and Heather Droskovic. The varsity squad consisted of 21 girls, three of whom were seniors. Because of the junior majority, their team chose a junior captain, Joelly Kolasch. Co-captains were Thuy Tran and Lee Mitchell. Their sponsor was Ms. Keener.

Students at Oakton owe a great deal to their talented and spirited cheerleaders.

J.V. CHEERLEADERS: Kim Mega, Colleen Dunn, Corey Haden, Vicky McPeters, Sorraine Andre, Kristine Mylis, Marie Theriault, Lisa Dano, Kris Limbach, Avery Hesford, Megan Warner.

FRESHMAN CHEERLEADERS: Jackie Barbara, Kristine Hanna, Blake Ford, Donna Lacey, Lori Proctor, Helen Ailsworth, Jeannie Shaffer, Tina Swartz, Lisa Babounahis.

Chemistry II

The Chemistry II club was established by advanced chemistry students to continue lab work and to increase their knowledge of chemistry. Membership was limited to students in A.P. Chemistry classes. The NJAS offered scholarships and allowed the members to practice verbal recitations of their research. Furthermore, the club worked to assure that the classes were always adequately supplied with energy-rich nourishment such as popcorn, cookies, and soda. These supplies were an incentive for members to continue diligently on their researches. It was through the work of professor/sponsor Mrs. Lundergard, that this organization came into existence.

DECA

Distributive Education Club of America is a national social/service organization for students interested in marketing and distributive education. During the year, members were trained in leadership skills and explored various career opportunities. The sponsor, Mr. Poston, helped ready them for competitions on the district, state, and national levels. The year's big event was a trip to the fashion center of America, New York City. Candy sales helped send this ambitious club to the "Big Apple!"

Drill Team

"Prince," "Cars," "Puttin On the Ritz," these are just a few of the musical selections the award-winning 1984-1985 Oakton High School Drill Team has danced to this year. This group of talented girls performed their dazzling routines at football and basketball games. Led by captain Erin Cosby, co-captains Sonia Weiser and Bonnie Blunk, treasurer Susan Hamman, and secretary Debbie Gates, the Drill Team participates in competitions, and promotes school spirit. Over the summer, the Drill Team attended camp at the University of Maryland where the team won the Spirit Pom and Michelle Black and Jill Houston received individual awards for their great performances.

Drama Club

On the road to stardom . . . The Drama Club was the place to polish up a future stars act. Sponsored by Mrs. Perrino, the club put together three productions during the year, one for each school season. Participation was open to all, talented or not. Members were responsible for staging, publicity, programs, ushering, refreshments, and ticket sales along with acting. Rehearsals were long and hard, but the great performances made the effort worthwhile.

Thespians

This national honor is reserved for those special drama club members who have earned 20 points by either performing in plays or working on the technical production of the plays.

HONOR THESPIANS: Ralph Goodwin, Aaron Young, Kathy Kwon, David Grove, MacGregor.

Honor Thespians

This extremely talented group is very select and difficult to get into. All the members are Thespians and become Honor Thespians when they have earned 60 points. To earn these 60 points the members must achieve starring roles in drama productions and also assist in the technical aspects of the play. The Honor Thespians organized a trip to New York to visit Broadway and were also involved in community activities. The Thespians lead the drama department but the Honor Thespians lead the Thespians.

Forensics

Have you got a feeling you want to express, or have a point you want to make? The Forensics club is an organization, sponsored by Mr. Dunson, composed of a handful of students that compete against other schools in public speaking events. Dramatic interpretation, extemporaneous speaking, declamation, poetry, and original works were the subjects that were dealt with. Monthly meetings were designed so that students could practice their speeches and improve on their self-confidence, especially for the major tournaments that took place in January, February, and March.

French Club

French took on a new meaning to members of the French Club this year. Learning to speak the language is fine for some but not this group. They wanted to learn more about the culture and that they did. Club activities included participation in the Foreign Language Fair; Foreign Language Week; decorating display windows; and the end of the year banquet held at a French restaurant. The club enjoyed the guidance of three sponsors Mrs. Hillman, Mrs. Dahl and Mrs. Ashford.

FBLA

Future Business Leaders of America — Strictly business . . . this was one of the largest organizations at OHS. FBLA is a national service club whose members are interested in business as a profession. Members met monthly under the direction of Ms. Crabil, Ms. Thompson, and Ms Apted. Speakers were brought in to address topical issues. Members attended leadership training workshops, and regional, state, and national conferences.

French Honor Society

The French Honor Society like the National Honor Society is a recognition of achievement; but unlike the NHS members are forever recognized. Once inducted a member cannot be dismissed. Requirements for membership are enrollment in a third year French class; and an "A" average in French I and French II. This society is recognized for academic accomplishments in high school. The end of the year brought the members together to feast at a French restaurant.

Geo-History Club

This new club to OHS has given its members a creative opportunity to apply their cartographic techniques to the study of history. Under the direction of Ms. Kenyon and Ms. Smith, members studied old maps of the local area and compared them to maps of today. Vienna, Alexandria, Georgetown, Bull Run, and Manassas Battlefield were among a few of the areas studied. Field trips were taken to the sites whenever possible. Relatively new to this school, the club hoped to recruit more members with years to come.

German Honor Society

The Delta Epsilon Phi was composed of students who had taken three semesters of German, had a 3.5 average in the language, and a 3.0 average in all the other classes. The club raised money to buy text books and ran a free tutorial service. The club sold Gummy Bears and chocolate filled Christmas calendars. Officers include: President Beth Holleman, V-President John Battiston, and Secretary-Treasurer Robin Gowdy. Their sponsor was Ms. Keener.

I.R.C.

Foreign relations were well practiced by this club. Members participated in three Model United Nation events during the year, including our own OHS Model U.N. This simulated U.N. experience took place over a two day period in April. Students were invited to witness the event. Membership was open to all interested students. The club's sponsor, Mr. Tom Burkett, provided members with an experience to be remembered. Who knows maybe someday they will be apart of the real thing.

It's Academic

Questions, answers, questions, answers. The drill was endless but the membership was open to all students and the competition was fierce. Finally a group of three was chosen to represent O.H.S. on the air in "It's Academic." Practices were held after school to help the team expand and increase their collective knowledge. The competition was held on NBC television. Mrs. Lundergard and Mrs. Walters, the sponsors, and the team are due congratulations for a fantastic win.

Key Club

"Man-hours for Man Kind" was the theme of this year's Key Club. This service club is one of OHS's most active organizations. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Maggie Vann the Keys participated in the Cystic Fibrosis Bowl for Breath; Christmas food drive; Teacher Appreciation Day activities; and they even helped put a bit of sparkle back into OHS with some paint and elbow grease.

Keyettes

The Keyettes are a national service group sponsored by the Kiwanis and Ki-Wives. Their motto, "We serve" is evidenced in the numerous projects Keyettes have participated in. With the help of sponsor Ms. Janet Walsh; President Lisa Walker, Vice President Tracy King, Secretary Yon Chung Ham, and Treasurer Susy Bang have led the club into activities such as the Temporaries Food for Christmas Drive and the Cystic Fibrosis Bowl-for-Breath. Underclass officer Robin Gowedy and alternate Shelli Meegan were elected to ensure the participation of the club's large Junior and Sophomore membership. The Keyettes also provided valuable services to the school by cleaning up the football field; participating in Freshman orientation, Back-to School Night, College Night, Baccalaureate, and Graduation. The Keyettes have become a vital part of school functions.

Chorale

This musical group sang a mixture of both popular and gospel songs. Aside from performing in all school concerts, they also performed in various functions around the Washington area. The group was a mixture of 11th and 12th grade girls and guys from all grade levels. Shannon Vergot, a very talented vocalist, was selected as president and Susan Cho, a great pianist, was the groups main accompanist.

Girls Ensemble

The Girls' Ensemble is a chorus open to all girls in 10th, 11th, and 12th grades. These girls perform choral productions at Oakton as well as at local intermediate schools. The Girls' Ensemble provides individuals with the opportunity to participate in All-County and All-District Chorus.

Girls Chorus

The Girls Chorus appeared in all of the major concerts and performed in the community. Sponsor, Mrs. Williams, said "They enjoyed singing popular songs." Rehearsals were fun at times and tiring at other times. All the long hours of practice paid off on performance nights. President of the mostly freshmen group, was Kathy Klein, and the Vice President was Sheri Reed.

Oaktonians

This elite group of talented singers does more than just entrance audiences with their melodic voices, each song is skillfully choreographed as well. The group is comprised of 4 girls and 4 boys selected during auditions by, the choral director, Carolyn Anderson. The Oaktonians sing and dance to pop music at all school choral concerts as well as performing throughout the community.

National Honor Society

Each year the most outstanding Juniors and Seniors with grade point averages of 3.5 or higher are invited to become members of the National Honor Society. Leadership, character, scholarship and service are vital qualities to the select membership which now number 200. Sponsor Mrs. Mary Lundegard, President Lisa Kraus, Vice President Ken Watanabe, Secretary John Battiston and Treasurer Kevin Barltrop hope to tap the potential of each of the talented members. Not only is the NHS an honorary group, it also is a service organization with activities ranging from a scholarship fund, a student-teacher reception, a recognition showcase, ushering at Baccalaureate and Graduation, and the world-famous Hoagie Sale. The National Honor Society is a group of fine individuals whose goals include the improvement of the school community.

Outlook

The Oakton Outlook is an award winning publication covering the school's predominant events and current happenings. Under the guidance of Mrs. Stansberry, the school's newspaper is produced and distributed monthly by approximately 30 journalism students on the Outlook Staff. Much time and effort was required for researching the information, taking pictures, and putting the paper together.

Math Team

The Math Team and the Junior Math Team met for weekly competitions with other area schools. The objective was to be the first to solve an extremely difficult math problem. Members attended monthly meetings of the American Scholastic Mathematics Association. Their abilities were challenged, but like true puzzle solvers they welcomed it. Membership in the Jr. Math Team was open to Alg. I, II and Geometry students. Math Team membership was open to Alg. II-Trigonometry and up students. Students were able to "Letter," for the first time, in this activity. Mrs. Bolstein and Mrs. Westbrook sponsored this group.

Project Concern

Project Concern is a service organization that works for the school and the community. Sponsored by Mr. Price, this select group of students worked together on many projects. These projects included working actively with the local senior citizens through correspondence and field trips. Each year, the members cook and serve a complete Thanksgiving meal for approximately 150 senior citizens. Other services of Project Concern, this past school year were selecting Oakton's Teacher-of-the-Year, and Oakton's Parent-of-the-Year. Meetings were held once a month, in the evening, at members' homes. The students do not seek publicity. They have chosen "We love — we serve" as their motto.

Prom Committee

With the goal of organizing an elaborate Prom to present to the Seniors at the end of the year, the Prom Committee, composed of only Juniors, started the school year raising funds. Candy sales and post-football game dances were two of the more successful fund raising activities. Using money saved from the Junior class treasury of a year ago and money raised this year, the Prom committee payed for a list of expenses that included the hotel, the band, the professional photographer, the invitations, and all the decorations. Through dedication and long hours of planning, the club put together an event which many will treasure for the rest of their lives.

Math Team

As a result of the combined talent and effort of the twenty-five members of the team, Oakton scored in the upper third of their national meets. Sponsored by Mrs. Bolstein, the team met on Thursdays after school to prepare for tough competitions against other high schools. The members participated in the County Math Meets and the American Scholastic Mathematics Association Meets.

All members must have taken Algebra II/Trigonometry or higher level math courses. David Wheeler, Andrew Tomkins, and Jeff Laurenson are recognized as top members of the team. Nine members of the team received varsity letters. A spring picnic is a well-deserved reward for all the intelligent and hard-working members of the Math Team.

Safety Council

Under the Supervision of Mr. Autry, members of the Safety Council made it their business to make others more aware of safety. Traffic safety was their main concern. This group stressed the often deadly consequences of drinking and driving. They sponsored a successful bloodmobile drive in the fall. Students and teachers showed their concern by donating blood. The Safety Council worked on projects and community services for both the young and old. They visited elementary schools to put on safety programs. Some members were given the opportunity to ride with police to the scene of automobile accidents. The Safety Council was actively involved in promoting Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD).

Spanish Honor Society

The Spanish Honor Society is an organization which recognizes those students who have excelled in Spanish. The club is comprised of students who have taken at least three years of the Spanish Language. These outstanding students completed their foreign language courses with a minimum 3.5 average, and have an overall average in all classes of no less than a 2.5. Club members offer their services as tutors, so others might learn the language. Mrs. Pukal, the SHS sponsor, plans yearly field trips for club members. In the past, the club attended the opera "Evita," and the Aztec exhibit at an art museum in Washington, D.C.

Student Advisory Council

Before elected, nominees for the Student Advisory Council promised to represent OHS to the best of their abilities, and they did just that. They attended School Board Meetings to present their concerns and ideas as representatives of the student body. The council is one of five that make up the Area 2 SAC. During its spring convention new laws and constitutional amendments were enacted. Under the guidance of Mr. Murphy, this committee made its views known to the School Board and proved that students are citizens too!

Student Government

The Student Government's role at Oakton is to represent the students to the administration and the community. In addition the Student Government serves as a coordinating unit for the many clubs and organizations, and it sponsors many projects as well. These projects include the Student Handbook, freshmen orientation, Homecoming, Mayfair, and the Valentine dance.

VICA

The purpose of this club is to train members in business leadership skills. Under the guidance of Mr. Linza, members learned vocational skills which are sure to help them in their future jobs. A highlight of this industrious club, was at the November installation breakfast held at the Westwood Country Club. Though the subject matter was serious, members enjoyed the club activities.

Writers' Block

This club's purpose was to encourage and critique creative writing. It was closely linked to OPUS, the literary section of the yearbook. Students competed in national writing contests and a school wide poetry contest held fourth quarter. Meetings were held twice a month and members shared ideas and . . . and . . . and . . . and . . ., well let's all join the Writers' Block.

Mechanical Wizards

Those popping, spinning, fast moving wizards of rhythm and motion entertained us on many occasions. This break-dancing group started in the spring of '84. Their first performance, at the May Fair, drew crowds as students gathered to watch a dazzling performance. Coordination and rhythm proved essential for membership in this club. The Wizards fascinated both students at OHS and Mrs. Jo Webster, their sponsor, with every new routine.

Paragon Staff

Where does our yearbook, the Paragon, come from? Does it just appear out of thin air each spring? Not at all! Throughout the year a busy staff produces articles, photographs, captions, and layout designs which are sent to Taylor Publishers and miraculously transformed into yearbook form. The staff, under the guidance of Tim Watts and Shirley Mazin, work daily during sixth period to document and preserve some of the best experiences of our high school days. Some goals of editors, Shannon Elder and Kim Wyckoff were to use more color, improve writing, and utilize design techniques which were learned during a weekend seminar at the University of Virginia. Of course none of this could have been possible without help from teachers, administrators, after school staff, and especially, our sponsors. In the future, this book will serve as a store of memories of our high school experiences!

Putting her design skills to work, Lisa Walker sketches out a layout design onto a quad-pack.

Yearbook: After Hours

The after school staff plays a vital role in the production of the Paragon. Without them it would be difficult to meet publishing deadlines with the large workload of the main staff. These staff members dedicated several hours each week after school to help with writing captions and articles, then typing volumes of material which was necessary to produce the book. The most dedicated were our after school editors, Kim Willis and Kathy Robinson who not only devote their time after school, but also during yearbook class as well. Certainly, they all deserve recognition and much thanks.

Stacy Sheak and Kate New carefully choose the best pictures to be included in their page layout.

Collaborating their skills, Avery Hesford and Fati Mojallali identify and caption photographs.

Opus is a magazine published as a section of the yearbook with the purpose of presenting the best prose, poetry, and artwork from material submitted by students. Submissions of art, literature, and photography are reviewed by club members and selected for publication. The club is composed of approximately 20 dedicated students who gave up their personal time unselfishly and worked many long hours, both at school and home, to meet pressing deadlines. This creative group under the excellent guidance of Mrs. Jacobs left a club record to be proud of and their performance should be emulated by other groups.

The Ultimate Goal!

Time passes and we must say "good-bye." The books are back on the dusty shelves, old test papers cover the school's hallways, and lockers are barred. Although we may leave school and all the classes work load, we will never leave the special times we shared. We will never forget the football games, the pep-rallies, the Friday night parties, and the school dances. It is the moments like these that will keep us all together. Even miles away, we will always be close.

CONGRATULATIONS

from Save the Tiger and you thought you were alone wond'ring where you are and you thought it was a dream you faced;
the war
the war
it goes on though the fighting stops to breathe.
there perceive your past
glitt'ring gold and red upon the beach
glitt'ring gold and red . . .
the spires of your childhood Oz are fallen, spilled upon the earth in reckless clumps of stone.
glory dies slowly, and with still a smile (as if to say)
"i thought you ought to see that just once" slowly glory dies
glitt'ring gold and red upon the beach
glitt'ring gold and red . . .

I'm free, I'm free! At last she cried Higher and higher she flew
She wizzed, she dizzed, she turned, she dived
Climbing up into the blue.

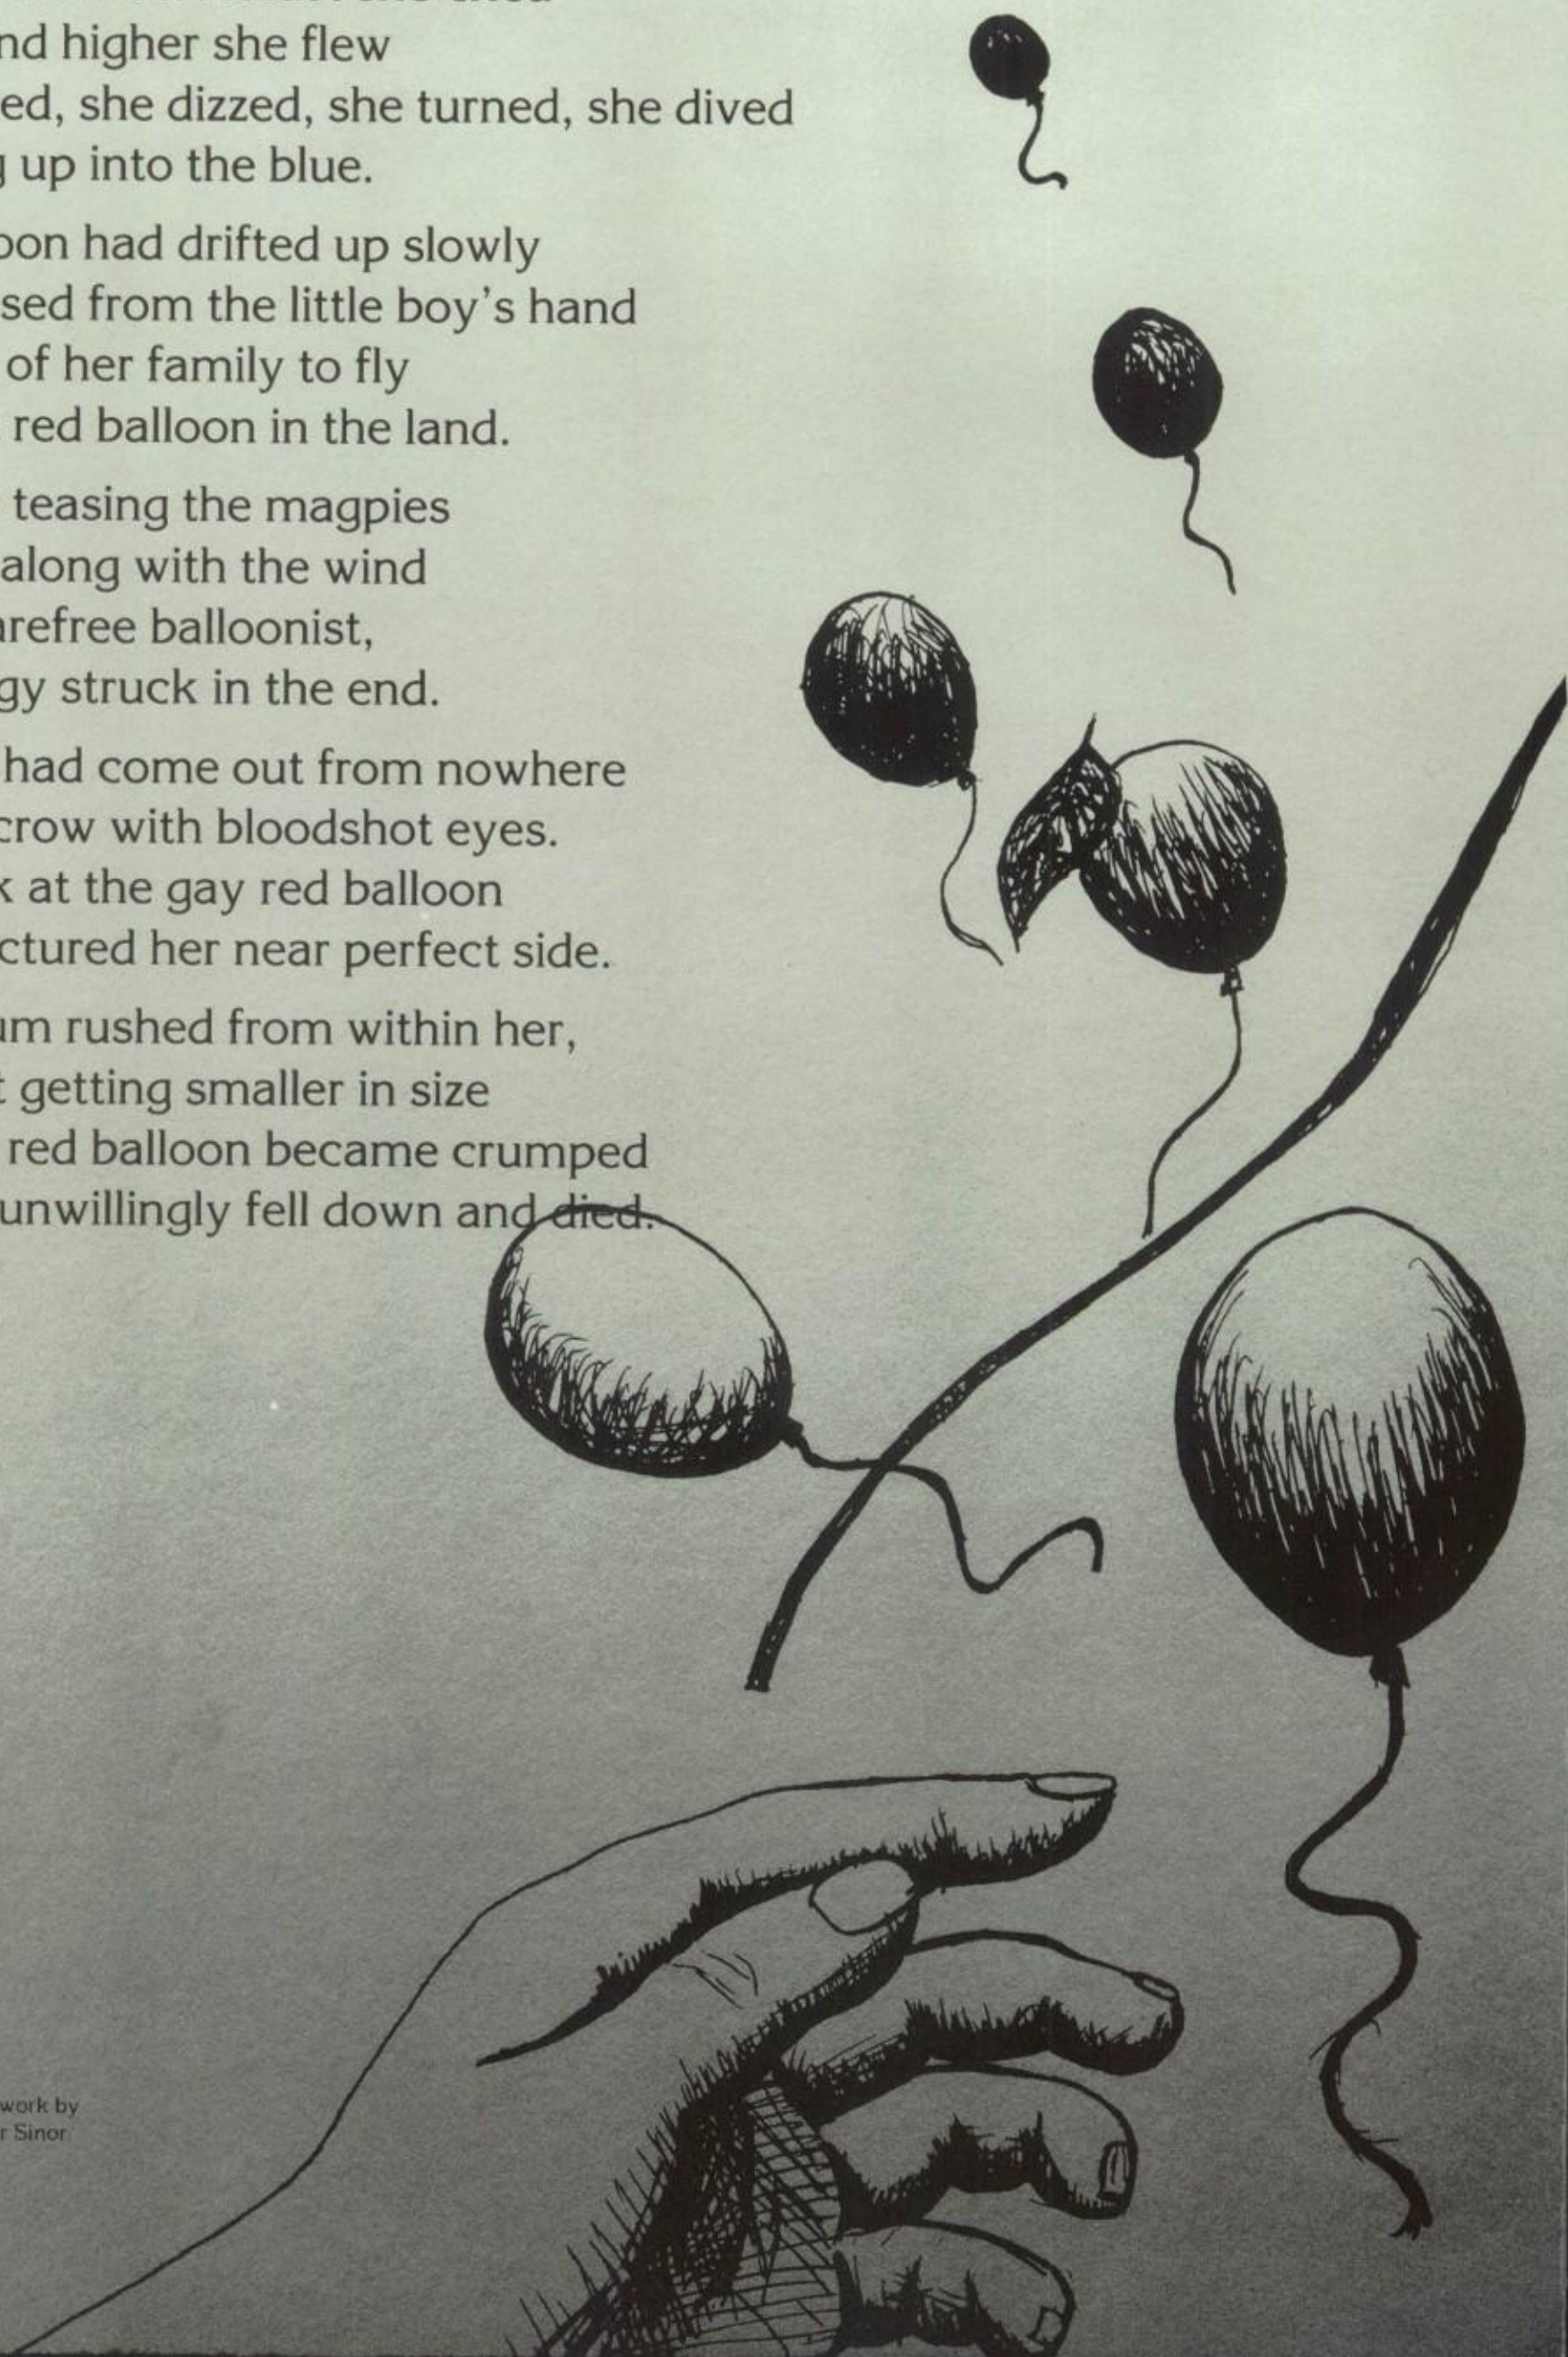

The balloon had drifted up slowly
She'd eased from the little boy's hand
The first of her family to fly
The best red balloon in the land.

Playfully teasing the magpies
Floating along with the wind
She, a carefree balloonist,
By tragedy struck in the end.

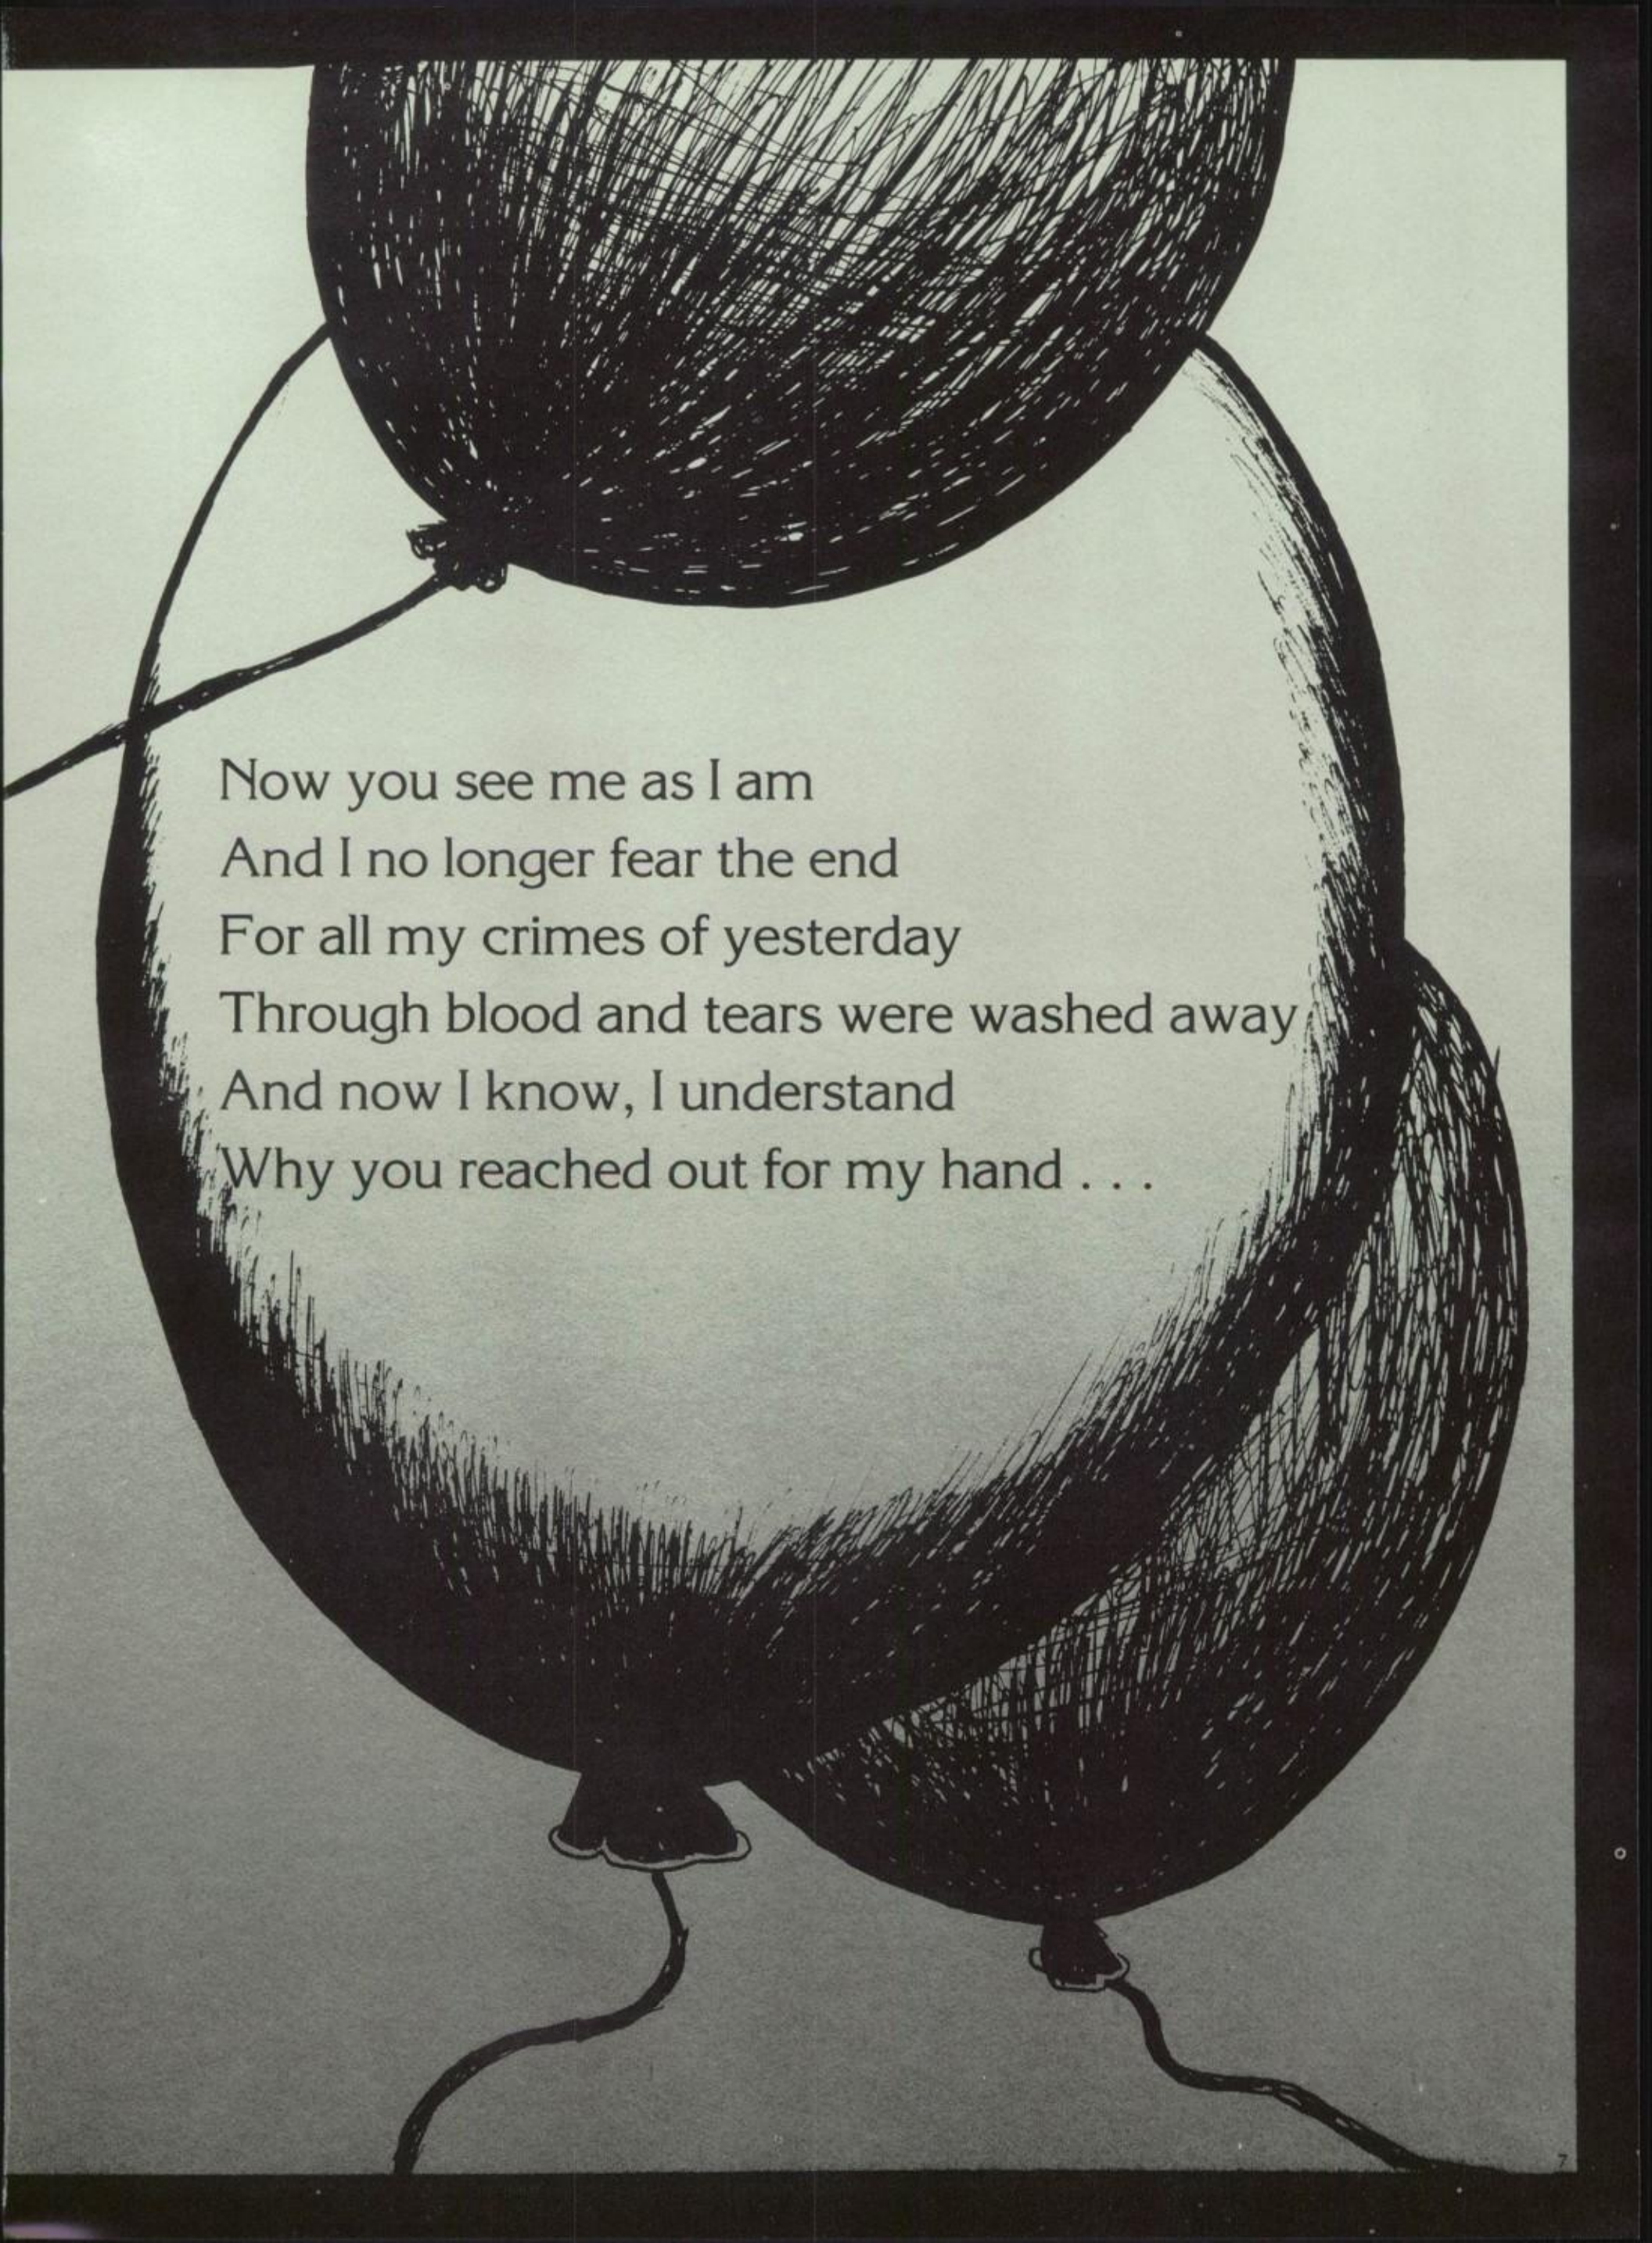

The bird had come out from nowhere
A black crow with bloodshot eyes.
He struck at the gay red balloon
And punctured her near perfect side.

The helium rushed from within her,
Her waist getting smaller in size
The best red balloon became crumped
And she unwillingly fell down and died.

Literary work by Jennifer Sinor

Now you see me as I am
And I no longer fear the end
For all my crimes of yesterday
Through blood and tears were washed away
And now I know, I understand
Why you reached out for my hand . . .

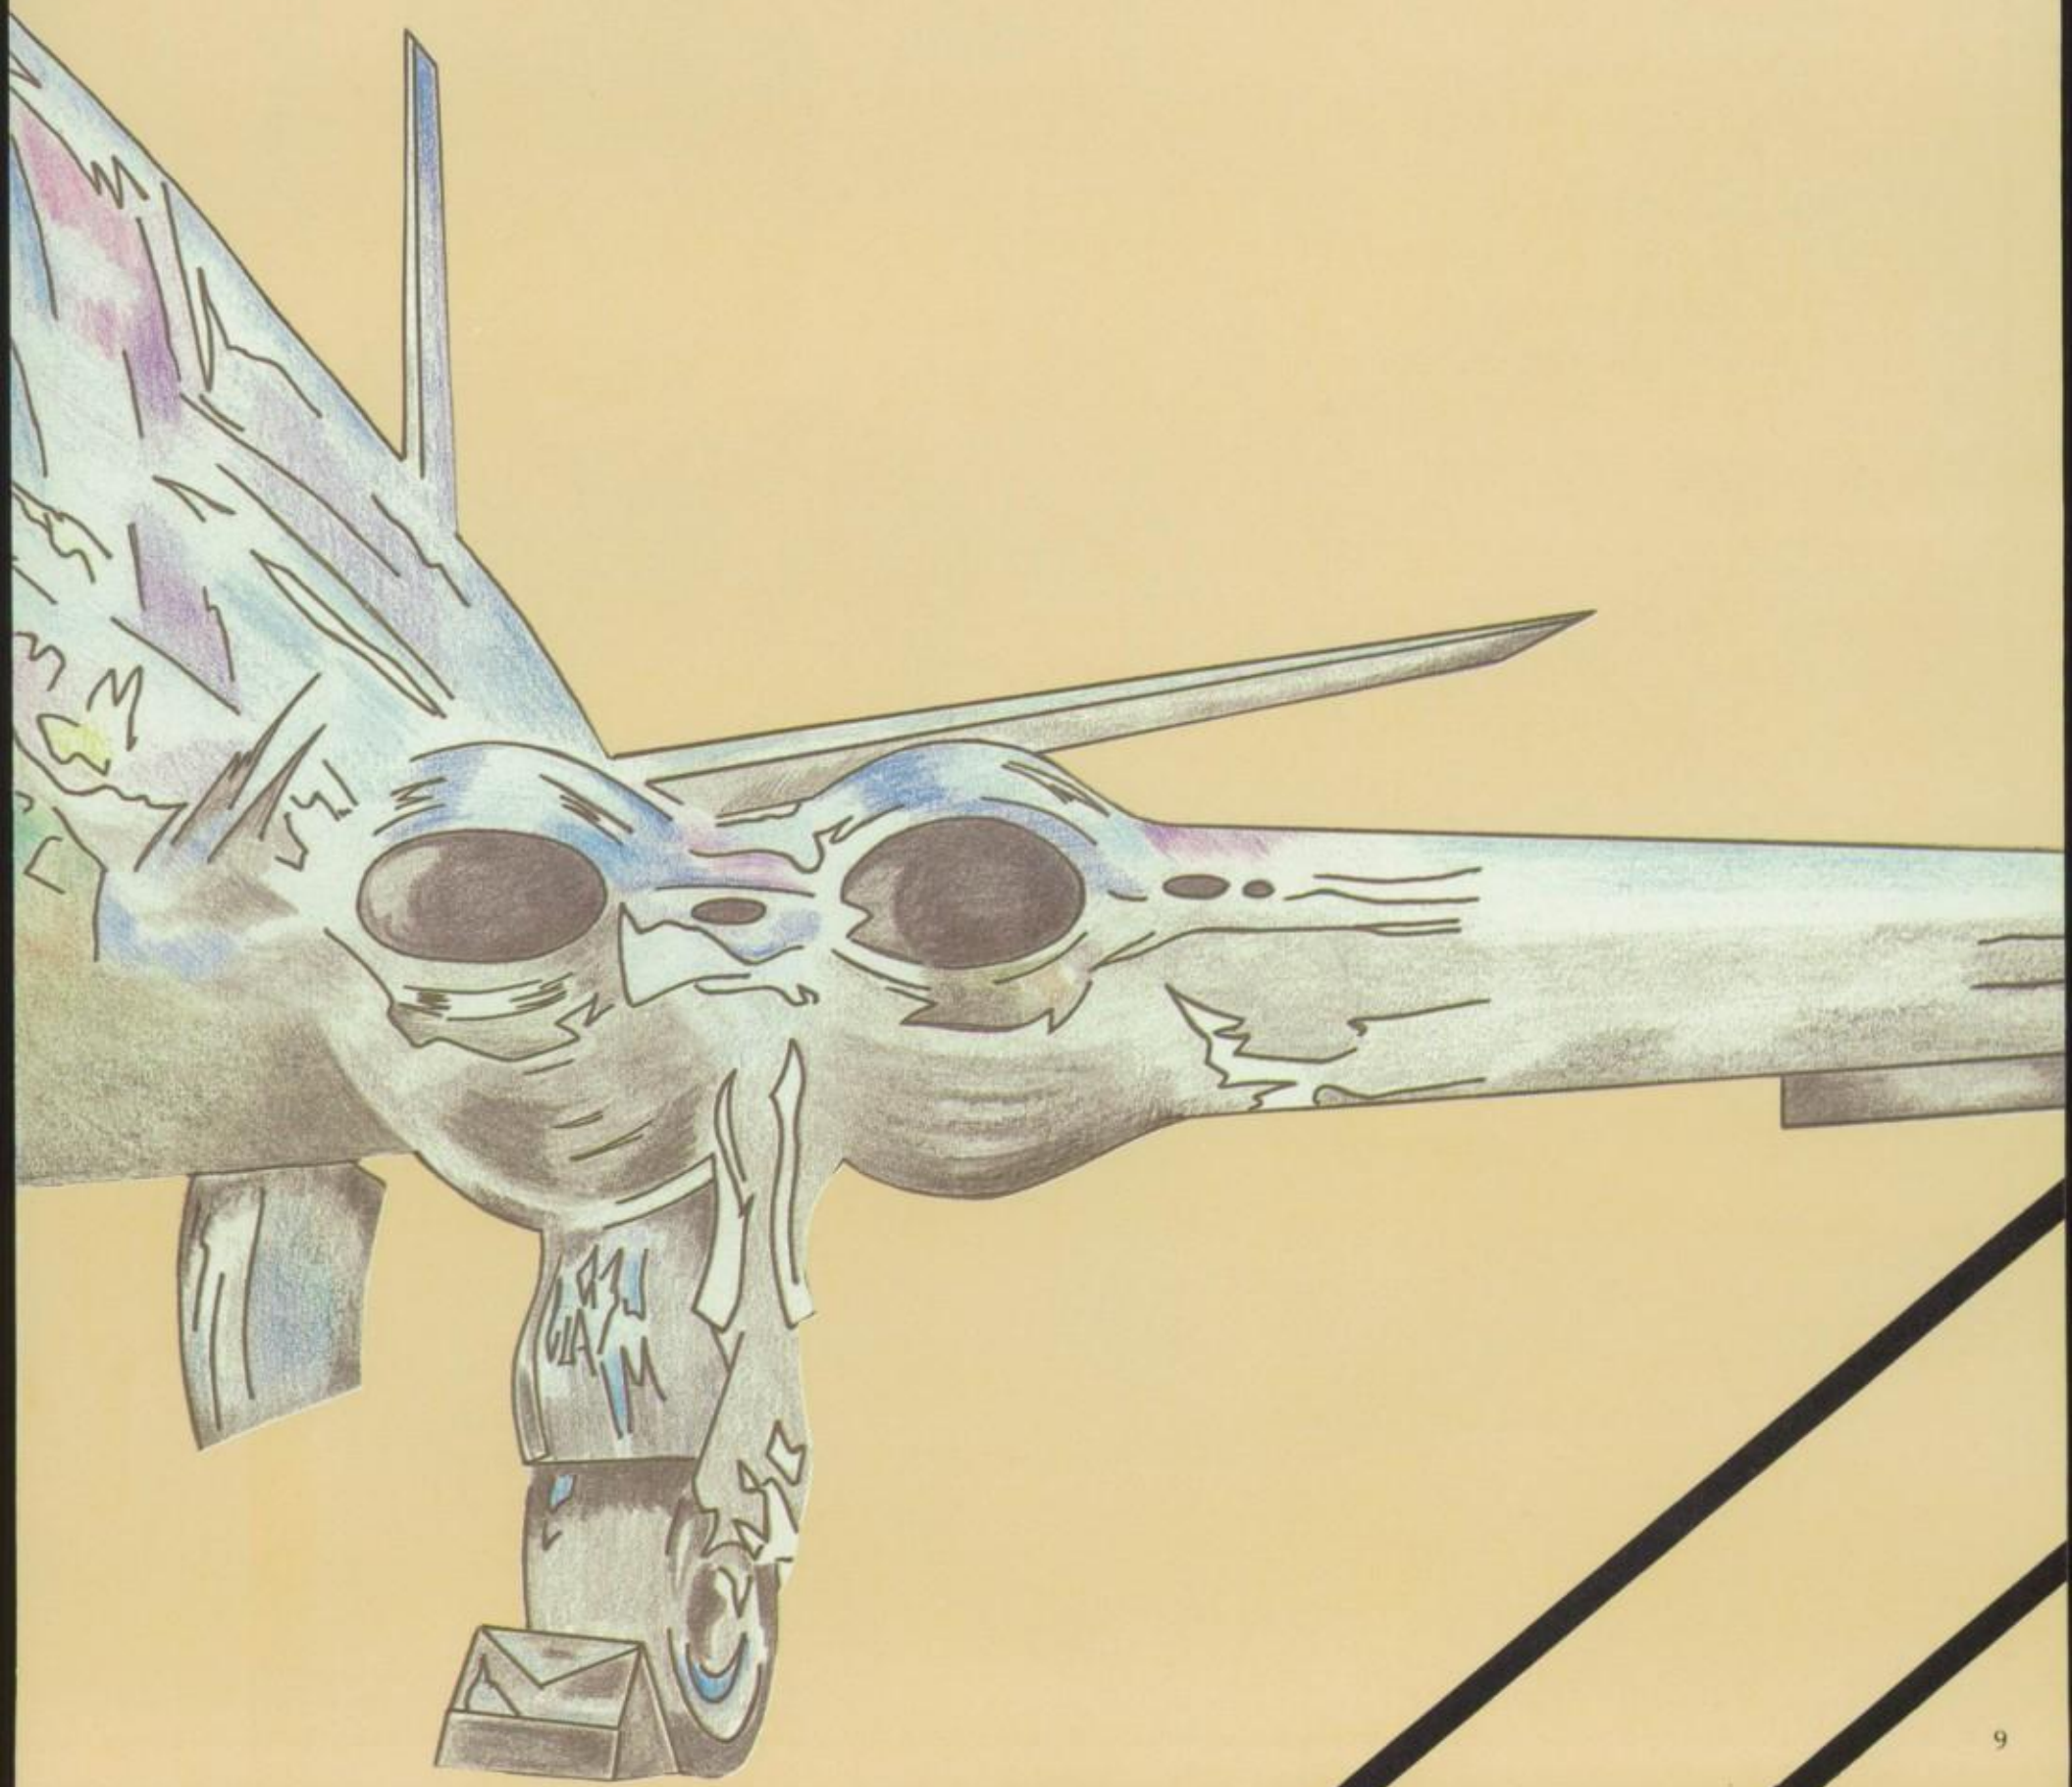

Artwork and Literary Work

What a magnificent steel machine —
When aloft it is as beautiful as any bird ever seen.
Were it not for the pioneers and the Kitty Hawk Flight,
We could not travel such great distances day and night.
This marvelous invention has made the world a much smaller place —
Visit New York, London, Paris, Moscow and even outerspace —
It joins people of all nations to share customs and dreams,
And can deliver necessities to those with no means.
Who could deny what this wondrous airplane has done
To make the whole world as one.

Thinking Back

I'll think back — on those memories
The good, not the bad
I'll cherish the moments of Happiness we had.

I long for the moments
We had face to face,
The overflowing love
No one else could replace.

I often start to wonder
If given more time,
If we could have banished
Love's actions of crime.

But time matters not
For old memories hold true,
And often I wonder, if You remember them too.

Paradise Postponed

I was not frightened as I began to survey my new surroundings; on the contrary, I had a miraculous feeling of serenity. I had always dreamed that heaven was a place of fluffy, white clouds and celestial beings; this land, however, was much more spectacular. It expanded boundlessly and every color in the broad spectrum glowed around me. Wanting to express my feelings of rapture, I tried to leap but discovered that I simply floated along as if in an air balloon. I no longer had a body or skeleton — simply a childlike soul free from burdens. I felt the presence of countless other beings surrounding me; although, no longer human, I could not visualize them. A feeling stronger than any in the realm of human perception flowed like a current through all of us, and I soon realized that we all existed in harmony. Astounded at this new way of life, I was overcome with joy in the realization that I would live out eternity here. All human instincts such as fear and hate were lost to me . . . Suddenly, an intense pain shot through my body. I felt the stiffness of the operating table against my vertebrae and heard a sigh of relief from the head surgeon. Regaining my realm of human emotion, I felt an intense hatred toward the surgeon. How could I ever return to my previous mode of life after experiencing such a divine existence?

LIZ DALGETTY

The Mask

Masks,
I have been told that
They exist.
I suppose my own
Mask blinded me to
The others that surround me.

A smile is captured
But only to be concealed
Behind the mask.
Why?
The mask protects us.
Or is it our own self-destruction?

The tyrant seems calm.
It, too, holds a mask.
A feeling of concern
Jumps in front of the unaware.
We are led astray only
To be consumed by our Own creation . . . the mask!

FIRE AND WATER

In the beginning, the fire and water were one
Sharing the earth and the sky
Master Time, he took them,
And shaped them and said,
Together we will wind
A ball of earthen thread
And form a paradise of life.
The earth it grew
As fire and water combined
But an argument soon began
Over who should rule
The new domain
The paradise of life.
Fire was the stronger and she burned on and on,
But water was patient and bided her time
Hiding in the air till fire was weak.

The fire, she used up most of her strength
By trying to conquer too soon.
Then water took over and fire was banished
Back to the sky alone
Water and earth soon fell in love
And in their union created a child
Called man.
And fire was angry and flashed in dark stormy skies
But water was stronger and patient and kind
And ruled with a steady hand.

The fire, she knew
A direct assault
Was not the way to go.
A plot was devised
To use the unwise
And water would never know.
Man was the target, that trusted child
Of water and paradise earth.
Fire seduced him, entranced him
He was blinded by her light
And imagined himself
Her lord.
Revenge was her goal and her final success
As fire took control
Man lost his mind, so much in love
Was he.
He destroyed himself
And water and earth
And fire ruled once more.

THE STORM

Silent is the night
Darkness reigns supreme.
Gentle winds breeze by and Caress a hushed girl.
She, waiting for a change,
Patterns to rearrange.
Starry sky and radiant moon,
Aloof and waiting.

Tension sparks the night.
Flashing through her mind
Come visions of unrest.
The focus shifts,
Tremors of disturbance
Join the darkness.
Night sky and glowing moon
Transformed by flashes.

Lightning flashes bright,
Thunder roars, earth trembles.
Straight at the mighty oak
The lightning plummets.
A flash, a roar,
Nothing more.
Where once an entity
Now merely two charred halves.

Gone thinks the girl,
Is the strength of the oak.
What more lies ahead?
Storm moving ever swiftly,
Ignorant of the destruction
Strong may fall and good end,
What then?

When I Contemplate the Autumn Sky

when I contemplate the autumn sky
on days when gray armadas join in battle with the sun and bring to earth a stillness almost sacred;
as pure, immutable as a windswept sigh —
the lost days of some grand illusion call me then:

to ride beyond the northwind as a god fettered only to the wishes I've become;
to stand inspired, the taste of wine upon my lips in fields of silver thorns, where never beast has trod till home in dusky twilight my imaginings will wend.

when evening, winter's footman, moves to greet the distant endless train of seasons as they run from vale to vale, and over hilltops crowned in gold
I gather up the dreams around my feet and save them till this grand illusion calls again.

By Saranac Lake

Softly hum the night-sounds
Hushed, the water nudges shore
Clear against vast ebony
Silhouettes of patterned leaves.

Feeling for the pathway.
Brushed by branches, stickly weeds.
Cold on bare feet, smooth worn granite
Sloping lakewards steeply.

Enchanted in the night-sounds
Seated on the stone-hewn dock
Somewhere heard a beckoning
Echoing from all around.

Clear against vast ebony
Companion in the stillness found
Softly treading to the heart
And stepping inside quietly.
Listen, ponder . . . see.

My Duke

I got down off the back of the motorcycle.
"Mom, Dad, this is Duke."

There was a soft kerplop as my mother hit the driveway. My father's eyes widened as he took in every detail of my intended's appearance, from his faded jeans, leather jacket, chains, and tattooed biceps, to his razor stubble and eyepatch. I could tell they were impressed.

Dad swallowed nervously, hesitantly extended his hand, and stammered, "N-nice to meet you, Duke. I-I'm Janice's father."

Duke pulled off his black leather gloves and grunted his greeting as he grasped my father's quaking hand.

The introductions completed, Dad stopped to pick Mom up as I happily led Duke into our family home, overjoyed that they were hitting it off so well. Dad set Mom gingerly on the living room sofa as I ushered Duke onto a large comfortable chair.

"I'm sure you two can find something to talk about while I make some tea," I said, starting toward the kitchen. My father shot me a look of helplessness and utter despair as I made my exit.

"So Duke," my father began feebly. "That's a nice motorcycle you have there."

Duke grunted, acknowledging the fact, and silence reigned until I returned.

I set the china teapot, cups and saucers down on the table, along with a plate of little sandwiches I had found in the refrigerator. With the grace of a natural born hostess, I poured the tea into the delicate, handpainted china teacups. Since Mother was still out cold, I didn't pour her any tea. Instead, I offered a cup to my father and one to Duke. I gave my beloved a loving smile. He picked up his cup daintily in his fingertips with his little finger extended, stuck the whole cup in his mouth and crunched once before swallowing. There was a gasp from the other side of the room as my mother sat straight and moaned. She then collapsed again with her hand dramatically on her forehead. The only further movement in the room was that of the blood draining from my father's face.

Duke broke the tableau with a large belch. A few seconds later, I asked my strangely silent parents, "I bet you're wondering how Duke and I met, aren't you?" Much too hastily, Dad nodded agreement and placed his untouched tea back on the table.

"Well," I began. "I was driving through the east side when my car died, and no one would stop to help me. Finally, Duke, the Good Samaritan that he is, left his gang and carried my car back home for me. Wasn't that romantic? I mean, I always told you I'd marry into nobility; it's just like a living dream. Isn't that right, honey?"

Duke grunted his agreement and started cleaning his fingernails with a large Bowie knife. Mother stood up a bit wobbly and came over to join the group. She made an ineffective attempt at nonchalance as she moved all the china away from Duke's side of the table.

"Janice, may I speak to you for a moment in the kitchen?" she asked politely. (Too politely.)

I trailed after her into the kitchen, wondering what Duke and Dad could discuss this time. As soon as the door closed behind me, my mother turned with a sickly sweet smile.

"Ah, Janice, dear, are you sure this . . . um . . . Duke is who you want to spend the rest of your life with? I mean, I'm sure he's very nice, . . . but

"Oh yes, Mom!" I burst out enthusiastically, blatantly ignoring her concern. "He's wonderful, and we're going to be so happy!" With that, I flounced back into the living room. Dad seemed rather pale and shaky. I made a mental note to ask Mom about his health.

Duke stood up with a grunt signifying that he felt it was time to leave. Hand in hand, my beloved and I bid a fond farewell to my parents and promised to let them know when we set a date for the wedding.

During the ride home, I leaned forward and yelled in Duke's ear. (I had to yell in order to be heard over the roar of the motorcycle) "So, what do you think of my parents, honey? I can tell they just loved you!"

Duke grunted.

My life was perfect.

They walk up to the tee-off
And place the ball up high.
They pivot right, then pivot left,
Then swing it to the sky.

The Lake is long, the waters deep,
The ball is quite brand new,
A little smurk of confidence,
The ball soars out of view.

Collects his tee, and grabs his clubs,
And then records his score,
Pulls out a rag, and wipes his face
And marches on for more.

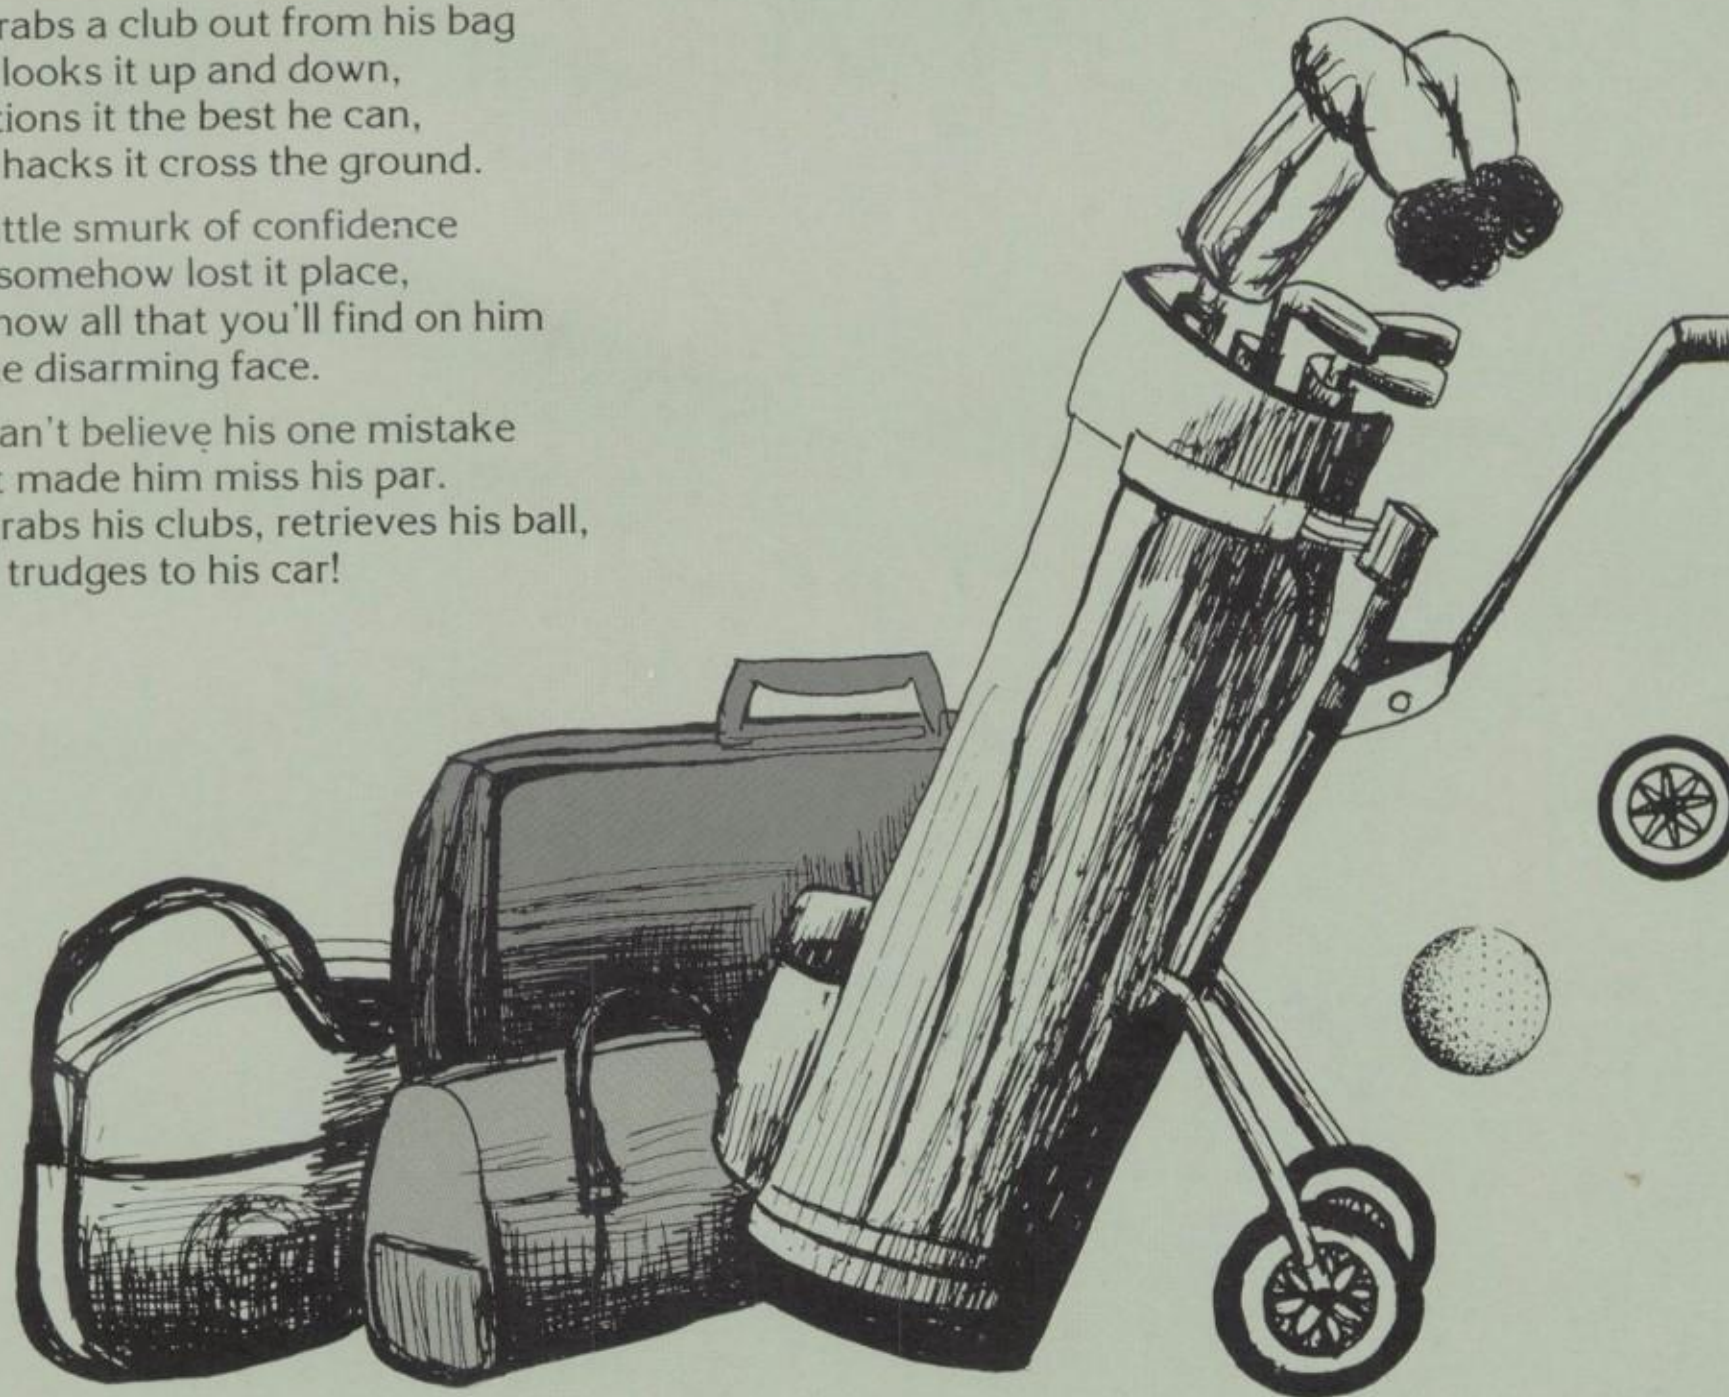

Next to a tree that's halfway dead
Upon crisp autumn leaves,
Lies his ball all scratched and torn
From soaring through the trees.

He grabs a club out from his bag
And looks it up and down,
Positions it the best he can,
And hacks it cross the ground.

His little smurk of confidence
Has somehow lost it place,
For now all that you'll find on him
Is one disarming face.

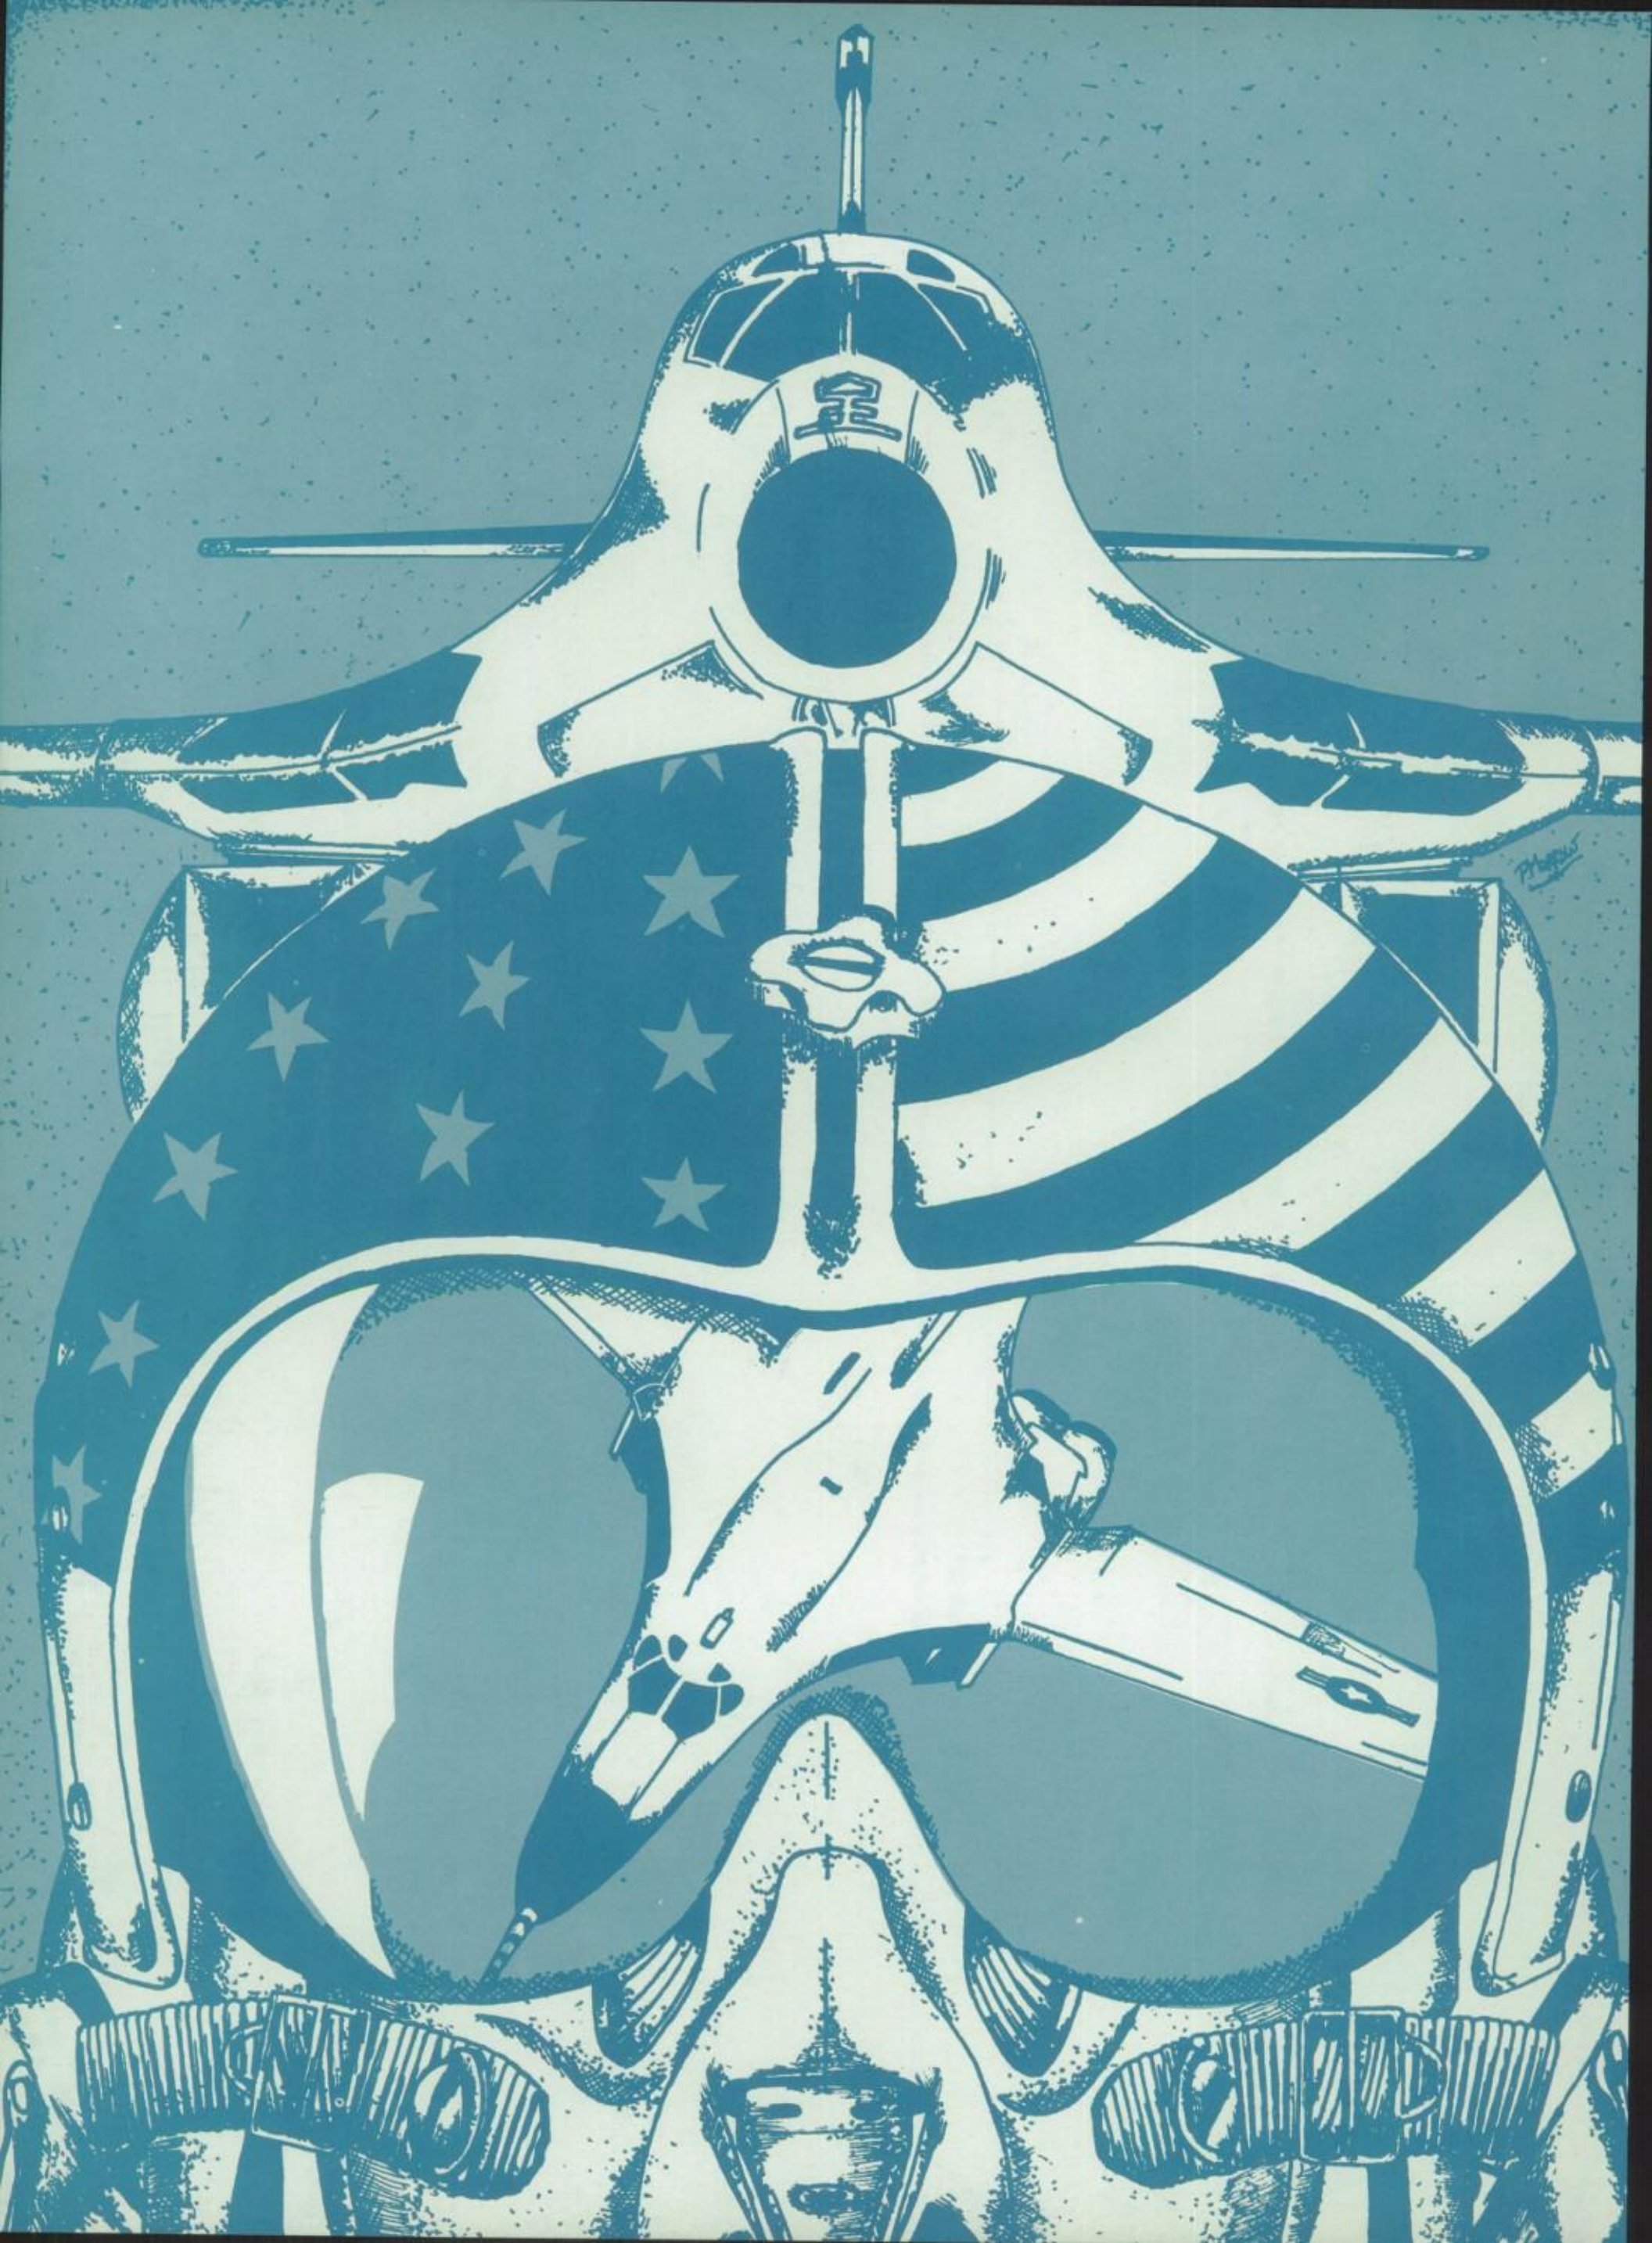

He can't believe his one mistake
That made him miss his par.
He grabs his clubs, retrieves his ball,
And trudges to his car!

Warmonger
Warmonger
Child's play no longer

Where have the tides taken you?
Have your childish dreams come true?

Go get your toys, little boy Ben Charge! Charge! My plastic army men

Hey, that's not fair — your tanks dead
No it isn't dummy — your cannons dead
Hey, I've got it! Nobody's dead!
So let's keep playing, let's have a war!

War, war, you've got it now
But now you're one of the plastic army men
Moved by society's bigger children

War, war, it's not fun anymore
With real guns and artillery roar
When you're dead
    you're dead

THE CAVERNS OF CREASTUS

Muse, in these words let me speak of a great encounter.
Let me speak of the adventures of Sehran, that clever
And cunning warrior in battle and leader of men.
Let me speak also of his band of warriors, the best
Of their trades and the most loyal to be found;
In their struggles against all odds in the caverns
Of the War-God, Créastus.

The day began quietly.
And, as the warriors awoke, they were all greeted
By the morning sun, oh so welcome, as they had not seen
Her shining face in days. Otammon, one of the few Surviving warriors, went up to Sehran.
"What troubles you so, my leader?" said he.
"We are not home. We are not safe, yet..."
"And what of that?" the inquisitive Otammon requested.
"I...we must return to defeat Créastus and be freed
From this labyrinth of death. We are now safe from it,
But we have nowhere to go."

"And what is your strategy?"
"Not now, I will tell all when the time is good."

And as Euredia looked on,
The mortals below went about their duties; but she,
Goddess of cunning and battle, was looking upon Sehran,
The leader.

Sehran was in his shelter,
Writing in his log of the adventures and misfortunes
Of him and his men since they had entered the caverns
Of Créastus in search of the legendary plunder of Troy,
Cast there long ago by unknown heroes.

He wrote:

"The day was normal, but with one difference.
That was the day in which I led my men into
A place where I myself may not return. We Entered. In the first hall we found, to our disbelief, a huge statue of the war-god Créastus.
The statue spoke.

"Why do you invade
My temple, mortals?"

Flames burst from its Mouth, burning two of my men to ashes. They Screamed and reached out, then silence.
We ran for our lives, losing another man in
The panic. Then, moving on, we came to a sentry.
The creature was asleep. I creaped forward.
Silently I removed its weapon, then we moved on.

Euredia must have been
On our side that day, as we had no other losses
Or major encounters. That night, we camped
In a large hall with a floor covered with moss.

We slept well.
Euredia came to me in a dream that night, and Told me how my men and I could accomplish
Our daring feat. In that dream I also saw Another god, and it is only now that I realize
That it was Créastus, the dreaded wargod
And Lord of this temple.

He spoke,
"Why do you assist these mortals in their quest, Euredia?"

"Sehran, the great warrior,
Is among them, and I wish him to live, as he is Worthy to challenge the gods of old and new to Accomplish his goal."

"Then let us make a bargain.
He will be yours, but I will decide the fate of His men."

Euredia, seeing the insight
Of this move, agreed. "Let Sehran's men be yours."
She said, "but do not overwhelm them; let them Die in vain and mystery."

The next morning, however, there was bad news.
Decranus, one of my best men, was gone. His Equipment was in a shambles and his bedding
Was shredded. In spite of this new loss, we Had to move on.

Soon thereafter, we came
To an underground stream. As the water was not Very swift, we proceeded to cross it. Toward the Center of the stream, however, we began to feel an Undertow. The current rose up, and we, like Straws in the flood, were swept downstream, into
The depths of unknown caverns. We were swept
By the current for hours, and when we finally Reached land, exhaustion took control, and we Slept a troubled sleep.

When we awoke, I took
A count of the survivors. Of twenty-five men,
Only seven remained.

Weary and unarmed, we
Wandered about the endless caverns for days
Without seeing a thing. Finally, we saw a light.
And, running to it, we found food and supplies Fit for the finest of warriors. We prayed to Euredia, and held feast in her name.

Art and literary work by Chris Williams

Now we must again return to the place which Destroyed our comrades, to perish ourselves."

With those words, Sehran closed his log, perhaps for
The last time. He summoned his men.

"I have a strategy," he said.
"It will be dangerous, but we have no choice."

With that Sehran told his men where the plunder of Troy
Lay, and how he planned to get it, as Euredia had told Him. They reentered the tunnels.

Moving quickly, Sehran took
The men to the first of the three obstacles guarding the Treasure room. It was the cyclops.

When they came to its Chamber, the men brought out many urns of wine, then
All hid in the shadows. The cyclops came forward and,
Seeing the wine, began to drink. When he was done with The wine, the creature went to sleep. The warriors came Forward and, working swiftly, killed the creature. By Sehran's command, they cut out the one eye and burned it.
By breathing in the smoke of the fire, they got new Strength.

The second obstacle was a
Behemoth. In this case, the men surrounded the creature
In two circles. When the behemoth broke through the First ring, it was pushed back by the second ring. In

In this way the creature was severely wounded, and even-Tually killed, but at the expense of two of Sehran's seven Remaining warriors.

The third and final obstacle
Was the colossus. When the men reached its chamber,
They again set down many urns of wine, but the colossus,
Seeing their trick, sniffed out three of them like a hound
Dog, killing them in one blow.

Seeing the futility of the Men's situation, cunning goddess Euredia shrouded Sehran
In a mist of invisibility so that only he could escape
From a certain death in the clutches of the colossus.
Having escaped, Sehran went deeper into the chamber.
There he found the lost plunder of Troy, guarded by the War-god Créastus. Créastus appeared to him.

"You may take any one Piece from this chamber," he said, "but no more than That by penalty of death."

Taking heed of this warning, Sehran quickly found a Talisman that suited him.
But as he looked at it, a piece fell off. Thinking he Could get it repaired later, Sehran put both pieces in His pack and followed the now lighted tunnels to the Freedom outside; but as he left, he realized that he had Been tricked by Créastus, but it was too late, he had
Two pieces of treasure in his pack, and the angry god
Had his revenge.

She Is the Dove

She is the dove that sits at my window

She sings to me of wisdom

Her feathers curve the wind while she perches

And tells me of my kingdom.

Her eyes gleam in the streaming sunshine

With stillness of coming Autumn

But her wings speak most of all, and yearn for her past freedom.

She is the fox that flees my hunters; she is quick and graceful

Her eyes — all seeing — dart about her

Though sometimes soft and playful.

Her mind — all knowing, is never sleeping

She's cunning, alert,

And able to read my thoughts

And every day it makes her more hateful.

She is the dove that turns from my window,

Her talons long and graceless.

The feathers she bears grow ruffled in anger,

Her body trembling — faceless.

She averts her gaze to the grass far below her

To try to veil the madness

But it's the heart inside that's close to dying,

The candle that blew out in the wind before is being lighted again;

A new babe at the castle door has raised the hearts of men.

A new cause dawns over the burning plain

Left long ago for dead,

And the moment before she leaps to fly,

The soft dove turns her head . . .

Marble

In the night it was a gallstone
 From a ghoul as dead as sin
 But in the light, it was my marble
 Full of colors trapped within
 And in the late afternoon
 When the air had turned so bold
 It became a warlock's mind, calculating, evil, cold
 At noon it was a talisman
 At five it was a dolphin's eye
 At seven, a witch's bauble
 And a demigod at nine
 For, as I held it in my palm
 This chameleon-sphere did change
 I cradled it with my shaking hands,
 And watched it rearrange
 That night, it became a butterfly
 Trapped in a silver glass
 Wings beating in time with my heart,
 At dusk, it was a specter
 In a cloak of ebony
 Concealed by shades of darkness
 Marbled mystery.

and making more sense than all the world puttogether want to make people laugh first and then cry

drip drop puddles like clear blue sky i can see me in them but there's no you in me there's just me all alone

 no you

oh well me's okay i can pretend me is you for a while

Did You Ever?

Did you ever stop to listen
To the pouring of the rain,
Or the constant loud vibration
Of a never ending train?

Did you ever sit and wonder
Why the grass grows tall and green?
Why the cracking of the thunder
Sounds so loud, so close, and mean?

Did you ever look upon a star
And dream of things to be?
A castaway aboard a ship
Bound for the perilous sea.

Did you ever dream of something wild
To do or to become,
To take a trip across the stars,
The planets, and the sun?

Did you ever lay in bed all night
But never fall asleep,
Or want something you just can't have,
Or isn't yours to keep?

Sunset

The silhouette of rooftops frames the confines of the material world upon the westward sky. Rising above the sunken sun, a surging collage of color and emotion opens to the sky's untouchable vastness. Warm pastels of red, orange and yellow highlighting the few wisps of cloud that layer the horizon recede, giving way to an awakening twilight. Awesome in its darkness, it envelops the world, somber and opaque, save a lone star and the hint of a pale, chalkdust moon, ascending from the rooftops.

It was cast and scattered wisped and whipped poorly cared for and in pain pressed down upon spat upon by the snow and by the rain

It was taken away along with so many as they journeyed east down the line so tossed and touched mauled and roughed beaten to no sense of time

They went on like this propelled by fear
the fear of turning back struggling onward
Reaching for nothing searching in the black.

They were all soon together in a rhythm, a motion almost a river of their souls cascading over the world a never ending destiny
braving the heat and cold

They seemed mindless in the quest just going never a decision or truth continuing, just continuing never an end
a continuance of naiveté and of simple youth

Like a string around the world that just never begins
just being, unvaried, never an end
I stood there on the seashore hearing nothing, and only feeling mesmerized by watching sand in the wind.

He's A Modern Cliche

Cruising down the popular strip
Looking for the hot spots,
Searching for a pill popping trip
Tired of watching the spinning dials
And the trends, fads, and changing styles
He's a modern cliché
Made of paper maché

He's a puppet of a puppeteer named fear
Caught in delusions of cocktails and beer
He's lost in a mechanical society
Swill for the political monstrosity

A man of utter confusion
Without a modern solution
The gas pumps are hissing
Flashing lights and logic missing

He's an urbanite
He's a suburbanite
Giving up the rat race Hanging from the tail of a kite

Laughing as he skips through poppy pipe dreams
Waking to reality, waking to the sound of his own screams
He's a wind-up man
He's a wound up man
He's walking through brick walls
Writing on the bathroom stalls

He's a modern cliché
Made of paper maché

He is burning now
He's burning now
A human piñata
Of flaming magenta

Around the concrete world he spins and spins
Dancing through alleys and nuclear waste bins

He's a man made man Escaping a political plan
Searching for some realities
Finding only pain and empty hostilities

He's fading now
He's fading now
A burnt out cliché
Made of ash!

For him . . . it is a way of life
Living it to its exhaustive limit upon a crystal sheet
In a cold, silent world he feels total rule . . .
domination over all . . . defying gravity at every chance
No angle is too great; no terrain too ill-conditioned or complex
His mastery of reflex and balance gives him yet another edge to cut deeply into the unmarked crystal expanse
His life is challenge, excitement, and freedom
He feels it . . .
He breathes it . . .
He lives it . . .
He is . . . the skier.

on this concrete field flung wide, and bare where slowly moving lights, and strings of lights emerge in patterned calm, and disappear:
 from within this almost-church I hear the engine roar, and watch the beast in metal skin and lighted glass: yellow, green, and whirling red.
 drawn to the beckoning corridor
 I pass the gleaming smile, the shiny door down the low and empty aisle passing rows of seats that smell of nothing sitting by a window looking out until I see the buildings and the towers rolling by;
 and this stainless creature greets the stars, and falls into the sky
